HALL MAID DENIES MRS. HALL LISTENED TO TRYST MESSAGE

DEFENSE HOLDS CASE IS PUBLICITY PLOT

Publisher, Who Traces Card, Denies Charge; Women Tell of Gossipers.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 12 (By A. P.). — One telephone conversation between the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, who were slain in a double murder four years ago, was described today in the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the minister's widow, and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens.

The testimony was given by Louise Geist Riehl, a former maid in the Hall household.

Mrs. Riehl, who was Louise Geist when she was employed in the Hall home, told of answering a ring of the telephone in the late afternoon of September 14, 1922. The murders were committed on the night of September 14. The former maid said she recognized the voice of Mrs. Mills inquiring for Mr. Hall. Mrs. Hall, said the witness, also started to answer the call at another telephone on the floor below but replaced the receiver and walked away when informed that the call was for Mr. Hall and that he had called from a bathroom that he would answer it.

The State submitted that at a grand jury investigation in 1922, the witness had said that she did not know whether Mrs. Hall heard the conversation.

Hall's Words Quoted.

The one-sided dialogue as repeated today quoted Mr. Hall:

"Yes, yes, yes, that's too bad. I was going to the church a little later, can't we make an arrangement for about a quarter to eight?"

Mrs. Riehl said that the minister later went out with the explanation to Mrs. Hall, that he was going to "see about Mrs. Mills' hospital bill," with the added assurance that he would not be late returning. During the examination as to possible conflict between her testimony of 1922 and that of today, Mrs. Riehl lost the calm assurance she had had during her stay on the stand. She plainly was annoyed as she pounded her gloved hands against the side of the witness box and almost shouted in reply to the questions of Special Prosecutor Simpson.

She said that when she retired between 9:30 and 10 o'clock the night of September 14, she left Mrs. Hall playing solitaire in the library. Early next morning, she said that she saw Willie Stevens in the dining room and that when she asked the reason for his unusually early rising, he replied:

"I would rather not tell you. I would rather Mrs. Hall told you. Something terrible has happened. Mr. Hall has not come home all night."

Mrs. Hall Wept.

She quoted Mrs. Hall as saying that night, in bidding her brother, Willie Stevens, goodnight, that "I thought he would come last night, but he won't come tonight. I knew he must be dead or he would have communicated with me."

The witness quoted her employer again, in a conversation developed by the maid's question as to whether she should keep Mr. Hall's breakfast warm the morning after the killing. She said that Mrs. Hall, with her eyes red from weeping, replied:

"No; Mr. Hall hasn't been home all night. I don't know where he is and I can't imagine what has happened to him."

An effort at one telephone conversation, which failed to materialize, was described by Miss Millie Opie, a dressmaker and neighbor of Mrs. Mills, at the time of the singer's death. She also said that Mr. Hall visited Mrs. Mills often, "too frequently," in the opinion of the neighborhood.

Two New York newspaper men, who told of the transfer of a calling card, figuring largely in the case, from New Jersey to New York and back again, the undertaker who prepared the bodies of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills for burial, and Miss Barbara Tough, who told names of guild members who gossiped about Mr. Hall's friendship

Queen Cancels Penalties For West Point Cadets

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Queen Marie of Roumania, on her recent visit to the United States Military Academy exercised a royal privilege, it became known today, when, with a wave of her hand, she wiped out all punishment for minor offenses.

An ancient custom at the academy calls for a general remitting of punishments whenever a royal visitor makes the request.

The order of Brig. Gen. Stewart, commandant of the academy, remitting the unexecuted portions of all ordinary and special punishments awarded up to and including October 26, states, "This action is taken as a compliment to the distinguished visitors themselves and as a mark of regard for the great nation which they represent and to which our country is bound by ties of gratitude and disinterested support at a crisis in our history which it is a pleasure to acknowledge in this manner."

HILL MAY REJOIN PARTY

Queen Marie's Train at St. Louis, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—St. Louis claimed Queen Marie today for 24 hours with a long program of entertainment, but which provided for several rest periods so she might have plenty of relaxation after many days of almost continuous traveling.

Only a few hundred persons gathered at the station to greet the royal party, but thousands were ready for a demonstration when the visitors motored through the business section during the noon hour. A 21-gun salute marked Marie's entrance into the city, after which Mayor Miller and his reception committee officially extended greetings.

After the first rest period at the queen's hotel, the party began its tour of the business section, stopping at St. Louis university to meet the students.

Prince Nicolas was detached from his mother and sister for lunch today, being the guest of the Young Men's Christian association while Queen Marie and Princess Ileana were guests at another affair.

A visit to Washington university, reception of Roumanian residents and attendance at a horse show tonight completed the program.

The child, daughter of Mrs. Marie Weber, was christened in the

MYSTERY SHOOTING CLOSES TWO BANKS

Runs Follow the Unexplained Wounding of 2 Bankers in Minnesota.

Detroit Lakes, Minn., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The mysterious shooting of two bankers in the Citizens State Bank of Callaway, Minn., was followed today by the closing of that bank and the Securities State Bank here because of depleted reserves.

Physicians said another 24 hours must elapse before they will permit authorities to question W. J. Norby, stockholder in the Callaway bank, and Frank Murphy, its cashier, found in the bank Tuesday suffering from bullet wounds.

H. S. Erickson, president of the Callaway bank, also is cashier of the Security Bank here, and both institutions were closed after runs had caused withdrawals imperilling their resources, the banks' officials said.

A. O. Sletvold, county attorney, said he had found nothing in the closing to warrant any action by him.

"Hot Dogs" and Pies Barred in Schools

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 12.—"Hot dogs," along with pie and all sorts of pastries, have been banned from the high school lunch counters by officials of the board of education.

Acting on instructions of Dr. William J. O'Shea, the department issued the order several days ago. It became effective today. Indigestion, in an alarming number of cases is being reported, board officials explained.

HOUSE COMMITTEE MEMBERS PROPOSE DISTRICT HEAD TAX

Assessor Questioned as to Advisability of Per Capita Levy.

WOULD FORCE ALL TO SHARE BURDENS

Richards Urges Law to Bare Consideration in All Sales of Real Estate.

The House District investigating subcommittee discussed an income and per capita tax yesterday. Representatives Gibson, of Vermont, chairman, and Houston, of Delaware, conducting the hearings, made known that they were seriously considering the latter as the only means of bringing the whole population to contribute to the support of the government.

Tax Assessor Richards, pointing out that everybody pays taxes either directly or indirectly, declared he could not become enthusiastic over the per capita levy, and Collector Towers, who was asked the advisability of substituting an income tax for that on intangibles and tangible personal property, did not commit himself.

Towers did urge, however, that motorists be required to pay the property tax on their automobiles when they pay for licenses. Both Mr. Gibson and Mr. Houston heartily agreed with him but inclined to the opinion, especially Mr. Houston, that it would be better to increase the registration fee and abolish the automobile property tax.

Wants Consideration Figures.

Mr. Richards urged legislation requiring that statements of property transfers be filed with him showing the true consideration in order that assessments could be based on it. In the bill passed at the last session of Congress changing the time for filing returns and making payments, there was a provision calling for such statements, but opposition developed from real estate operators to the extent that the whole bill was jeopardized and the clause was stricken out.

Mr. Richards, subject of frequent criticism in Congress for what are said to be low assessments, declared that information as to the real prices paid in property transfers would greatly assist him. It would

Law Lists Mad Dogs As Insane Humans

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Bombay, Nov. 12.—The city council of Ahmedabad, the second largest city in the Bombay Presidency, has passed a law condemning the killing of mad dogs and prohibiting the policy of killing vagrant dogs, declaring that mad dogs are the same as human lunatics and must be treated and put in asylums the same as human lunatics. The society known as Jains, whose creed is nonviolence, has raised 100,000 rupees ($36,000) to build a dog lunatic asylum, following the council's action.

"Eternal" Cloud Pillar Missing Second Day

Kansas City, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). The pillar of cloud at Kansas City's Liberty memorial, turned on yesterday "for all time," was missing this morning. Its absence was due to the neglect of some one to tell the memorial superintendent of the "forever" part. He was notified and the cloud again issued from the top of the memorial shaft. The pillar of cloud is controlled by releasing steam from the huge bowl atop the shaft. Colored lights made it appear a "pillar of fire" by night.

Youth Who Killed To Wed Must Die

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Robert Lee Bennett, who was accused of slaying his grandmother last July to obtain money so that he might marry, today faces the electric chair. The 20-year-old youth heard a jury return a death verdict after deliberating an hour last night.

Throughout the trial, and during the final moments when the jury discussed his fate, he was consoled by Miss Evelyn Cook, his fiancee. The girl says she intends to marry Bennett, even though he is under sentence of death.

FRENCH DEPUTIES VOTE CONFIDENCE IN PREMIER

DEBT IS NOT DISCUSSED

Paris, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Premier Poincare today won a vote of confidence for his government on the reopening of parliament and at the same time declined to be drawn into debate on Franco-Italian relations centering about the Ventimiglia incident and the Garibaldi affair.

The vote of confidence came after a three-hour debate in the chamber, in which every subject of current interest, excepting the war debts, was discussed. The premier demanded that all interpellations be postponed and that the budget for 1927 be cleaned up as quickly as possible. He considered this demand of such importance that he made it a question of confidence and in this was supported by a vote of 365 to 207.

When the chamber reconvened this afternoon there was a long list of would-be interpellations. Thereupon Premier Poincare declared that he was opposed to any oratory until the budget had been disposed of.

Every interpellator had five minutes to discuss the motion. Those who did take the floor, one after the other, took Premier Mussolini, of Italy, as their theme. Socialists and communists demanded whether the French government could not take care that the Italian premier should find "diversions from his difficulties elsewhere than in France."

But the premier refused to be drawn out, his only retort being that the financial situation was much improved, that it was possible to compromise it again by imprudences and that enough already had been said on the proposed interpellations. The chamber agreed with him by a majority of 158.

Dr. G. D. Olds Resigns Amherst Presidency

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—President George Daniel Olds, of Amherst college, who in 36 years of service had four times been called as acting head of the institution before his appointment as president in 1924, today made public his resignation.

Dr. Olds told the annual meeting of the alumni council that he had asked last month to be relieved of the office. Edward T. Estey, secretary of the corporation, said that no action had been taken on the resignation.

President Coolidge entered Amherst the year that Dr. Olds began teaching there and the two have remained close friends. John Coolidge, son of the president, is a student at Amherst now.

U. S. Flier, Confined By Mexico, Released

San Diego, Calif., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Held a prisoner by the Mexican military authorities at Ensenada after he was compelled by engine trouble to make a forced landing near the Lower California port Thursday afternoon in his Boeing fighting plane, Lieut. Joseph Gowan, attached to fighting squadron 2, battle fleet, was ordered released today by Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez. Gowan returned to the North island naval air station with his plane.

Rear Admiral Josiah McKean, commandant of the Eleventh naval district, telegraphed to Gov. Rodriguez explaining that the naval aviator's visit to Ensenada was not intentional. The governor immediately telegraphed to Ensenada to release Lieut. Gowan and his plane.

CONGRESS CHIEFS COLD TO COOLIDGE TAX REFUND PLAN

Fairness of Proposal Is Questioned by House Chairman Green.

LEADERS AT CAPITOL STRESS LACK OF TIME

Conflict Seen As to What Class of Taxpayers Shall Receive Benefits.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Lip service given by administration leaders is up to the moment the only form of indorsement that President Coolidge's proposal for a tax rebate on 1926 incomes appears to be receiving.

Canvass of senators and representatives now in the Capital, and there are enough members here to obtain a rather accurate cross section of legislative opinion, indicates that the prospects of any form of tax legislation being adopted at the December session are slight.

The proposal has no enthusiastic supporters other than those men whose duty it is to carry through any administration measure, and it has a great many outright opponents, some lukewarm supporters and almost as many men interested in making variations in the President's plan as there are senators and representatives.

Five senators, representing as many of the schools of thought now common to the Senate, have within the last few days expressed the opinion that it will be impossible to get any tax measure through both houses between December 6 and March 4.

Application in Doubt.

Actually, there will be less time than that to get the tax cut passed, since Representative W. R. Green, of Iowa, chairman of the ways and means committee, has announced that it will be January before any such measure can get through the House. Yesterday Representative Green struck another pessimistic note when he predicted that the reduction "if adopted will bring much conflict as to how it is to be applied."

The greatest obstacle to smooth passage for the bill can be traced to the fact that the President apparently took none of the men whose duty it will be to frame and maneuver the bill through Congress into his confidence prior to the announcement of his intention to ask for such legislation.

The Treasury Department alone has given whole-hearted aid, even though it was forced first to revise the chief executive's proposal.

There has been no indication, however, that Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, or Representative Green relish the fact that such a move was decided upon without seeking their advice. The senator particularly seems to have suffered a considerable affront to his dignity.

Opposition Gains Strength.

Coincident with this lack of enthusiasm, which the administration suggestion for tax relief has creat-

MARRIAGE OF DUKE ANNULLED BY CHURCH

Decision on Marlborough's Plea by Diocesan Court Upheld at Rome.

Rome, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, in 1895 has been declared null by the Catholic diocesan court of Southwick, according to a semiofficial statement given out today at the Vatican.

The semiofficial statement says that the annullment was granted first by the Southwick court and then was confirmed by the Holy Rota tribunal in July of this year and that the interested parties were notified at the beginning of August. This statement came somewhat as a surprise, as, according to one Vatican authority yesterday, nothing had been received regarding the case.

UNCLE JOE CANNON DIES IN SLEEP AT AGE OF 90

BURIAL LIKELY TUESDAY

Danville, Ill., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The fiery spirit of Joseph Gurney Cannon, dimmed to an ember by the weight of 90 years, was quenched today by death.

In the home from which he went to Congress 53 years ago, and amid walls laden with the trophies of his public life, the patriarch died at high noon, in the midst of a deep sleep.

Weakening of the heart muscles caused his death, but the general depredations of old age had warned his family several months ago that the end was near. He told comrades in the National House when he quit its halls in 1922 that he was going home to die, home to the rambling brown brick mansion which he built 65 years ago for his bride, who preceded him to the grave.

After his retirement from Congress he continued his daily walks downtown beneath the elms of Vermillion street, and the most cartooned face in America was daily visible behind the brown curtains of the Second National Bank which he helped found. But several months ago he was forced to forego his walks, and he turned to a daily motor outing, which he continued until a few weeks ago.

His mind faded with his body, and he could recall but dimly, after his ninetieth birthday last May, the scenes with which his long congressional service was vivid. Not waning memory, however, could keep him inactive, and his last public act four months ago, was to turn the sod for a new church for the St. James' Methodist Episcopal congregation. Born a Quaker, he joined the Methodist church after leaving Congress and each Sunday until recent weeks found him in the pew his

Will Rogers Lists Reed, as Fighter, With James Boys

Special to The Washington Post.

Corsicana, Tex., Nov. 12.—President Coolidge, in his speech lauding the names and bravery of Missouri and Kansas fighters, left out the bravest ones of all, the James boys and Jim Reed. All three of them were raised under the very shadow of the monument. Whoever compiled his local data was either ignorant or a Republican, perhaps both. Jim Reed has fought the Republicans single handed fifteen years and never even asked for an armistice.

Yours for more accurate armistice speeches.

DESERTED MAN SHOOTS GIRL, TURNS GUN ON SELF

SUICIDE THREAT IN NOTE

Adam Maccarelli, 23 years old, of New York city, last night shot and seriously wounded Hazel Lafferty, 20 years old, at her home, 1215 Ninth street northwest, and then fired a bullet into his head. He is dying in Emergency hospital. Miss Lafferty will recover, physicians said.

Maccarelli and the Lafferty girl, police were told, had been living in New York city for the last two years. Two weeks ago her 2-year-old child died, and the girl came to this city to live with her mother, Mrs. Bessie Lafferty, at the Ninth street address.

Three days ago she received a letter from Maccarelli stating that he was coming to this city to give her $100 with which to buy a tombstone for the child, who is buried in New York.

Last night, shortly after 9 o'clock, Maccarelli went to the Ninth street address and pleaded with the girl to return to New York with him. She refused. Maccarelli then asked for a drink of water.

The girl told him to go into the kitchen where her mother was sit-

Mail Plane Passenger Loses Life in Crash

Van Nuys, Calif., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Donald Rossiter, 21, of Los Angeles, a passenger, was killed when a northbound air mail plane of the Pacific Air Transport Co. crashed from an altitude of 3,800 feet into Whitley canyon, 3 miles south of here, early today. The pilot, Charles E. Widmer, also of Los Angeles, jumped to safety with the aid of his parachute.

BRIBED RUM GUARDS GET YULE CLEMENCY

Andrews Permits Two to Eat Christmas Dinner at Their Homes.

Prison terms of two coast guardsmen, sentenced for accepting bribes from run runners, were cut down yesterday by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, chief of the prohibition enforcement machinery, so that the men might go home to their Christmas dinners.

The men, with six others, were court-martialed at the Shipbottom station in New Jersey. The sentences of all but the two will be completed before Christmas, and when Senator Edwards and Senator Edge, of New Jersey, appealed to coast guard officials and then to Gen. Andrews for the Christmas dinner at home for the two sentenced to serve six months, a reduction of two months was ordered.

AERIAL GANG WAR LIKELY TO FOLLOW ILLINOIS BOMBING

HOMES ARE FIRED ON; BIRGERITES BLAMED

One, Occupied by Brother of Mayor, Called Hang-Out of the Shelton Group.

Marion, Ill., Nov. 12 (By A. P.). The airplane and aerial bomb today were added to armored cars, machine guns and other novel weapons used in the southern Illinois gang warfare between the rival Shelton and Birger liquor factions.

Flying low over Shady Rest, a roadhouse operated by Charley Birger, gang leader, 10 miles east of Marion, an unidentified aviator dropped a bomb which failed to explode.

Seven or eight gangsters then ran out of the place and began firing at the plane with rifles and machine guns as it circled around again and dropped two more bombs.

One was a dud. The other exploded in the woods 100 yards from the roadhouse.

Aviator Is Not Struck.

The gun fire did not find its mark, but the aviator flew away rapidly to the north. The attacking plane bore no marks of identification, and the pilot could not be seen clearly from the ground. One witness said he believed a second man was in the cockpit.

No damage was done by the explosion, but Birger, who was at his home at Harrisburg at the time, was wrought up over the new method of waging war against him.

"There'll be something popping off here now," he told a newspaper correspondent. "They can't try that stuff on me. I'll get an airplane, if I can, and I'll use it, too."

The air raid apparently was in reply to an early morning visit today by alleged Birger gangsters at West City, near Benton, 20 miles north of here, where they poured a heavy machine gun and rifle fire into two houses in a neighborhood frequented by the Sheltonites.

Mayor's Brother in One.

One of the houses is occupied by Gus Adams, brother of the 300-pound mayor of the town, Joe Adams, and the other is the home of Mrs. Mary Loughran, an elderly widow. Both homes have been described by Birger as Shelton hangouts, and Mayor Adams, who lives nearby, has admitted that he some time ago enlisted the Sheltons' aid to protect himself from Birger, who, he declared, had threatened his life.

Shortly after the shooting, Carl and Bernie Shelton, gang leaders, were arrested on the streets of Benton by six postoffice inspectors, assisted by the sheriff of Franklin county, a deputy sheriff and a deputy United States marshal. The Sheltons did not resist.

Their arrest disclosed that they and another man, whose name is withheld, had been indicted by a Federal grand jury at Springfield, Ill., last Tuesday for alleged complicity in the $15,000 robbery of a 64-year-old postoffice messenger at Collinsville, Ill., a suburb of East St. Louis, on January 27, 1925.

Birger Had Accused Them.

The Sheltons owe their arrest largely to Birger, who has openly charged they committed the Collinsville robbery. Their bonds were set at $60,000. They were taken by train to East St. Louis, where an order for their removal to Springfield was obtained.

Twenty-six machine gun and other bullet holes were counted in the Loughran house and nineteen bullet holes in the Gus Adams house.

Presumably the gunmen had intended to fire upon the mayor's house, but were mistaken as to its location. After one fussilade the gangsters speeded away.

Shelton gangsters, who formerly made their headquarters at the mayor's home, were driven out of Franklin county by the sheriff and State's attorney three weeks ago after the feud between the Birger and Shelton factions had become sanguinary. For a time the sheriff's office kept a guard at the mayor's house, as he declared his life had been threatened by the Birgers.

ANACOSTIA STARTS CITIZEN CAMPAIGN WITH GAY PARADE

Colorful Caravan Launches Drive to Double Size of Community's Association.

BELL LEADS PROCESSION IN LANE OF HUMANITY

Indian War Dance by Order of Red Men Reminds Spectators of Town's History.

Civic spirit ran high in Anacostia last night as that historic community launched a drive to double the size of its citizens association. It expressed itself in a colorful parade and a general outpouring for a festival in Logan square.

The parade came across the river and into the heart of northeast Washington, thus giving the residents of that section a chance to breathe in the spirit of the invaders.

While the parade essentially was an Anacostia enterprise, it served as a city-wide stimulus for the drive that is to be opened today by the Federation of Citizens associations to bring 50,000 persons into the ranks of organized citizenry.

Bell Heads Parade.

Engineer Commissioner Bell headed the parade, and behind him came 300 gaily-decorated automobiles and floats. Hundreds lined the sidewalks of Anacostia as the caravan rolled by, heralded by the roaring music of the drum and bugle corps of the Victory and Costello posts of the American Legion.

An Indian war dance later in Logan square, staged by the Independent Order of Red Men, served to remind the onlookers of Anacostia's long and colorful history, a history that began when dauntless Capt. John Smith and his followers landed there in 1608. The explorers found an Indian tribe known as the Nachontants, who later were named the Anacostines by Lord Baltimore's missionaries.

Anacostia was dressed up for the celebration last night. Flags floated from the windows of houses and stores, the multi-colored lights gleamed from the windows. Everywhere were placards bearing the community's new slogan, "Anacostia, a Tip Top Town."

After the parade circled Lincoln park in northeast Washington and had wound up at Logan square, the business of awarding prizes was begun.

Christmas Auto Wins.

An automobile decorated to present a Christmas morning scene was awarded first prize and $15 in the commercial class. The machine was driven by Max Simon and on the front bumper sat Max Levy, attired as Santa Claus.

Second prize went to the float of the Anacostia Flat Garden club, an organization of 210 Anacostians, who, from patriotic motives, transformed a section of reclaimed land into a beautiful and prolific garden during the war. The club's float was burdened with pumpkins and vegetables grown in the flat, part of a crop that at times has represented a value of $30,000. Sergt. Frank Dent, of the Eleventh precinct, is president of the club, and R. L. Scaggs is secretary.

First prize in the noncommercial class went to the float of Boy Scout troop 48 of Anacostia. The float simulated a scout camp fire scene, with a group of khaki-clad youngsters standing outside a tent.

Flivver is Second.

Second prize in this class was awarded to Thomas Flaherty, who drove past in a wheezy, broken-down flivver, alleged to have been motivated by soft coal. As it rumbled past, the crowds scattered to escape its exhaust. Flaherty paid $20 for the car, drove it to several nearby cities, and last night collected a prize of $10.

The costume parade in Logan square was a tribute to the fortitude of those who participated in it, for their costumes were scanty and the night was cold.

First prize was awarded to a tiny trio representing a wedding group. They were Adelaide Ferry, 6 years old, the bride; Bernadette Ferry, 9 years old, the maid of honor, and Leslie Byram, 7 years old, the bridegroom. After it was over, Adelaide burst into tears just like a grown-up bride. However, the tears were precipitated by the explosion of a photographer's flashlight.

Second prize went to Mrs. Julian Miller, 413 Eighth street southeast, who was disguised as a negro sport.

No Wedding Couple.

There was to have been a real wedding in Logan square, but no couple could be found with the necessary nerve. Not even the offer of a $250 installment on a house would lure a couple forward. Dr. George C. Havenner, veteran president of the Anacostia Citizens association, was chairman of the committee on arrangements. He said he expected that last night's demonstration would result in increasing the association's membership from 400 to 800.

MAN SHOOTS WOMAN; TURNS GUN ON SELF

ting. Maccarelli drew a .38-caliber pistol from his pocket and fired point blank at her face. The bullet entered the right cheek. When the girl fell to the floor Maccarelli placed the gun behind his right ear and fired. Mrs. Lafferty screamed. Her cries attracted William B. Hollwick, owner of the house, who was in another room. He summoned police.

A crudely written note, almost illegible, was found in Maccarelli's pocket at the hospital. It stated:

"I will kill myself because I can't do without her. She loves me and lived with me for a long long time. She see the baby death so I will let her me if I can't have Hazel Lafferty. She lives at 1215 Ninth street, Washington, D. C. I can't do without her. I will kill myself and be done with her that is only way to forget." It was signed "Adam Maccarelli."

Mrs. Lafferty told police that Maccarelli met her daughter while she was attending high school near Birdsboro, Pa. After a short courtship he persuaded her to run away to New York with him, she said. The mother said that her daughter frequently told her she did not love Maccarelli and was dissatisfied with their life, but she would not leave him because of the child.

Maccarelli, who is a plasterer, had more than $200 and 50 bullets in his pockets.

CITIZENS ORGANIZE AT WOODSIDE PARK

39 Property Owners Join the Association and Elect Ralph Lee President.

Adopting a constitution and by-laws, 39 property owners of Woodside Park, Md., met last night in the Grace Episcopal church, of Woodside, Md., and formally organized the Woodside Park Property Owners' association.

The organization announced as its purpose the promotion of the general welfare of the community and the preservation of the natural beauty of the countryside.

Members of the association plan to build homes harmonizing with the beauty of the landscape and follow the suggestions of the National Capital park and planning commission in making Woodside Park one of the showplaces of Washington.

Ralph Lee was elected president of the association. Other officers chosen were Dr. Philander D. Poston, vice president; R. F. D. Stimson, secretary, and V. E. Grottlisch, treasurer. Committee chairmen named were Mrs. Philander D. Poston, membership; Conrad H. Syme, public utilities and legislation; C. W. Williams, streets and grounds; Mrs. Archibald Small, community welfare; C. P. Lathrop, entertainment and publicity, and Ira C. Whittaker, ways and means.

Three Shop Windows Smashed by Woman

After smashing three show windows of shops at Fourteenth and R streets northwest last night, Miss Opal Murray, 36 years old, an inmate of St. Elizabeths hospital, was taken into custody by Policeman Tucker, of the Second precinct. Earlier in the night she had fled from the home of her parents at 56 Bates street northwest.

She was permitted yesterday to accompany her parents home for a visit. While at the house, she was upbraided for something she had done and a short time later disappeared from the house. Police were notified. She was returned to the hospital last night suffering from cuts to the hands, received when she thrust them through the show windows.

Red Cross Drive Tops $6,000 on Second Day

The $6,000 mark was passed yesterday in the tenth annual roll call of the District chapter of the American Red Cross. This was the second day, and $40,000 must be raised by Thanksgiving.

Contributors yesterday were Treasury Department employes, $361.10; Mount Vernon School for Girls, $157; National Cathedral School for Girls, $251; Woodward & Lothrop booth, $106. After a talk by Maj. Gen. George Barnett, U. S. M. C., chairman of the District chapter, the National Park seminary enrolled 100 per cent. Red Cross workers at the Palace theater enrolled all members of the Old Fashioned Dance troupe, from President Coolidge's home at Plymouth Notch, Vt.

R. H. Rule Indicted In Death of Barbee

The Montgomery county grand jury yesterday filed an indictment against Richmond H. Rule charging him with the murder of William J. Barbee, jr., October 30, on the Sligo road near Burnt Mills. The court convenes Thursday and this case has been docketed for trial that day, although it is not likely to be reached.

The grand jury also returned an indictment charging manslaughter against Franklin Bicknell, a garage keeper of Bethesda, whose automobile is alleged to have run down and killed Stanley P. Kelly and Walter E. Sears, soldiers, who were walking on the Rockville pike June 19 last.

Extra Food Exhibit; Baby Contest Today

Besieged with more than 100 entrants in the food show baby contest yesterday afternoon in the Washington auditorium, judges were forced to hold over 40 babies for an extra preliminary contest at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The prize baby of the week will be selected immediately following the preliminary.

First prize yesterday was won by 14-month-old Lillian Boyd, 706 Seventeenth street northwest. Other babies who have won during the week are Mary Lauck, 624 Twenty-third street northwest; Beatrice Robinson, 917 Fourteenth street southeast; Ernest Kienz, jr., 1114 Morse street northeast, and Betty Jane Sanders, 3723 R street northwest. Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Marshall, 726 Sixth street northwest, were awarded the "youngest married cople" prize last night.

Dougherty Predicts Beauty for Capital

Predicting that Washington will become the world's most beautiful city, Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty last night described the advances made recently by the Capital in architectural achievement, in an address before the Massachusetts Society of Washington, at the Washington club. Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty were guests of honor.

The commissioner was introduced by Frederick W. Carpenter, chairman of the executive committee, who presided. A brief business session preceded the speech, which was followed by a dance. Announcement was made by George A. Herman, secretary, of a reception to be tendered to Massachusetts senators and representatives in Congress by the organization December 9.

LEADERS' AWARDS GIVEN AT GIRL SCOUTS' RALLY

1,000, Representing 35 Troops, Attend Exercises at Central High.

TWO IN WORK 10 YEARS

The annual rally of the Girl Scout troops of Washington and the awarding of service stripes to the scout leaders were held last night in the gymnasium of Central High school, with approximately 1,000 scouts, representing 35 troops, in attendance.

Mrs. Henry H. Falther, girl scouts commissioner of Washington, presided and awarded the stripes. A group of scouts staged a series of folk dances of the British isles, including the favorite dances of England, Ireland and Scotland. The dances were directed by Miss Caroline Thom, instructor of folk dancing for local scouts and captain of Troop 31.

Gold stripes for ten years of service in the organization were awarded to Miss Thom and to Miss Agnes McElroy, first vice president of the officers' association for 1926-27. Silver stripes for five years of service were awarded to Mrs. Amos Fries, Mrs. Colin Livingstone, Mrs. H. R. Scudder, Mrs. F. H. Brooks, Mrs. Charles Hamlin and Mrs. Conrad Young, members of the Washington council; Mrs. Adolphus Staton, captain of Troop No. 20; Miss Eleanoe Lewis, field captain of Baltimore; Mrs. Julia Thomas, captain of Troop No. 16 of Ballston, Va.; Miss Nellie Bunkley, captain of Troop No. 32, Kenilworth, and Miss Harris Franklin, captain of Troop No. 1.

Smithsonian Given Footwear Collection

A collection of footwear, gathered in the course of 40 years, travel about the world by the late Frank G. Carpenter, has been presented to the Smithsonian institution by Mrs. W. C. Huntington, Mr. Carpenter's daughter.

The shoes were collected while Mr. Carpenter was gathering material for his book "How the World is Clothed," and include the clogs of a Hindu priest pilgrim from the Ganges, leather temple slippers from Constantinople, the woven linden-bark sandals of a Russian peasant, and many other types of footwear. Wood is a popular material for footwear in widely separated parts of the earth.

Woman Healer Faces Medical Law Charge

Nora Jones, colored, 79 years old, 643 Girard street northwest, a "natural method healer," who told police her remedies were based on the Bible, was arrested yesterday by Headquarters Detective C. E. Warfield, on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

The woman was arrested after, police say, several persons, both white and colored, had complained she had defrauded them. According to Warfield, she told him she was a West Indian and informed him he had severe rheumatism when he appeared at her house limping. Containers filled with home-made preparations were found in her room, police said.

Dumping of Rubbish Stirs Arts Officials

Commission of Fine Arts officials have protested aganist the indiscriminate dumping of rubbish in Piney Branch valley and declare that the beauty of this section of Northwest Washington eventually will be destroyed if the practice is not stopped. Carts are dumping down the slopes in spite of "No Dumping" signs of the District commissioners confronting the drivers.

Piney Branch was selected as an avenue of a parkway forming a diagonal drive from Rock Creek park to Soldiers' Home, consummation of which project is deemed urgent by the commission, the valley offering one of the most attractive possibilities for development of the District's park areas.

PRESIDENT EXPECTS REMARKS ON COURT SOON TO BEAR FRUIT

Early Decision on Question of United States Entry Now Held Probable.

HOPE OF JOINING GONE, LONDON PAPER HOLDS

Only Comment in Paris Is That American Attitude Has Not Changed.

President Coolidge's Special Train, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge was on his way early tonight to the White House, confident that the take-it or leave-it world court declaration which featured his Armistice address yesterday in Kansas City would bear fruit at an early date.

It was the opinion of the President's fellow travelers that the court pronouncement would lead without further delay to final and decisive steps toward determination of the question of America's adherence to the protocol. Certainly, it was said, Europe no longer can be in doubt as to the intention of the United States to join the court on its own terms or stay out of it.

If the expectations of the President's advisers are realized, the next week or so will see an end put to the prolonged delay on the part of the member nations of the court in replying to the letters Secretary Kellogg addressed to them several months ago.

Expect Definite Replies.

It would be surprising to these officials, despite the recent Geneva conference on court admission and reorganization questions, if replies of a definite sort were not forthcoming from the foreign capitals in ample time to dispose of the court issue possibly before the Senate reconvenes next month.

There is no doubt that President Coolidge is interested to observe what Europe's reaction to his statement of yesterday is or will be. He was out of touch today with the outside world except for such information concerning national and international affairs as was contained in the newspapers that were placed aboard his train as it rolled East through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Much of the time he devoted to restful pursuits, gazing at the passing scenery, playing records on a big cabinet phonograph and occasionally stepping out upon the rear platform to greet crowds which had collected at various points to get a glimpse of him and Mrs. Coolidge.

U. S. View Held Unchanged.

Paris, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge's speech at Kansas City yesterday, the French press remarks today, shows the Washington administration's policy has not been modified by the results of the recent elections, at least as far as foreign affairs are concerned.

Its attitude in regards to limitation of naval armament, the debt question and the impossibility of the Senate to admit amendments to the reservations proposed for the entry of the United States into the court of international justice, remains unchanged, the papers note.

Hope for Entry Destroyed.

London, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). Reference by President Coolidge to debts in his Kansas City speech and his statement that the United States would enter the world court only on the terms the United States Senate desired are attracting chief notice in the editorial comment in the press today.

"The speech," says the Times regretfully, "must virtually destroy the expectations confidently held out a few months ago that the United States would adhere to the court. Detachment from the court, if it becomes definitive, must be chiefly attributed to misunderstanding and will be a symptom of the wide divergence of outlook which still separates the New World from the Old."

The Daily News is convinced that the United States "will be impelled before many years have passed not only to join directly in the work of the League of Nations but to concern herself actively in the affairs of Europe, for the American people are building up great economic interests here which will make permanent isolation an impossibility."

London Society Women Drink Beer to Aid Poor

London, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Beer has replaced cocktails in certain London society circles where a club has been formed to save money, and to turn over the cash realized to charity.

The slogan of the club, known as the "Attractive Order of Fairy Belles," is this: "No more cocktails—no more whisky; beer and beer only—and very little of that!"

Lady Fripp, wife of Sir Alfred Fripp, well known physician, is the leader in the movement.

"The idea is to devote the five shillings annual subscription which each member pays, as well as any pennies we may be able to save, to relieving the lot of destitute boys and girls," she explains.

Kiep Named Charge; Dieckhoff to London

Berlin, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Dr. Otto Kiep, former chief of the press section of the foreign office, has been appointed counsellor and charge d'affaires of the German embassy in Washington to succeed Dr. Hans Dieckhoff.

Dr. Dieckhoff becomes counselor of the embassy in London, succeeding A. Dufour-Feronce, who goes to Geneva as German undersecretary to the league of nations. The changes are subject to the league council's approval of Herr Dufour-Feronce's appointment, which, however, is taken for granted.

SHEFFIELD TO CONFER WITH COOLIDGE TODAY

Return Brings Mexican Situation Sharply to Fore; Silent on Kellogg Visit.

(By the Associated Press.)

Reappearance of Ambassador Sheffield in Washington yesterday for conferences with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg served to bring the Mexican situation sharply to the fore. Despite the silence of the State Department as to matters under discussion, there can be no question that unusual importance is attached to these conversations.

Mr. Sheffield was with Secretary Kellogg a considerable time today. Presumably he will find opportunity today for a talk with the President, since he is staying in the White House.

He is preparing to return to Mexico City and there are indications that aspects of the situation he will face there, much wider than the continuance of the prolonged correspondence over Mexican oil and land laws, will be considered with the President.

CONFUSION IN REPLIES ON COURT RESERVATIONS

Some Nations Say They Will Approve, While Others Hang Back.

WILL VOTE ON QUESTION

(By the Associated Press.)

Examination of communications already received by the State Department in answer to its inquiry to the individual signatories of the world court protocol, as to acceptability of Senate reservations to American entry into the court, shows considerable confusion as to the attitude of even the few nations heard from.

Cuba, Liberia, Greece, Albania and Luxembourg voiced their acceptance in formal notes. Santo Domingo replied that it would vote for the Senate reservations through its representative at Geneva. Uruguay, through its charge d'affaires, orally replied that the reservations were acceptable, but that ratification by the Uruguayan legislature would be necessary.

Greece also advised Washington after her acceptance that she would be represented at Geneva. She was not alone in joining the Geneva conference after having accepted the reservations, however, since all the governments named, except Cuba, similarly were in attendance at Geneva.

Representatives of Albania, Luxembourg and Greece at that conference signed the resolution unacceptable to the United States despite the previous acceptance by their governments of the Senate reservations. The representative of the Dominican republic also signed but reserved the right of his government to accept the Senate reservations in their entirety if so desired. Representatives of Liberia and Uruguay did not sign the resolution.

States signatory to the court protocol which neither have accepted the Senate reservations directly nor attended the Geneva conference, are Abyssinia, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Haiti, Paraguay and Salvador.

BROOKHART SPENT $598 FOR SENATE

Wadsworth Expended $5,855, Willis $1,000 and Bingham $2,530 in Election.

(By Associated Press.)

Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa Republican insurgent, spent just $598 to regain a seat in the Senate, from which he was banished early this year in the election contest brought by Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, he reported yesterday to the Senate secretary.

This total was less than one-third of the amount spent by Brookhart's Democratic opponent, Claude R. Porter, who listed expenditures of $1,951 during the general election campaign.

Senator Wadsworth (Republican), New York, who was defeated by Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, spent $5,855.

Other expenditures reported were: Senator Williams, Republican, unsuccessful in Missouri, $5,600; Senator Willis, victor in Ohio, $1,000; Senator Bingham, Republican, reelected in Connecticut, $2,530.

Jardine Says Farm Profit Rate Is Higher

Portland, Maine, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The primary need of the American farmer is a long time policy to insure a consistently prosperous agriculture, a self-reliant personnel on the farm and a satisfying rural life, Secretary Jardine said today in addressing the National Grange.

"Taking agriculture as a whole, the crop year 1925-26 showed an approximate net return on the value of the capital invested in agriculture of 4.6 per cent," Mr. Jardine said. "This compares with 3.17 per cent in the crop year 1922-23 and six-tenths of 1 per cent in the crop year 1920-21. The results that have been achieved are due largely to the intelligent energy and determination of the farmers themselves."

Man Admits Killing And Weighting Body

Cincinnati, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Edward Lovelace, 35, today confessed, police said, he killed his brother-in-law, Everett Heath, 20, Waynesburg, Ky.

Heath's body, weighted by a heavy stone and with throat cut and skull crushed, was found Wednesday in the Ohio river near here. Lovelace killed Heath October 28 following an argument.

Jack Daniels Rehearing Denied.

Chicago, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Petitions for a rehearing for Nathan Goldstein and four others convicted of conspiracy in the Jack Daniels distillery case were denied by the United States circuit court of appeals today.

SIX MORSE DEFENDANTS CLEARED; TEN ON TRIAL

3 Sons of Ship Man Remain to Face Jury on Charge of Fraud by Mail.

PUBLICITY MAN FREED

New York, Nov. 12 (By A. P.) Charges against six of the sixteen defendants in the Morse stock fraud trial were dismissed in court today. Three sons of Charles W. Morse remain among the defendants.

The men dropped from further prosecution are: James R. Nelson, Arthur W. Kohler, Lawrence N. Bremer, Maurice M. O. Purdy and Edward Lucas, curb brokers, and James Gill, who handled the publicity on the stock of the U. S. Shipping Corporation.

Today's action leaves as defendants the three sons of Charles W. Morse, Harry F., Erwin A., and Benjamin W. Morse, George W. Burdett, Rupert M. Much, Mark L. Gilbert, George E. Wells, Milton Quinn, also known as Quimby; Henry E. Boughton and William H. Dennis.

The motion to dismiss was granted on the basis of a previous ruling by Judge Thacher, excluding testimony on the sale of stock of the United States Shipping Corporation, a Morse subsidiary, as not having been covered by the indictment.

The action was brought by the government on a charge of conspiracy to defraud investors in the Morse shipping enterprises by sending false financial statements through the mails.

Today's dismissal action brought the number of defendants to less than half of those originally indicted in April, 1922. In that indictment Charles W. Morse, veteran shipping man who was pardoned from Atlanta penitentiary by President Taft when doctors said that longer confinement would result in his death, headed the list of 24 names. His case was severed from the present trial because of serious illness.

Sun Asks Manchurian Support in Warfare

Shanghai, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang has announced that he has appealed to Marshal Chang Tsung-Chang, commander of one of the armies allied with Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, for support in his defensive campaign against the Cantonese. It is understood here that Marshal Chang is dispatching troops to the aid of both Marshal Sun and Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, who was routed by the Cantonese at Wuchang.

The waning influence of Marshal Sun, who until recently controlled five western provinces and now holds only three, is reflected in the renewed activity of agitators whom he formerly was able to put down.

War Lumber Suit Set for January

Trial of the civil phase of the "Phillips lumber case" was set yesterday by Justice Bailey in equity court for January 10. In this case the Federal government seeks an accounting in connection with the sales of surplus war lumber. About $1,500,000 is involved.

The criminal phase of this case resulted in a conspiracy indictment but the jury found the defendants not guilty. Among the defendants are John L. Phillips, former G. O. P. committeeman from Georgia, and his partner, John Stephens.

Boy Football Player Killed.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Gilbert Crowley, 15-year-old Kansas City high school football player died last night of injuries received in a game this afternoon. Remaining games of the team were canceled.

Trust Company Shuts Doors in Kansas City

Kansas City, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). The Federal Trust Co. of Kansas City, with deposits of about $2,000,000, was closed late today by the board of governors, who voted to place the institution in the hands of the State finance commissioner.

Heavy withdrawals by depositors in the last two weeks caused the move, P. E. Laughlin, president, declared. He said the board believed the depositors were amply protected. The trust company did a general banking business.

LAST TWO OF TORNADO VICTIMS GIVEN BURIAL

Crowds Attend Rites in La Plata for Lillian Della and Theresa E. Bean.

Two more of the child victims killed in the tornado which swept La Plata, Md., Tuesday were laid to rest yesterday. They were the last of the fifteen victims to be buried.

Services were held at 12:30 o'clock for Lillian Della, 8 years old, at the Methodist Episcopal church of La Plata. The Rev. H. Q. Burr, pastor of the church, officiated. The body was taken to Mount Hope cemetery, about 15 miles south of La Plata, for burial.

Catholic burial rites were held at 1 o'clock at the Sacred Heart Catholic church in La Plata for Theresa Estelle Bean, 9 years old, whose brother Edward was buried from the same church Thursday. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. McGehee, S. J. She was buried beside her brother in Sacred Heart cemetery.

The two children died in Washington at Providence hospital, where they were taken after the crash. Nearly as large a crowd was present at their funerals as attended the series of funerals Thursday, at which thirteen of the dead were buried.

Unless some of the victims who are being cared for by Providence hospital here die, these are the last of the funerals to be held. Three are still considered critically ill by hospital physicians.

With their dead buried, the inhabitants of the stricken town are turning their attention to rehabilitation. The immediate needs of the stricken families will be cared for first, then rebuilding and replenishing of the devastated farms and homes will follow. An appeal for funds has been made by the little town, which is just beginning to realize the extent of the catastrophe which has visited it.

TRIO KILL BANK CASHIER; ESCAPE WITHOUT LOOT

OTHER LOOT IS $62,500

Minot, N. Dak. Nov. 12 (By A. P). Three bandits held up the Citizens State Bank of Wheelock, Williams county, today and shot and killed H. N. Peterson, 45, cashier of the bank. The slayers fled without obtaining loot. Peterson was shot twice, once above the right eye and once below.

Officials of the bank said the assumption is that robbers shot Peterson when he refused to open an inner compartment of the vault.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 12 (By A. P.). The Peoples Trust & Savings Bank of Laporte was held up and robbed today by five armed men who escaped with $140,000, of which $40,000 was cash and the remainder securities.

Apparently with intent to intimidate, one robber fired a sawed-off shotgun as the five entered the bank. The charge imbedded itself in the ceiling.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Five masked men tonight held up and robbed two messengers of the Belmont Trust Co. in West Philadelphia of approximately $35,000 as they were about to enter the bank. Police believe the robbers, who escaped in an automobile, were the same band that held up and robbed a member of a textile firm and his sister of pay rolls amounting to more than $3,500 a few hours earlier.

A number of pedestrians were near the bank at the time and a traffic policeman was on the opposite corner, but the holdup attracted no attention.

Chicago, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Four robbers, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, seized cashier's checks totaling $24,000 from a manufacturing company's bank messenger late today and escaped. The bandits accosted John Fisher, the messenger, as he was en route from a bank to the Barrett Manufacturing Co.'s plant, grabbed a satchel containing the checks and escaped in an automobile.

DIAZ AS NICARAGUAN HEAD DOES NOT AID AMERICAN EFFORTS

Kellogg May Find Treaties Bar to Recognition of New Regime.

VACA MOVES OFFSET ACTION BY FINANCIERS

Chamorro Association With U. S. Banking Interests Blamed for Pressure.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The United States government's efforts to assist in straightening out the Nicaraguan embroglio apparently have not been helped by the action of the Nicaraguan congress in electing Adolfo acting president. There is no sign that America can recognize the Diaz regime, and many indications that Secretary of State Kellogg will find the Central American treaties a bar to such recognition.

Meanwhile, strong financial interests in New York are ready to press for Diaz's recognition, and Dr. Timoteo Vaca, representing the liberals, yesterday filed with the State Department a memorandum designed to frustrate any such plan. It is not expected that pressure from one side or the other will have much effect on Mr. Kellogg, but the apparent incompatibility between the terms of the treaty and the election of Diaz make it difficult to see how the solution of the Nicaraguan problem has been brought nearer.

The Central American conventions, sponsored by the United States, provide in article 2 that the governments which are signatories will not recognize a government that comes into power through a revolution against a recognized government "so long as the freely elected representatives of the people thereof have not constitutionally reorganized the country."

People Had No Chance.

When Emiliano Chamorro executed his coup d'etat against the recognized liberal-conservative coalition government of Don Carlos Solorzano, in October, 1925, he seized the power without giving the people a chance to reorganize the country through a free and fair election. When Chamorro resigned, in response to pressure from the United States, a short time ago, the presidency was assumed temporarily by Sebastian Uriza, second designate, until the congress could elect an "acting president." Senor Rappaccoli, first designate, has been ill in New York for some time.

But the Nicaraguan congress which chose Rappacolli and Uriza as designates was a "spurious congress," according to Dr. Vacca, who says Chamorro forced the liberals out of the congress before he permitted it to make its choice. And, Dr. Vacca contends, the congress which now has elected Adolfo Diaz as acting president is the same spurious congress."

Engineered by Chamorro.

In other words, the liberal representative declares that Chamorro has "stacked the congress" with his own puppets, thrown out the liberals who were opposed to him and now controls the action of the specially-organized congress which has selected an ultraconservative like Chamorro.

Furthermore, according to statements made by the liberals here, Diaz is an uncle of the late Gen. Umberto Diaz, who had personal command of the troops which were used by Chamorro in executing his coup d'etat. This in itself would go a long way toward disqualifying Diaz, it is contended by the liberals.

The pressure from financial interests in New York in favor of Diaz results from the fact that Chamorro and his followers long have been associated closely with American banking institutions which have advanced money to assist Nicaragua in solving its financial problems. Carlos Cuadra Pasos, Nicaraguan lawyer and friend of Chamorro, has been active here in support of the Chamorro cause.

U. S. WOMEN HAPPIEST, QUEEN MARIE THINKS

Chapel of St. Louis university, Queen Marie stood by during the ceremony and at its end emplanted a kiss on the cheek of her namesake.

Little Marie's grandparents came to this country from Roumania, and Mrs. Weber had met the Queen in Bucharest when both were doing relief work during the war.

Queen Marie has seen enough of this country to convince her that the status of America is happier than anywhere else. The reason for it, she told St. Louis women who were her hosts at luncheon, is that "your men allow the women to do their share" to a much larger degree than in her own country.

"I am struck with the wonderful lives of the women here. I shall take home a vision of the wonderful work that women do here, while at the same time they are having a glorious time of it."

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 12 (By A. P.). Samuel Hill, noted roadbuilder in the Northwest, who was host to Marie, Queen of Roumania, while she was in the Pacific Northwest, will arrive here tomorrow night, just two hours after the special train of her majesty comes in from St. Louis. Mr. Hill, who experienced some difficulties aboard the special train of the queen in the Northwest, and left the party after giving a special dinner for the queen and her party at Seattle, has wired here for accommodations.

MAID DENIES THAT MRS. HALL LISTENED IN ON TRYST CALL

for Mrs. Mills, completed the outstanding testimony of the day.

Defense counsel in the case today said in argument to the court it has a theory that the present trial was "promoted and inspired" by the Daily Mirror, a New York tabloid newspaper.

The statement was made during cross-examination of one of the two witnesses of the forenoon session, Philip Payne, managing editor of the Mirror. Payne, who had testified as to the photographing in his office of a calling card the State alleges bears Willie Stevens' fingerprint, was asked on cross-exmaination how much the Mirror has spent "on this investigation."

Objection was promptly raised by the State and Robert H. McCarter, senior defense counsel, said in his argument as to the competency of the question that it is a theory of the defense that "this matter now being prosecuted as a solemn trial in this court was promoted and inspired by the Mirror for financial reasons and to promote circulation."

Excluded by Court.

The question was excluded by the court.

In approaching the question from another angle, defense counsel attempted to question the witness as to the newspaper's connection with attorneys' fees in a case of Arthur Riehl against his wife, who, as Louise Gesit, was a maid in the Hall home. This, too, was overruled.

Barbara Tough, maid in the Hall home at the time of the crime, was the only othr witness of the morning.

Recalled to the witness stand, Miss Tough continued her story of what happened in the home the night Mrs. Hall's husband, the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was slain on a farm outside New Brunswick with Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer in his church.

Mrs. Hall was indicted with her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, on charges of slaying her husband and Mrs. Mills, but the sister and two brothers are being tried only for the murder of Mrs. Mills.

Maid Cross-Examined.

Miss Tough, under direct examination, said that she had been in the habit of taking a thermos bottle of water to the bedroom of Mrs. Hall every night, but said she did not take any to her room on Thursday night, September 14, 1922, the night of the double slaying. She also said she did not pass the room of Willie Stevens in taking the water to Mrs. Hall's bedroom.

On Wednesday Miss Tough had testified that she had seen neither Mrs. Hall nor Willie Stevens in their home on the night of the slaying, although she did hear Mrs. Hall enter the bathroom about 2 o'clock in the morning.

Today Miss Tough testified that in her almost seven years of service in the Hall home she rarely saw Willie Stevens out of the house after 6 o'clock in the evening.

Senator Case took up the cross-examination of Miss Tough.

"Was there anything unusual in the house when you came in on the night of the killings?" asked Case.

"Nothing at all," she replied.

Did Not Pass Room.

"You didn't pass the bedroom of Mrs. Hall in going to the third floor?"

"No."

"You couldn't see it?"

"No."

"Did Mr. and Mrs. Hall occupy the same room?"

"Yes."

"And the same bed?"

"Yes."

"During the night, about 2 o'clock, you heard Mrs. Hall going to the bathroom?"

"Yes."

"What did Willie say the next day?"

"I saw him washing his hands in the bathroom during the noon hour and he said 'she woke me out of a sound sleep.'"

"You said you did not take water to Mrs. Hall on the night of the killing, why was that?" asked Case.

"Thursday night was my night out, and some one else took it then," the witness replied.

Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, was the next witness. He testified that he had received the calling card, bearing fingerprints claimed by the prosecution to be those of Willie Stevents, from Edward Schwartz, of the Newark police department.

"It was in exactly the same condition as now," he said. He paid nothing for it, he said.

Payne was cross-examined by Robert McCarter, chief of defense counsel. He said he met Schwartz two or three times in Newark in June and July, at the St. Francis hotel.

"Why did you meet there?" McCarter asked.

"I asked Schwartz where was a good place," Payne replied.

"Why didn't you meet him at his office at police headquarters?"

"Better ask him that."

No Payment Made.

Payne said he first met Schwartz in June and at their several meetings they talked about the calling card. He received the card in July while in a taxicab.

"Was there any financial consideration?" McCarter asked.

"No."

"What did you give him?"

"I gave him nothing material," Payne continued. "I said that—"

Defense counsed stopped him there. Simpson argued that the answer be completed, and the court agreed.

"I told him that he would be doing a service to the State of New Jersey if he helped solve this case," said Payne.

It was testified that another member of the Mirror staff was present at the first meeting between Schwartz and Payne and also at the one at which the card was surrendered.

The card, Payne said, was in his custody for some time, and was under lock and key in a steel cabinet in the Mirror office. Payne said the card was photographed twice in the newspaper office, but the first photographs were not printed. The second photographing was done after the card had been taken to Middletown, N. Y., and shown to Joseph A. Faurot, fingerprint expert, who was summering there, the witness said.

McCarter, explaining that he wanted to "show the interest of this witness," drew from him a statement that he was present when Mrs. Hall was arrested shortly before midnight last July 28.

"How much did the Mirror spend on this investigation?" McCarter asked. Simpson objected.

The question was overruled.

"'Is it not a fact that you receive a bonus from the Mirror for gains in circulation," demanded McCarter, only to be overruled again.

"The first thing that broke after you took hold of this case was the filing and publication in the Mirror of an annulment suit of Arthur S. Riehl, was it not?"

The question was overruled, but not before McCarter had argued that the Mirror paid the attorneys' fees in the action brought by Riehl against his wife, Louise Geist, a former maid in the Hall home. Last week this suit was reported withdrawn. A copy of the Mirror portraying Willie Stevens, terrified, placing a calling card at the feet of the victims, was then marked for identification.

"Has the Mirror made any retraction, apology or statement regarding the picture?" McCarter asked.

"No."

"Is it not a fact that prior to the commencement of this trial copies of the Mirror were sent to every name on the struck jury list which was hung up in this courthouse?"

The question was not allowed.

No Retraction Asked.

On redirect examination Payne said the card was in his possession up to last August 15, when he turned it over to an official investigating the crime.

"Has Willie Stevens, orally or by writing, demanded a retraction?" the prosecutor asked the witness, referring to the connection of his name with the crime through a fingerprint.

"No," answered the witness.

"Has he had you arrested, or threatened your arrest, for libel?"

"No."

McCarter, who had walked to the back of the jurors' cairs, said:

"Those things may come later."

John V. Hubbard, New Brunswick undertaker, who had charge of the burial of both victims, was called after the noon recess. Payne had been called for redirect examination, but was not in the room.

"Did you tell Dr. Crouk, of New Brunswick, that Senator Florence, counsel for Mrs. Hall, had asked for an examination of Mrs. Mills' body?" Simpson asked.

"No."

Did Not Remove Tongue.

"Did you take the tongue and windpipe and larynx from Mrs. Mills' body?"

"No."

"Do you know they were in the body?"

"I didn't look in the mouth. I looked at the wound, but I didn't observe that they were missing."

The witness testified that so far as he knew no autopsy was performed on either of the bodies before burial.

Answering a question under cross-examination, the undertaker said he had advised a hurried burial of the minister's body because of its condition. The defense counsel also drew from the witness the explanation that the body was not actually buried, but was merely placed in the family vault in the Brooklyn cemetery. He said that Mr. Hall's body was not placed on the upper rack in the vault, on which there was one remaining space, but, instead, at Mrs. Hall's orders, had been placed on a lower rack so that her's eventually might be placed beside it.

Payne, called for redirect examination, testified that his only interest in the case was "as a citizen of New Jersey, to see it cleared up."

Mrs. Riehl Called.

Louise Geist Riehl, former maid in the Hall home, was then called. Toward evening on the day of the killings the phone rang in the Hall home, she said, and she answered it on the upstairs extension.

"It was Mrs. Mills asking for Mr. Hall. 'Just a minute,' I said. I walked to the banister and looked for him downstairs and saw Mrs. Hall lifting the receiver off the hook on the downstairs phone.

"'It's for Mr. Hall,' I said. 'Is he down there?'

"'He's not here,' replied Mrs. Hall, and at that moment Mr. Hall answered from the bathroom. Mrs. Hall put the receiver back on the downstairs phone without having put it to her ear."

Saw Hall Going Out.

"Did you see Mr. Hall again that day?" was the next question.

"Yes, just before he went out," replied the former maid.

"What did he say?"

"He said he was going out to see about Mrs. Mills' hospital bill."

"What did Mrs. Hall say?"

"She asked him if he would be late and he said he would not."

"Did Mr. Hall have a package?"

"I don't remember."

Simpson told the witness that at the grand jury hearing four years ago she had testified that Mr. Hall had no package.

"Where was Mrs. Hall when you last saw her that night?" continued the prosecutor.

"She was in the library playing cards, alone," was the reply.

"What time did you go to bed?"

"It was between 9 and 10 o'clock."

"What did you see the next morning?"

"When I went downstairs I saw Willie Stevens. He seemed a little nervous."

On cross-examination the former maid said that on the morning after the killings she had gone to Mrs. Hall about 9 o'clock, asking if she should keep Mr. Hall's breakfast warm.

"Mrs. Hall's eyes were red; I could see that she had been crying and that she was worried."

"Did she tell you she had telephoned the police," Senator Case asked.

"Yes," replied the witness, "she said she had asked the police about casualties and accidents and I think she also phoned the hospitals."

DICTATORSHIP THREAT IN CUBA PUZZLES U. S.

Machado Was Thought to Have Confidence of His Countrymen.

SUPPORT HERE IS LIKELY

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—President Machado exploded a political bombshell among the members of his party in his Armistice day address before a liberal party gathering in Havana.

Declaring that if the cooperation of congress were not forthcoming the ideals of those who died for Cuban freedom might be lost, he intimated that he was ready to carry on the task by dictatorship if necessary.

"I know that many among those who hear me," the President said, "will think this statement unconstitutional and I know that some will reach the conclusion that I am a masked partisan of dictatorship. But if dictatorship is necessary to keep alive the memory of those heroes who fell on the battlefield, I, with those among you who are willing to follow me, will be enough to attain that end."

(By the Associated Press.)

President Machado's hint of a dictatorship for Cuba caused manifest surprise and perplexity in Washington.

President Machado not only has the confidence of Washington, but there has been every reason to suppose that he also was strongly intrenched in the affections of his own people. In the recent elections his party was victorious throughout the land.

Should the question of a dictatorship actually arise, the attitude of the United States would have to be decided on the basis of circumstances as they stood at the moment. There would be no inherent objection here to countenancing a dictatorship. This government has done it before, notably in Venezuela and Peru, and would not hesitate to do it in Cuba, should justification appear. It would not adopt that course by choice, because of the natural disregard for constitutional principles that would arise from an era of dictatorship, perhaps to confound the advocates of a strong central government in years to come. But it will not close the door in advance to the possibilities hinted at by President Machado.

Mrs. Gibson Is Improved After Blood Transfusion

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—A blood transfusion for Mrs. Jane Gibson, star State witness in the Hall-Mills case was completed shortly after noon at the city hospital. After the operation the doctors announced that the condition of Mrs. Gibson was satisfactory, but they would make no comment on the prospect of getting Mrs. Gibson to Somerville to testify at the Hall-Mills case on Tuesday as Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, hopes.

The transfusion and the tests preliminary to it required nearly three hours.

After the transfusion Mrs. Gibson said she was "feeling better."

The transfusion was made to correct a "moderately severe secondary anemia which was discovered at the first diagnosis last Monday and confirmed today," it was officially stated.

It was said by those in authority that the transfusion did not indicate Mrs. Gibson's condition was grave, but was made in an attempt to vitalize her anemic condition.

UNCLE JOE CANNON IS DEAD; FUNERAL MAY BE ON TUESDAY

wife had occupied throughout her lifetime in Danville.

A funeral air and one of reverence settled over the city as news of his death spread. Danville had known for months that its foremost citizen had not long to live and it had filled with honor his declining days.

His ninetieth birthday was made a civic holiday and he was a guest of the Kiwanis club at a birthday party. He did not try to speak, but he stood behind the mammoth birthday cake, tilted his picturesque hat at the accustomed angle, and smiled genially above his chin whiskers, while photographers made a record of the occcasion.

Plans for the funeral were incomplete tonight, pending the arrival from San Francisco and Washington of two granddaughters, Mrs. William Houghteling and Mrs. Dorsey Richardson. Cannon's two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Leseure and Miss Helen Cannon, were with their father when he died.

Funeral services will be held here, and interment will be in the Danville cemetery. It is believed that Tuesday may be selected for the last rites.

America knew Cannon as "Uncle Joe," the stalwart leader of the lower house, the fire-eating debater, the genial whiskered politician clenching a cigar in his teeth under a broad brimmed hat.

Danville knew him, too, as "Uncle Joe," and as its most famous townsman, but it knew him also as a man who came to great wealth during a lifetime here. He was accounted many times a millionaire, and at his death he owned a substantial share of the National Bank, which he and his late brother, William, founded. Much of his wealth, it was said, was accumulated through fortunate investment of his money by his brother.

Longest Service in House.

Time scarcely had touched with silver the thin locks of Joseph Gurney Cannon years ago, ere the nation had rechristened him "Uncle Joe." And under that title, confirmed by millions who never saw him, yet knew every line of his worn face and every whimsical trait of his intense personality, "Uncle Joe" came at last to end his career as eldest statesman of the nation; the man of longest service in the Congress; the object honors among his colleagues that took no thought of party or political differences.

Yet great as his place and power had grown, great too was his fall when the House in 1910 revolted against his czar-like rule and stripped him of his power through a combination of insurgents in his own party with the Democratic minority.

Born in a little Quaker settlement near Guilford, N. C., May 7, 1836, and named for Joseph Gurney, a famous Quaker, Mr. Cannon often remarked that he seemed to have drifted away from the faith and habits of the pious people whom Gurney led. For he was a fiery, rough-and-tumble fighter always. On the floor he fought with whirling arms and contortion of his body to drive home his words.

Had to Support Family.

When Joe Cannon was four years old, his father, a country school teacher and self-taught doctor, migrated from North Carolina with ten other families, because he hated slavery. They setled on the banks of the Wabash, near Terre Haute, Ind.

There the father, while swimming the swollen river to air a sick neighbor, was drowned, and Joe was left the main support of the family. He went to work in a country store, where he spent four years.

"Those were the four most valuable years of my early life," he said shortly after he had announced his retirement from Congress. "Within three months I had mastered bookkeeping and was handling the store's records. It was there I learned the value of a dollar. I began reading law in a friend's office while I was working at the store, and slept in the law office at night to save lodging.

Defeated for State's Attorney.

"I practiced in Indiana a short time, and then decided to come to Illinois, where I hung out my shingle at Tuscola."

In 1860 he ran for State's attorney, but was defeated. The next year the legislature created a new judicial district and he ran again, and was elected, serving for eight years.

In 1873 he was elected to the National House of Representatives the first time.

In all his policital career he had but three defeats at the polls, the other two times being in races for Congress.

In 1922 "Uncle Joe" announced his retirement, after 46 years of service, and when Congress adjourned late in September carried out a long cherished ambition to go West again over the route he traveled in his mother's arms 82 years before. He started from Washington by automobile, but because of fatigue was forced to abandon the trip at Indianapolis.

Had Enough, He said.

"I've had enough," he said in discussing his retirement to private life. "It's 50 years since I first went to Washington, and with two exceptions of those two unsought vacations (referring to his two defeats), I've been there ever since. I decided to retire voluntarily," but, he added a bit wistfully, "I am just a bit sorry now."

When he first went to Washington, Mr. Cannon was induced to put $1,000 into a scheme for the transfusion of rental, and he never saw the money after that. Later, Alexander Graham Bell, then experimenting with the telephone, invited Cannon into the company "on the ground floor," but after being "stung" once, as he expressed it, he resisted the temptation, only to see other friends take up this and other stocks to become millionaires many times over.

But Mr. Cannon's own bank and other business ventures were successful, and he amassed considerable wealth.

In 1908, when in the glory of his rule as boss of the House, Mr. Cannon looked toward the Republican nomination for the Presidency. When leaders proposed that he take second place on the ticket, he refused emphatically.

In his latter years, "Uncle Joe," standing at the entrance of the Capitol, heard the whirr of many airplanes, and saw a flock of machines overhead. It recalled h own part in aircraft developmen Back in the days when Prof. Langley was secretary of the Smithsonian institution, he went before Mr. Cannon's committee with an estimate of needs. Always modest, the professor was about ready to pick up his papers and leave when the chairman asked if that would be all.

DAVIS URGES NEED OF STRONG STUDENT GOVERNMENT PLAN

Make It Practical, the Labor Secretary Tells Annual Collegiate Meeting.

Make student government in college a practical government was the advice given yesterday by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis to students attending the nineteenth annual meeting of the Women's Intercollegiate Association of Student Government at Trinity college, Michigan avenue northeast, opposite Soldiers home.

Secretary Davis, who spoke at the afternoon session, declared student government should be made practical and should have all the semblance of reality in order that the student will be able to step into a practical status of citizenship on leaving college.

The students should have a profound respect for the student government, just as will be expected of them under the real government of the nation, he said. It is through such a condition and attitude, he declared, that the students will be trained in the role of citizenship which life will demand. He said, however, that student government should be made worthy of the respect that the students should give, and in this a responsibility falls upon the shoulders of the student government officials. They should be true leaders, he declared.

Discussion Groups Held.

In the discussion that followed Miss Dorothy Bennett, of Adelphi college, spoke on "The College Woman's Responsibility to the Ballot;" Miss Dorothy Mason, of Wellesley college, spoke on "The College Student as a Citizen," and Miss Caroline Ribble, of William and Mary college, discussed "Student Government and Law Enforcement." Miss Clare Corcoran, president of the Student Government association of Trinity college, presided.

In the morning discussion groups were held, and following the afternoon session the groups were resumed. The delegates visited the White House at noon, then gathered for luncheon at Rauscher's. The meeting will close today. The delegates, assembled from 60 colleges throughout the country, will go sightseeing this afternoon.

Last night the visiting students were entertained with a musical comedy presented by students of Trinity college. The comedy, "Looking Over Sally," was written by Miss Kathleen Ahern, a student. It was directed by Miss Helen Forker.

Cottage cheese, a popular, wholesome and nutritious food by itself, is adapted to combinations with other foods into delicious dishes. Below are printed a few such combinations:

Scalloped Eggs with Cottage Cheese.

½ cup cottage cheese.
1 cup white sauce.
1 sweet red pepper cut in strips.

Cut the eggs into quarters and place about one-fourth of the quantity in a buttered baking dish. Cover this layer with sauce into which the cottage cheese has been stirred and sprinkle over it a layer of sliced sweet pepper, green or red. Repeat until the dish is full. Sprinkle bread crumbs on top, dot with butter and brown in a hot oven.

* * * *

Cottage Cheese Omelet.

2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
3 rounded tablespoons cottage cheese
1 tablespoon chopped pimientos
2 tablespoons milk
⅛ teaspoon soda

Beat the yokes and whites of the eggs separately. Add to the yolks the salt, the milk and the cheese with which have been blended the pimientos, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites; pour into a hot frying pan in which has been melted about one-half tablespoon fat. Cook the omelet slowly until the egg has set, place in the oven for a few moments to finish cooking and fold over the center. Garnish with parsley. Other seasoning, such as chopped parsley, green pepper or minced ham, may be used.

Cottage Cheese Custard (Unsweetened).

1 cup cottage cheese
1½ cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon corn starch
2 tablespoons chopped onion, fried in a little butter.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to season

Beat the eggs slightly, add them with the seasoning to the cottage cheese, then stir in the milk. Bake from 30 to 40 minutes in greased dish, set in a pan of warm water in a moderate oven.

Creamy Eggs With Cottage Cheese.

1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon flour.
4 eggs.
1 cup cottage cheese.
¼ teaspoon soda.
1 tablespoon butter
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
Paprika.
Parsley or pimientos.

Make a thick sauce with the milk, flour, butter and seasonings. Cook five minutes and pour gradually on the cheese, which has been neutralized with soda dissolved in a little of the milk. When the cheese and sauce are well blended, return them to the top of the double boiler and reheat over hot water. Beat the eggs slightly, pour them into the warm sauce and mix well. As the mixture sets in a soft custard on the bottom and sides of the boiler, scrape it up carefully, forming large, soft curds. The mixture is cooked when it is of a creamy consistence throughout. This quantity will serve eight or more persons.

Ways to Serve Pineapple.

Almost any woman can be a charming hostess, given a day in advance to study her role. But the real hostess is the one who can prepare an attractive luncheon or dinner in a jiffy and make the unexpected guest, whom the husband has a habit of bringing along, feel as if he were expected.

A very real aid to the hostess who must be prepared at all times for friends at meal time is canned pineapple. First because it can be used in such a variety of attractive forms and is so tasty and wholesome, and second, because it can be prepared with the least possible expenditure of time. It takes only one minute to open a can of pineapple and pour the golden slices in a fruit bowl, which is the simplest way of serving it. And it takes only half an hour, if one is skillful, to make a criss-cross pineapple pie which is a work of art.

The meat often constitutes the most serious problem, when one has ordered, say, chops for the family, and the arrival of guests suddenly doubles the size of the family. Probably there is plenty of bacon in the ice-box, and if so, the hostess may put away the chops and in a few moments have a platter of crisp bacon with pineapple served on curly lettuce leaves that has all of the earmarks of a very special occasion.

This is prepared by first frying 12 strips of bacon, pouring off the fat as it forms in order that the bacon may be dry and crisp. Remove to a hot platter and keep hot. Season a little flour with salt and pepper. Dip the luscious slices of Hawaiian pineapple (or the contents of a large can) into the flour and cover both sides. Brown in a very little hot bacon fat. This may be served with crisp cold lettuce.

Marshmallow and pineapple dainty is a light and delectable dessert if the meal has been a hearty one. Whip 1 cupful of thick cream, add ½ pound of marshmallows cut in quarters, and the contents of 1 can of Hawaiian sliced pineapple cut in small pieces.

Preserving Linens.

Linen, like fine silverware and china, has often been handed down from generation to generation as prized inheritances. This is particularly true in England and continental Europe, where pride in beautiful linens is as much a tradition as that applied to any heirlooms.

But in order to make it possible to keep fine linen damasks in their original condition of shining beauty it is necessary to exercise certain fundamental principles of caring for them, which, unfortunately, are inclined to be overlooked in the American system of domestic economy. The life of a beautiful piece of damask is almost interminable if these simple principles are faithfully applied. New linens should be laundered before they are laid away for any considerable length of time. In laying away her linens, the housewife should be careful that they are stored in a chest in a reasonably even temperature. It is essential that they be kept away from radiators and pipes. Cedar chests are probably the best containers for stored linens.

Linen which is laid away for a long time should not be starched. It may be kept from turning yellow by wrapping in a fast-color blue paper. Avoid so far as possible creasing your linens.

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is dead. In view of the favorable tone of the bulletins from his sick room, the announcement of his death yesterday afternoon came as a shock to the whole country. Outstanding figure that he was in the turmoil and strife of the political life of the last quarter century, fighting with all the vigor of an intense partisan, he retired from public life three years ago beloved of all, and holding the respect and admiration of those enrolled as his political opponents. Announcement of his death will be received with sincere regret everywhere.

Joseph Gurney Cannon was typical of the times in which he was reared and during which he served the major portion of his long term in Congress. He was the last of the great leaders of the standpatters, who believed in and fought for party regularity. He believed, with almost fanatical zeal, in the principles of party government and party responsibility when vested with political power. That was his dominant thought when, as Speaker of the House of Representatives, he ruled it absolutely and compelled it to bow to his indomitable will. That position of power and influence came to him through long years of service in which the caliber of the man was tried and tested in many bitter contests and his qualities of leadership proved.

Mr. Cannon came to the House in 1873 at the beginning of the Forty-third Congress. With the exception of two terms, when he, with others of the regulars, were engulfed in political landslides, he served until the end of the Sixty-seventh Congress, retiring voluntarily to spend his declining years in peace and quiet. His 90 years were full of usefulness, and his hard common sense was beneficial to the whole country.

Many Americans perceived in "Uncle Joe" Cannon a practical politician, and nothing else. But he was far more than that. No man who ever served in Congress contributed a greater total of valuable service than Mr. Cannon. His broad mind and vast experience gave him a national viewpoint and enabled him to shape legislation in the national interest, for the future as illumined by the past. His industry, his mastery of the intricacies of the government machine, his courage, and his devotion to the national interest were of incalculable value to the country.

In summing up the life work of Mr. Cannon it should not be forgotten that he was the moving spirit in the creation of the majestic Lincoln Memorial. He killed off insignificant and inappropriate projects for many years, until the time could arrive when a suitable memorial to Lincoln could be provided. Then he wielded the power necessary to call into being the structure which Americans fondly hope will stand for all time as a testimonial of the greatness of Lincoln.

As Speaker of the House Mr. Cannon was shorn of his power but not his office by the uprising of the insurgency which later was transferred to the Senate, and which today to some extent operates in both bodies, but even the bitterness of that contest failed to blind men of all parties to the lovable character of the man, which repeatedly found expression in the House and accompanied him into his peaceful seclusion. In the death of "Uncle Joe" the country has lost one of its foremost citizens, one whose memory will be revered.

WASTED MILK.

The Department of Agriculture staged a scenic exhibit for the annual meeting of the National Milk Producers association in Cleveland during the past week. It showed a stream flowing at the rate of 7,000 gallons each minute, which stream represented the volume of skim-milk and buttermilk that is not utilized to the best advantage each year in the United States, according to the department's scientists.

This startling exhibit was prepared from the statistics gathered by the experts of the dairy division, which statistics prove beyond the shadow of a doubt, in the minds of those same experts, that the total annual by-products of the dairy, the cheese factory and the creamery reach the enormous total of 28,400,643,000 pounds of skim-milk and buttermilk, "which are wasted to the extent of at least 80 per cent" because not scientifically used.

Some doubt might exist as to the absolute accuracy of these figures if they had been stated in round numbers. But it should be noted that the thousands of pounds following the millions and the billions are just 643 and not "about 643,000" which is proof positive that the scientists made exact measurements before letting the public into the secret of the cost of a glass of so-called buttermilk in any high class restaurant in New York, Chicago or Washington.

And right there, with all that buttermilk finding its way into the swill-barrel, how comes it that there is not a quart of the real stuff (that 7 per cent alcohol buttermilk which Uncle Joe Cannon told about) to be had in Washington, Baltimore or Alexandria? The stuff sold as buttermilk never came from a churn. It is lacteal fluid, certainly, with the original cream content removed by the aid of a separator. The milk from which the butter-fat has been thus mechanically eliminated, is then treated with lactic acid, or some other chemical, and "synthetic" buttermilk is the result.

Instead of trying to convince the public that feeding whey, skim-milk and real buttermilk—right out of the churn—to hogs and calves is wasting good protein, it would seem that the Department of Agriculture might better devote some of its energies, and a portion of its appropriations, to devising a plan whereby the gap between the waste-vats of the creameries and the buttermilk lovers of the cities may be reduced about 99 per cent.

A PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

A national committee of engineers, after an exhaustive two years' study, has submitted to the American engineering council at Cornell university a comprehensive plan to reorganize the administrative structure of the Federal government with a view to coordinating all its engineering functions. Through these various governmental agencies hundreds of millions of dollars are expended annually, and this committee of experts finds that through proper coordination greater efficiency would be obtained and large sums of money saved to the taxpayers.

This would be a most laudable consummation, but there are obvious reasons why it is almost impossible of achievement. The one outstanding reason why governmental coordination is seemingly impossible is the fact that while it would be the sensible thing to do, the politicians decline to give it their support. Twenty years ago the late Senator Aldrich announced on the floor of the Senate that if the government would operate its affairs after the manner of private corporations he would guarantee an annual saving of $300,000,000. That was a huge sum of money for those days; but Congress merely listened to the statement and did nothing. More recently a congressional commission was created to devise a plan to reorganize the government departments. Its report has been considered, but in the presence of stiff opposition the plan has not progressed beyond the stage of discussion.

Unless there has been a material change in the attitude of Congress and public officials, this new plan seems destined to share a like fate. The engineering committee recommends establishment of a department of public works and domain, which would take over from the Interior and other departments all bureaus and activities relating to public works, and regroup them scientifically in the proposed new department. The committee has studied every function and activity of the government that might be seriously considered for allocation in this new department, and its list is an imposing one.

This plan probably will fail as have its predecessors, because bureaucracy is so strongly intrenched within the various departments that efficient administration is given less consideration than the aims of bureau chiefs to strengthen their personal positions and cling to the power their office carries. The political influences behind these petty chieftains should not be underestimated. Jealousies of cabinet officials and their division and bureau heads over legislative encroachment have been all-powerful in the past and probably will continue to be potent. It is unfortunate that this is true, but even the President of the United States has been up against this political cabal and found himself powerless to overcome it. Reforms such as have been urged by this committee of engineers are worthy of enactment, but it is quite doubtful if they can succeed in the face of adverse political influences.

BULLDOZING FOR CHARITY.

In its current issue the Literary Digest publishes many columns of comment from the foremost advertisers of the country on President Coolidge's speech dealing with the subject of advertising. The contributors to this symposium are unanimous in their indorsement of the views of the chief magistrate, whose tribute to the power of printer's ink has attracted world-wide attention.

But there is one class of "workers" who labor under the impression that impudent demands by mail have greater possibilities than appeals through the medium of the press. Reference is made to the conductors of "drives" for funds for various and sundry charities. At this season of the year business men, professional men, officials and politicians, to say nothing of the rest of the community, find their mails loaded with envelopes containing tickets for all sorts of entertainments which are to be given in aid of some worthy cause.

The tickets are accompanied, invariably, by demands that the recipient "come across" with the amount printed on the tickets as the price of admission, or that he send them back to the sender at his own expense. Sometimes the required cash is forthcoming, at others the appeal goes into the waste basket, but whatever the outcome in cash may be, the good accomplished is overbalanced by the reaction in the mind of the citizen thus held up. The blackmail system of obtaining funds in the name of "sweet charity" is far less effective than judicious advertising would be. President Coolidge is excellent authority.

SOAKING THE PUBLIC.

There has been a suspicion abroad for some time that it was going to happen, and now that big business finally has succeeded in flagrantly and openly gaining control of a prominent government department, something must be done. Several years ago the telephone companies all over the country announced that thereafter they would not give out to subscribers the correct time. Apparently that was the opening gun in the nefarious scheme which has just been completed. It may be remembered that the announcement was made when the art of the broadcast was in its infancy. Some one however, had inside information as to the ultimate development and the plans were made well.

It looks as though the time for a killing came only a few months ago. The radio people had effected an organization. One company bought up practically all the broadcasting stations, and placed itself in the position of being able to dictate what we shall hear. Then it passed on a message to the telegraph company, and Western Union announced that in the future it would no longer give out the correct time. And now, beginning November 20, the Naval observatory goes thumbs down and announces that it, too, will be unable to give information designed to set the clock so that family appointments may be met on time.

Suppose all the agencies concerned did report the fact that furnishing this vital information clogged their telephone lines? The obvious solution of that difficulty was to have installed more phones and provided more operators to care for them. The public can not be fooled by this apparent excuse. Since it has been announced that Arlington and numerous other radio stations will continue to repeat the Naval observatory time signals, it becomes increasingly apparent that the entire movement was dictated by the radio people, and is designed to increase the sale of sets. The public must have the correct time at its finger tips, and is going to have it even if the matter has to be taken to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, President Coolidge, or even Senator Borah.

PACIFISM GONE MAD.

Armistice day celebrations developed incidents in widely scattered localities of this country that seem to justify the belief that some of the people have no conception of what the day stands for, or what it means to those who did their bit in the great war.

Patriotic women, just as patriotic men, are devoted to their country and believe that the best way to prevent war is to prepare in time of peace; to teach reverence for the flag and readiness to fight for it when necessity requires.

The Women's club, of Wilmington, Del., planned for a "peace parade" on Armistice Day; the display was typical of what was planned in other communities by similar organizations. A number of bands were engaged and orders were issued to band leaders that under no circumstances must "The Star-Spangled Banner" be played. The national anthem was tabooed on the grounds that it breathed of war. The band of the industrial school refused to parade if they could not play the anthem, and every other band engaged followed suit.

Here in Washington, as elsewhere, it is customary to stand at attention as the notes of the national anthem are heard; men in uniform salute, and the hearts of all loyal Americans are stirred to the depths. There must be something wrong in a community where "The Star-Spangled Banner" is so obnoxious. The loyal women of the United States should lose no time in repudiating the activities of such women's clubs and condemning the ideas they are seeking to instill into the minds of the youth of today.

ALL BIDS REJECTED.

The United States Shipping Board has rejected all bids for allocation of three of the leading shipping lines, in response to its advertisement for proposals for the purchase of these services. What will be done with the bids for the purchase of the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines has not yet been revealed.

The turn of the road has been reached. Either the American merchant marine must have government aid or it will disappear. Every maritime nation gives government aid in some form to its merchant marine.

Can the United States afford to let its shipyards die of dry rot? Can it afford to surrender ocean transportation to foreign vessels and countries? If the United States is to compete with other nations, new vessels must be started at once and pushed to completion.

It is obvious that lack of protection has caused the decline in American ocean shipping. Free trade on the ocean has brought about what many desire to accomplish on land—a surrender to foreign countries of American industries.

The coast-wise trade of the United States is flourishing because it is protected against foreign competition. The ocean-going transportation of the United States is open to the free competition of the world and is losing ground rapidly.

No matter whether the bids are rejected or accepted, it is certain that government aid must be forthcoming or what is left of the merchant marine will be lost.

FORESTRY'S BIGGEST YEAR.

Three States joined the forestry parade on election day by voting to amend their constitutions so that forestry taxation laws might be passed. The States are California, Minnesota and Louisiana. According to Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, their action makes 1926, the semicentennial of the first step in forestry by the government, the biggest year in the history of forestry education.

In 1876 Congress instructed Franklin B. Hough to find out something about the forestry situation. He did, but the rest of the country is still trying to find out.

Some years ago Mr. Pack began a campaign of education to awaken the business men to the need of putting 81,000,000 acres of idle land to work growing trees. He points out that the center of the lumber industry is in the Rocky mountain country. This means millions of dollars in freight charges to the manufacturing centers, which must be passed on to the consumer.

Forest products affect the cost of everything. The three States have taken a greatly advanced step in moving to relieve from undue taxation land devoted to tree growing until such time as a crop can be harvested. Every State should do likewise.

Gloom helped make Dean Inge famous, but that's the only time it ever worked, and he's only Dean Inge after all.

Investigations, however, won't keep politicians from spending money quietly where it will do good.

The cost of Senate seats doesn't seem so high when you try to buy two on the aisle for a popular show.

How would it do to require aliens to live here five years before becoming gangsters?

Most of the people who think they are tolerant are merely powerless.

Even America has dictators, but most of them are under the age of 5.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Beer-Drinking Record.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the coffee-drinking record has been established by Gust Comstock, of Fergus Falls, Minn., who, according to the "boxed" dispatch in The Post of this morning, downed all of the eleven competitors and succeeded in guzzling 62 cups of the stuff they call coffee out in "Minnesoty," it would seem that The Post should take steps to secure for Virginia the honor to which the Old Dominion is entitled. I refer to the beer-drinking record.

When the Consumers brewery existed at the Virginia end of the Aqueduct bridge there was employed therein one Otto Steglmeier, who could drink more beer in a day than Gust Comstock of Fergus Falls can drink coffee in a week. So great was his reputation that, "like the elbow of Lady Jane, people came miles to see" for themselves the prowess of Otto. On one occasion a wager was made that Otto could dispose of a "quarter of beer" in thirty minutes. He was called in to the office of the secretary and told of the wager. "Vait," said Otto, "und soon I tolt you ov I could do it." He left the office, and returned shortly to announce his readiness to win the bet for the man who had backed him.

A quarter keg was rolled in and tapped. Otto filled a two litre stein, drained it, refilled the vessel and repeated. In exactly 23 minutes the keg was empty and his backer had won the bet. "But why did you go out of the office before you tried?" asked one of the officials of the company.

"I shust vanted to dry vedder I could did it, und ven I trunk a kqvarter I knew I could did it, und I coom me back hier und did it," said Otto.

I have heard others insist that it was some other chap in some other State that performed this wonderful capacity feat. But Virginia is entitled to the honor and it is only right that this should be recorded in imperishable type, especially as John Philip Hill and all the Democratic members from New York will try again, during the short session, to prove that beer is not intoxicating. Otto was sober when he completed his record-making stunt.

Self-Determination.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It was not the Southern States but New England that originated the doctrine of self-determination and first formally announced it, according to Edgar J. Rich, general counsel for the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

This is contrary to the general opinion of many persons, that the Southern States, in seceding from the Union, thus precipitating the civil war, were the originators of such a movement.

This statement was made by Mr. Rich recently in Boston in introducing Alfred B. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, as the principal speaker at a luncheon given by the Massachusetts organization.

"I do not want you to think," said Mr. Rich, "that the South was the originator of the doctrine of self-determination — that doctrine, which has come into such prominence and favor since the great war and which is based upon the principle that every people has a right to be governed in its own way, according to its own interests and aspirations. It was not in the South, but here in New England that it was first formally announced. In 1808, following the embargo acts, which paralyzed New England's commerce and industry, there were frequent threats of separation from the Union. In 1812, after war with England had been declared, 1,500 delegates met and adopted the so-called Rockingham resolutions, in which the war was vigorously condemned, and the right of a State to withdraw from the Union asserted. And who was the author of those resolutions? None other than Daniel Webster—a fact with which perhaps some of our audience is not familiar. Again, in 1814, many prominent citizens of New England were gathered together in the Hartford convention, and it was charged that they did so for the purpose of determining whether New England should secede from the Union.

"And so, really, it was in New England, and not in the South, that the doctrine of self-determination was first developed."

Mr. Rich referred to a tribute which Mr. Thom in 1916, while appearing before the joint committee of Congress, known as the Newlands committee, paid to Richard Olney, former Attorney General and later Secretary of State in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet. At that point, Charles A. Andrews, former president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and perhaps President Coolidge's most intimate personal friend, moved that the association express its keen appreciation of he splendid tribute paid to one of Massachusetts' greatest citizens. Mr. Rich's introductory speech was interrupted while the members of the association adopted the motion by a rising vote amid enthusiasm.

CLEO SPENT A BUCK.

We hear a great deal about the luxury and extravagance of Cleopatra, the queen of the Nile, and of the gorgeous feasts she and Mark Antony had together, yet those little dinners and suppers for two only cost Cleopatra about four shillings, with the wine and attendance. If Cleopatra had lived in these times, says London Tit-Bits, she could not possibly get a supper at two shillings a head, with waiter and wine included.

In those days a large jar of wine cost only four shillings, and this probably lasted a long time. A pigeon was dear at two and one-half pence, and a great quantity of vegetables which lasted for months could be bought for about eight shillings. Slaves were easy enough to get, and their dress was so scanty that liveries could not have been expensive.

Cleopatra once went in for a very costly drink. She melted a priceless pearl in a glass of wine and presented it to Mark Antony, but the Queen of Egypt did not go in for such extravagance every night.

Nero, the tyrannical emperor of the Romans, famed for his extravagant, luxurious living, who gave twenty-two-course dinners, where the guests reclined on ivory and silver couches and dipped their fingers into finger bowls which contained costly wines, did not spend nearly so much on feasting as many modern millionaires.

A LITTLE GIRL COMES TO VISIT.

By VIOLET ALLEYN STOREY, in COMMONWEAL.

Old house, you need no longer be so staid,
Smile now—for soon upon your silent stairs,
Quick feet will sound again, and chubby legs
Will dangle from your tall, plush-cushioned chairs.

Time-misted mirrors, and a little head
Will dimple pillows, stiffly smooth; a sweet

Old garden, standing quiet, laugh aloud!
With butterflies, along your paths she'll run,
Her skirts as perky as your hollyhocks,
Her hair a shimmer at the touch of sun!

Perennials, whose certain loveliness
Is beauty grown familiar to our eyes,
Lift up your heads—phlox, larkspur, pinks—
One comes who will behold you with surprise!

Old house, old garden, now give welcome, sing
To her who comes upon you, wondering!

An Unlucky Man

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

BILL lived in Florida. One day a tropical storm drowned his stock, and narrowly missed drowning him and his wife.

Bill was sore. "I'm going to move out of this darned country," said he, "and get to higher ground."

He bought a valley farm in the mountains of North Carolina and lived in a log cabin on the side of a hill. Next spring the rains were unusually heavy and the top of the hill slid down and demolished Bill's house. Bill and his wife escaped because they were up a tree.

He moved to Kansas, where the land is flat and high and far from tidal waves. His crops were good the first year, and he and his wife were fortunate enough to be away from home when a cyclone picked up the house.

He wasn't discouraged, for cyclones are rare, and the new house stood for six months before lightning set it afire.

Bill was getting desperate. "By the great three-toed sloth," said he, "I'm going to the Pacific coast, where there is no lightning—where there are no cyclones—where tidal waves and tropical storms are unknown—and there I'll settled where a mountain can't fall on me."

He did as he said he would, and three months later he and his wife scrambled out of bed at 3 a. m. in time to escape the brick shaken down by an earthquake. The house was a complete wreck.

Wan and weary, Bill gave up farming and moved back East to New York city. Nothing disastrous had ever befallen New York.

Exactly nine days after he found a home, he and his wife leaped from their front steps and scurried for cover, while a six-ton truck, driven by a wild-eyed man full of moonshine crashed into the house and came to rest with its radiator parked on the dining table.

Full of sorrow and despair, Bill sought the desert country and the wide open spaces. Next day a rattlesnake bit him and he died.

It's a waste of effort to run. And as to the hills that look green far away, perhaps it's poison ivy that makes them green.

PRESS COMMENT.

Jackrabbits.

Concordia Blade: A report comes from Colorado that herds of antelope are destroying crops in Colorado. Perhaps some of our Kansas jackrabbits have migrated.

The Speed of Progress.

New York Evening World: Scientists have discovered a tooth indicative that man lived in Montana a million years ago, and it was not until last week that the State went wet. Progress is slow.

Remember This.

Detroit News: Wayne B. Wheeler says the prohibition referendums held last week in eight States were "a meaningless gesture," which is a nice phrase to remember the next time some one punches you in the nose.

Supersensitiveness.

Philadelphia Ledger: The British home secretary is being importuned to prevent the release of two American moving pictures which, it is said, "outrage British sentiment." There is a sensitiveness here hardly characteristic of the race. "If you know you're all right, why worry, you know?"

Inevitable.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle: A Philadelphia hotel owner is fined $100 for giving a less desirable job to an employe who went off to do jury duty. This is plain justice, of course, but one may be permitted to wonder how much longer the worker will have any job at all. Retaliation is inevitable.

Italy's Grave Error.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: After our own great happiness in Grover Cleveland Alexander, who could hardly have been the same thing to us by any lesser name, we are disposed to believe that in depriving ordinary babies of the names of the great the Italians are making another of their characteristic mistakes.

An Awkward Word.

Ohio State Journal: Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey remarks in a current magazine article that her husband, who she fears is not generally understood, has a soul so finely made and sensitive that he is very nervous and easily jarred, and, while it is very nice for a woman to have such insight into her husband's true character and to appreciate his finer qualities, we should think Mrs. Dempsey would have left out that word jarred, under all the circumstances.

The Shawl Comes Back.

New York Times: To the cynical, who suspect the Paris designers and dressmakers of inventing clothes that require expert and intricate knowledge, it has been something of a mystery that the shawl should return to popularity. It is not a complicated garment. It has no sleeves, no hems, no "lines" artfully seamed in, no detail that the simplest girl can not devise. In fact, it is nothing but a square of silk or cloth. That such a wrap should be whooped up by Paris seems incredible, yet it is true.

That Two-Thirds Rule.

Louisville Courier Journal: Discussions concerning the abrogation of the two-thirds rule in nominating a Democratic candidate for President are drifting inevitably toward the question of advantage among the candidates. The candidate who thinks he can swing a majority of the delegates, but not two-thirds, will want the rule abrogated, but if he can induce two-thirds to amend it for him, he ought to approximate that strength for the nomination. Those who can not command a majority at the outset but hope to survive the ordeal of eliminations will combine to retain the rule.

Society Events

Gen. and Mrs. Kennedy will entertain in honor of Mrs. Kennedy's brother and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Baldwin. The 52 guests, who will be drawn largely from army circles, will be seated at three large tables in the main ballroom.

Luncheon for Miss Richards.

Miss Louise Randolph will entertain at luncheon Saturday, December 11, in compliment to Miss Dorothea Richards, debutante daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Theodore Richards.

Miss Adelaide Douglass, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Blair, and Miss Rebekah Lipscomb, debutante daughter of Mrs. Blaine Lipscomb, are the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Williamson will entertain a group of 22 of the younger set at the dinner dance at the Wardman Park hotel this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney and their daughter, Miss Virginia McKenney, departed yesterday for New York, where they will be at the Plaza hotel until Wednesday. Miss McKenney will attend the football game at Princeton university today.

The Judge Advocate General of the Army and Mrs. John A. Hull were hosts to a company of six at luncheon yesterday in the presidential dining room of the Mayflower in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkham, of St. Louis, their house guests.

Mr. William Phelps Eno, who returned Thursday and is at the Mayflower, had five guests lunching informally with him yesterday in the presidential dining room.

Mrs. Whitehouse Here.

Mrs. Norman O. Whitehouse, of New York, the former Princess Tamara Bagration Moukhransky, who will be in Leesburg, Va., for the shooting season, is passing a few days in Washington at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Hamilton Wright, of Washington, arrived in New York Thursday on the Paris from Europe.

Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs, wife of the director of the Archeological society, is spending a few days at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Richard H. Lane and her daughter, Miss Dorothea Lane, are leaving Washington tomorrow for New York, whence they will sail Friday, November 19, to pass the winter in France.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walker Smith returned yesterday from Cincinnati, where they have been spending several weeks, and have opened their new apartment at Wakefield Hall, 2101 New Hampshire avenue, for the season. Mr. Smith was for many years in the diplomatic service.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Remey, with their daughter, Miss Remey, have arrived for the winter from Newport, R. I.

In honor of the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, the Bureau of Commercial Economics will present "Italy," a series of motion pictures, at the Wardman Park theater tomorrow evening beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. Bruno Roselli, of Vassar college, will make an address.

Mrs. George H. Parker was hostess to a company of 40 at luncheon followed by bridge yesterday at the Columbia Country club in compliment to her house guests, Mrs. Evans Slaughter, of Wildwood, N. J., and Mrs. J. Garnett King, of Fredericksburg, Va., who will remain with her over Sunday. The guests were seated at one large table for the luncheon, yellow and bronze chrysanthemums forming the centerpiece, with sprays of autumn leaves scattered over the table.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Providence hospital will hold its annual tea and linen shower for the benefit of the free wards of that institution the afternoon of Monday, December 6. Mrs. John H. Iden, president of the organization, assisted by the members of the auxiliary, will receive and there will be music and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bones will entertain at the dinner-dance at the Wardman Park hotel this evening in compliment to Mrs. Keith McHugh, of Buffalo, who is spending some time in Washington.

Mrs. George Hillyer, jr., and Mrs. Robert E. Lee Hall have completed their plans for the rummage sale to be given for the Southern Relief home, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 1308 Fourteenth street northwest.

The following members have offered to assist: Mrs. M. R Barnes, Mrs. Pearce Horn, Miss Rosa Fairfax, Miss May V. Frey; Mrs. Archibald Young, Mrs. Peter Pritchard, Mrs. A. V. Fergerson, Mrs. Wallace Streater, Mrs. Gustavis Werber, Mrs. E. J. Rollins, Mrs. Effie R. Tancill, Miss Estelle Phillibert, Mrs. Pauline Long, Mrs. D. C. Ludlow.

Army Relief Ball.

To assist Gen. and Mrs. Jadwin to receive at the engineer branch, Army Relief Society ball at Washington barracks Tuesday will be: The Hon. Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War; Gen. and Mrs. Hanson E. Ely, and Mrs. W. P. Wooten. Col. E. D. Peak will make the presentations.

The ball will be preceded by many large dinner parties. Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Jadwin's guests will include those who receive with them and others, at their home on Massachusetts avenue. Maj. and Mrs. R. T. Ward will have sixteen for dinner at their home on Kilbourne place, Maj. and Mrs. Francis Wilby will have a dinner party for twelve at their home on Belmont road. Maj. and Mrs. Carey Brown will entertain thirty-six for dinner at the Army and Navy club. Maj. and Mrs. R. A. Sharrer, are also to have a dinner for ten. All are later attending the ball at Washington barracks.

Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, who has been a recent guest of Mrs. W. H. Moses at the latter's home on Sixteenth street, entertained a company of friends at tea at the home of her hostess yesterday afternoon, prior to her departure for New York today. Mrs. Seton will return to Washington about November 27, and during her absence will be on a lecture tour which will take her into the States of New York, New Jersey and Ohio. She will also be the guest of the Western New York League of American Pen Women and the Central New York league while in New York State.

At the New York State society concert and ball to be given at the New Willard tonight the reception committee will consist of Mrs. John Nicolson, chairman; Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, jr., Mrs. Frederick Davenport, Mrs. Robert Ash, Mrs. George C. Chase, Miss Mary E. Black, Miss Florence Caroline Adams.

The hostesses for the evening are: Mrs. H. J. McClure, Mrs. George H. Lynch, Miss Helen M. Brown, Mrs. Grace E. Strait, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. Frank S. Sanford, Mr. Carlton van Valkenburg.

The concert preceding the dance will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. The program by Mr. Emmanuel Wad, pianist, and Mr. Heinrich Meyn, barytone, promises to be interesting.

Mr. Wad is dividing his time this season between his studios in New York, Baltimore and Washington. Mr. James Russell Barr will accompany Mr. Meyn at the piano. Mr. Carlton van Valkenburg is chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mr. F. W. Krichelt is chairman of the floor committee.

Zonta Club Dance.

This evening the Zonta club of Washington will give a benefit dance in the garden house of the Grace Dodge hotel. The proceeds of the dance are to be contributed to the 1927 convention fund for the entertainment of the Confederation of Zonta Clubs at their meeting in Washington next May.

Miss Mollie B. Weyman is chairman of the dance committee. Serving with her on the committee are Mrs. Rose Casey, Miss Elizabeth Peet, Miss Gertrude Van Housen, Miss Alice Edwards and Miss Mary Dabney Davis.

Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton entertained a company of sixteen at a bridge luncheon yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Edward Shields, who was a member of the Club des Allies during the world war, of which Mrs. Milton was the founder and president. There were four tables, and the color scheme was yellow, which was given added beauty by the season's wealth of chrysanthemum blooms. Mrs. Milton, who is the president of the Beauregard chapter, No. 1102, U. D. C., has been elected delegate and will attend the Richmond convention of the U. D. C. and will at that time present a memorial to her father, the late Col. John Marshall Seymour, of Virginia, to the Confederate Memorial home at Richmond.

CLERGY APPROVE POST'S GO-TO-CHURCH PROPOSAL

Members of Various Denominations Laud Plan to Start This Month.

ALL PLEDGE ASSISTANCE

The suggestion of The Post for a concerted movement of the churches to further Go-to-Church Sundays, starting this month, has met with approval among members of the Washington clergy.

Bishop James E. Freeman stated: "I am interested deeply in the effort you are to put forth through November in behalf of the churches and that which they represent. I believe the secular press may play a large part in stimulating interest in the great cause of religion and in emphasizing its essential relation to the common things of our everyday life."

The Rev. Earle Wilfley, pastor of Vermont Avenue Christian church, wrote: "May I give my hearty approval to your idea of November as a 'Go-to-Church' month. It is a splendid proposition, and I assure you I will be glad to cooperate in every way possible."

Dr. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, stated: "A united effort on the part of the press and pulpit for the preservation of the home and the increased efficiency of the church must commend itself to all interested in the spiritual welfare of our city and country."

The Rev. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church, said: "It probably would help to have one or more full pages set aside for religious notices, perhaps colored pages as you do for sports."

The Rev. W. E. Balderson, of Straus Memorial Church of Christ: "How about asking every local minister to use a certain timely theme for one Sunday during the month of November? Your plan is, indeed, a good one."

The Rev. James E. Marshall, pastor of Georgetown Presbyterian church, stated he had started a go-to-church movement in his church, closely following The Post plan.

The Rev. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian church, stated:

"Not to increase attendance at services but to renew the thought of our citizenry on the moral necessity of spiritual purposes in life."

Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew congregation, said:

"I believe your 'go-to-church' month is a move in the right direction and deserves the support of all men and women who believe in religion and in religion as organized in churches and synagogues."

Staff Capt. Holz, of the Salvation Army, assured his cooperation "in any endeavor to increase church attendance."

LUCY GARDNER HERE FOR SERIES OF TALKS

Lectures to Be Given at Friends Church and at Calvary Baptist.

Miss Lucy Gardner, organizer of the "Copec Movement," conference on politics, economics and citizenship, held in England last year, is visiting Washington, where she will deliver a series of talks which have been arranged by the Rev. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Miss Gardner will speak tomorrow morning in the Friends' church on I street and tomorrow evening in Calvary Baptist church. Luncheons, at which she will make brief addresses, will be tendered her at the Cosmos club on Monday at 12:30 under the joint auspices of the Washington committee of the Federal Council and the International Good Will committee of the Federation of Churches, and at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday at 1 o'clock, to which social workers of the city have been invited.

While here Miss Gardner will be entertained at teas given by the Women's City club on Sunday afternoon at their clubhouse, and the English Speaking union on Wednesday afternoon at their headquarters, 1107 Sixteenth street. Tuesday night she will be guest at dinner of the Women's University club.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES APPEALS FOR FUNDS

$40,000 Goal Is Set to Care for Dependent Children in Next Year.

Declaring that child dependency and delinquency have increased in Washington because the relief problem has not been met honestly and squarely, the Catholic Charities, of which the Rev. John O'Grady is director, yesterday announced a public appeal for a $40,000 fund to carry on its work for the next year.

"If the Catholic Charities and other relief agencies," the appeal said, "were able to deal with the problems of relief more effectively, there would be less demand for juvenile courts and for public agencies for the care of dependent, neglected and delinquent children."

The Catholic Charities aims to conserve the home life of the poor and to do everything possible to keep children with their parents, and at present is caring for more than 60 mothers with dependent children who otherwise would be compelled to separate.

Expenditures last year, the sixth of the organization's existence, amounted to $36,843.83 for service and relief, of which $15,680.07 was spent for actual relief in families, the appeal said. Its work is supplemental to the work of the St. Vincent de Paul societies in the various parishes, demands on which have increased 50 per cent in the last year.

PASTOR 16 YEARS

THE REV. JOSEPH R. SIZOO, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian church, will observe the sixteenth anniversary of his ordination tomorrow. The Rev. Sizoo will also address the International Friendship Service in Epiphany Episcopal church at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

FATHERS-SONS SERVICE AT CONCORDIA LUTHERAN

SPECIAL MUSIC PROGRAM

A father and son service will be held at Concordia Lutheran Evangelical church, tomorrow at 8 p. m. Francis Fahy, president of the Concordia Evangelical brotherhood, will be in charge of the service. Raymond Escherich, tenor soloist, and Harry Meiners, clarinet soloist, will provide special music. The speaker will be Judge Lawrence Becker, who for some years had charge of juvenile court proceedings.

In the morning services, German at 10 a. m. and English at 11:15 a. m., the Rev. Chas. Enders will preach on "The Final Judgment."

The Rev. Clarence E. Rice will preach at 11 a. m. in the Ambassador theater, where the congregation of First Universalist church is meeting, on "A Strength and Efficiency." Miss Florence Bond will lead the Y. C. P. U. at 7 o'clock. "A Harvest of Souls" will be the 11 a. m. topic of the Rev. Edward O. Clark in Chevy Chase Baptist church tomorrow morning. The evening subject will be "A Fabled Proposal."

The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo will observe the sixteenth anniversary of his ordination in New York Avenue Presyterian church tomorrow morning. He will preach on "The Outlook for Religion." Dr. Sizoo will preach the first of a series of sermons on "Problems in Personal Conduct and Character" on "Why We Fail" at the evening service. Sunday night Dr. John E. Briggs will preach on "The Cross of Christ" in Fifth Baptist church. Special illumination will be provided, included a lighted cross.

The Rev. Charles Wood, in Church of the Covenant, will speak tomorrow night on "Bulgaria—A Czar's Self-determination and the Results." The 11 a. m. sermon will be on "Christ's Imitators." In All Souls' Unitarian church the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce will preach at 11 a. m. on "The Twice Born," in the afternoon at 5 o'clock the fall series of quiet periods will be inaugurated. "Why a Man Kissed the Places His Bride Walked Over" is the topic of the Rev. E. Hez Swem tomorrow night in Centennial Baptist church.

The Rev. Warren H. Wilson, of the Presbyterian board of national missions, will be the speaker at 11 a. m. in Takoma Park Presbyterian church tomorrow. The Rev. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will preach at 11 a. m. in Luther Place Memorial church in the absence of the Rev. George Diffenderfer, who is in Carlisle, Pa. Dr. Darby's theme will be "The Progress of the Church." In the evening Dr. Darby will speak on "Wanted—Leaders" in Vermont Avenue Christian church.

The Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal church, will conduct morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock. The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew will meet in the parish house library at 3:30 p. m. The rector will preach at 4:30 p. m. Dr. Robert Johnston will preach on "Are Christian Sacraments of Pagan Origin" in St. John's Episcopal church tomorrow.

During the absence of the pastor at the international convention of Disciples Churches at Memphis, Tenn., John M. Robsion, member of Congress from Kentucky, will speak at Vermont Avenue Christian church tomorrow at 11 a. m.

School of Missions.

Beginning Monday, there will be a school of missions held each night from Monday to Thursday inclusive at Central Presbyterian church. The Rev. J. A. Trostle, superintendent of home missions for the presbytery of Potomac, will conduct the Bible hour. Mrs. D. G. Armstrong, missionary to Brazil, representing the Central Presbyterian church, will give an account of the work at Campo Bello, Brazil. Miss Nancy White, of Richmond, Va., will conduct the mission study class. The class will study the recent book on mountain missions, entitled, "The Land of Saddlebags."

Mrs. Bill to Speak.

Mrs. Annie C. Bill will give an address at the Sunday service of the Christian Science Parent Church of the New Generation, in the assembly room of the Hotel Lafayette at 11 o'clock, on "The Sabbath."

DEAN BENNETT TO SPEAK TO EPISCOPAL CLERICUS

TO PREACH AT ST. MARK'S

The clericus of the Episcopal diocese of Washington will not meet on Tuesday, its regular meeting day. This announcement is made by the Rev. George F. Dudley, secretary of the clericus. The Very Rev. F. S. M. Bennett, dean of the Cathedral at Chester, England, is to visit Washington next week, arriving on Friday. In order to take advantage of the presence of this clergyman, it has been decided to postpone the meeting of the clericus.

On November 23, the clericus, which is composed of a majority of the clergymen of the Episcopal Church in Washington and neighborhood, will meet at 1 p. m. at Diocesan house, 1329 K street, for luncheon in honor of the dean of Chester and for an address by him on "Modernizing Cathedrals."

The dean of Chester will conduct a week-end mission on personal religion at St. Mark's church on Saturday and Sunday, and beginning on Wednesday, November 24, will cover an extended speaking program principally in connection with the Washington Cathedral and its activities.

The service at St. Mark's church on next Saturday will be held at 8 p. m., and those on the following Sunday at 11 a. m. and 4 and 8 p. m.

C. E. Union to Hold Banquet on Friday

The first annual banquet of the District of Columbia Junior Christian Endeavor Union will be held Friday evening at 6 o'clock, in Metropolitan Presbyterian church.

The flying squadron of the District of Columbia Christian Endeavor Union will meet tomorrow evening with the Riverdale Presbyterian C. E. society. The District C. E. Union has arranged for the Near East relief to serve the Christian Endeavor societies of the District a real "Golden Rule dinner" at the City club on Monday, November 22.

THEOLOGY PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK TOMORROW

FROM EMORY U. FACULTY

Dr. W. Aiken Smart, who will be the special speaker at the Union 4 o'clock services tomorrow afternoon in Eighth Street temple, given under the auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches, has been called "the prophetic voice of the South." Since 1914 Dr. Smart has been professor of Biblical theology at Emory university, Georgia, following a pastorate in Charlottesville, Va.

Dr. Smart will speak on "Just Folks." The Rev. J. H. Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian church, who will preside at the union service, is a classmate of Dr. Smart's, as is also Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches. In the absence of Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, minister of First Congregational church, Dr. Smart also will preach at the morning service held in Crandall's Metropolitan theater, on "God in the Modern World."

PAGEANT TO DEPICT REFORMATION EPOCH

Life of Luther to Be Shown With Wealth of Costume Characters.

Under auspices of the Luther League of the District, the Lutheran young people of Washington will present the pageant, "The Story of the Reformation, or the Life of Luther," November 23 in the Auditorium. Coming at the close of the Reformation season, which began with the nailing of the famous 95 theses on the door of the Castle church, at Wittenburg, by Martin Luther, this pageant is especially appropriate.

The historical characters of those times will be seen in costume. Music, tableaux, personification and illustrated lectures will be the means of presenting to the public the story of Luther's life.

This pageant, which was written by Mrs. Harriet E. Monroe, of this city, has been presented in several cities. It will be directed by Miss LaRue M. Chorpening, of Clearfield, Pa. A chorus of 200 voices will support the cast.

Harvest Festival Tomorrow.

The annual harvest festival of St. Barnabas church, Leeland, Md., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting was postponed from last Sunday. St. Paul's Washington choir of 35 boys will sing and the Rev. A. A. MacCallum will preach.

Men's Club Meeting.

On Tuesday there will be a meeting of the Men's club of St. Margaret's Episcopal church for the purpose of forming the membership committee. A meeting of the Rector's Aid society was held yesterday to lay plans for the annual Christmas bazaar which will be held on December 2 and 3.

Bible Class Employs Full Time Worker

A new plan in men's Bible classes has been set by the A. B. Pugh men's class of Mount Vernon Place church, in the employment of an all-time worker. S. L. Thomas, formerly secretary Railroad Y. M. C. A., Richmond, Va., has been secured and will give his entire time to building up the membership and activities of this class.

Mr. Thomas comes highly recommended by Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, also by leading Y. M. C. A. and religious workers of Washington who have known of his experience. Mr. Thomas earned commendation for his work with men in the front line trenches in France.

EPISCOPAL MEN ASKED TO WOMEN'S MEETING

Rector of Brazilian Church Will Speak Before the Auxiliary Tuesday.

OFFERING TOTALS $4,487

An unusual event in the life of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Washington will take place Tuesday night, when the men of the church are invited to attend a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary. The occasion will be the address in Epiphany church at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Franklin L. Osborn, rector of the Church of Our Saviour at Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil.

Miss Sallie Dean, of Richmond, Va., will spend the coming week in Washington, in the interest of the extension work of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church.

Announcement has been made from the newly established offices of the Women's Auxiliary in diocesan house at 1329 K street northwest, to the effect that the total amount of the united thank offering collected during the last 12 months is $4,487.51. This includes the offerings recently presented at a special service in St. Mark's church.

The monthly meeting of the Sunday School Institute of the Diocese of Washington will be held in St. John's parish hall, Sixteenth street, near H street northwest, at 8 p. m Tuesday. The program: "The Project Method in Religious Education," speaker, Prof. Frederick Lee, dean of arts and sciences, University of Maryland; "Lesson Preparation and Presentation," speaker, Leon C. Palmer, executive secretary, national commission on evangelism, formerly secretary Sunday School Association of Alabama and South Carolina.

The Rev. George F. Dudley, the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, the Rev. C. T. Warner and the Rev. Clyde Brown compose a committee of the field department of the executive council of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of Washington, which, with the cooperation of the Laymen's Service association, will conduct a missionary mass meeting in the Washington auditorium Sunday evening, November 28. Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander, of the Washington cathedral, will preside.

Dayton Choir Concert Here on December 1

The Dayton Westminster choir of 60 voices, which made its initial appearance here last year, will give a concert in Central High school December 1.

Prof. Williamson, choir director, has selected the choir from the Westminster Choral association, of Dayton, Ohio. The concert is under the auspices of the interdenominational committee of which the Rev. J. R. Duffield, executive secretary of the Washington city presbytery, is chairman.

$20,000 COLLECTED FOR MINISTERS' FUND

Presbyterian Churches Report $10,740 Raised by Teams in Drive for Pensions.

A total of approximately $20,000 has been raised in the local campaign for $135,000 needed to make effective the new self-sustaining service pension system for all paid workers of the Presbyterian Church, according to reports made last night by lay committeemen at a banquet at the Franklin Square hotel.

Campaign teams reported that $19,740 had been raised during the last week's solicitation. The largest sum was announced by the Washington Heights Presbyterian church, which reported subscriptions amounting to $3,170. Gunton Temple was second with $2,500, and other church committees reported: Fourth church, $1,500; New York Avenue, $957; Metropolitan, $675; Berwyn, $500; Chevy Chase, $400; Westminster, $400; Takoma, $235; Sherwood, $215; Eastern, $175, and First church, $13.

John B. Larner, Washington chairman, who presided, explained the details of the new retirement plan which will provide pensions ranging from $600 to $2,000 for church servants having 35 years of service.

Four Special Sermons.

For the next four Sunday nights at Ninth Street Christian church, the pastor, the Rev. B. H. Melton, will preach four special sermons. Tomorrow at 7:45, "A Young Woman's Ideal Young Man." November 21, 7:45, "The Cottage, Red Schoolhouse and Church," annual sermon to the Daughters of America. November 28, 7:45, "A Young Man's Ideal Young Woman." December 5, 7:45, "An Ideal Old Maid." Special choir and orchestra music.

Physical Phenomena Topic.

"Physical Phenomena" is the subject of a lecture tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the United Lodge of Theosophists, 709 Hill building. The public is welcome. The Wednesday study class meets at 8 p. m. to continue the study of "The Ocean of Theosophy."

Y. W. C. A. TO INAUGURATE WORLD WEEK OF PRAYER

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo to Preach at Services Tomorrow at Epiphany Church.

9,000 CENTERS WILL JOIN

Beginning tomorrow throughout the world a week of prayer is being celebrated in 9,000 Y. W. C. A. centers, in forty countries, forming an invisible chain uniting 1,038,000 women in Christian fellowship.

Through the world's committee has come word from many countries showing the growing strength of this movement. Egypt and Palestine have joined in a new eastern Mediterranean federation, which held its first meeting in Jerusalem this spring. The federation will issue its own magazine dealing with all the interests of women in that region. In Chile, Argentine and Uruguay encouraging results have been reported.

In the chaotic political conditions in China a happy note is sounded by the pledge of the Chinese Y. W. C. A. to aid in all processes for bringing about the right relationship between the nations. In various conferences there, evidences have been shown of a sense of a new freedom from the Western forms of work. The association of India, Burma and Ceylon pledged itself, locally and nationally, to the promotion of understanding, sympathy and cooperation in service between the members of differing races and classes. Korea, though only five years old as an association, is growing rapidly. At Oxford it became affiliated to the world's association.

In Roumania camps have had deep and far-reaching results, and the first business girls' club has been formed in the Bucharest association. The Princess Ileana is president of the Girl Reserves of Roumania.

Washington inaugurates this week of prayer with an international friendship service to be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in Church of the Epiphany. Every department of the association will be represented in the processional, which will be led by the choir and clergy of the church, followed by the girl reserves who will carry the flags of many nations, the board of directors and other groups. Members of the staff will act as ushers. Dr. Z. B. Phillips, the rector, will preside, and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, will make the address. It is hoped that all friends of the association and those interested in the fellowship of women the world over, both men and women, will come to this service.

WALDRON TO SPEAK ON SOUL TOMORROW

Will Be Second Sermon of Series at Shiloh Baptist Church.

Tomorrow at 11 a. m. the Rev. J. Milton Waldron will preach the second sermon in the series on "The Christian Life," at Shiloh Baptist church. His subject will be "The Soul's Necessary Food—The Word Of God."

These sermons are preparatory to the Keystone International graded lessons, which will be taken up in all of the departments of the Sunday school of Shiloh church, beginning with the new year. At night, the subject of the pastor's sermon will be "Old Testament Characters—Isaac, the Child of Prayer." The men's quartet will assist the choir both morning and night.

The Rev. George O. Bullock's topic at Third Baptist church at 11 a. m., "Man's Part in the Salvation of a Lost World"; 8 p. m., "A Motion Picture in Songs." Mrs. R. J. Gray is leader. The Bible school will meet at 9:15 a. m. The Y. P. C. E. society will meet at 6 p. m.

At Lincoln Congregational temple tomorrow morning, the Rev. R. W. Brooks will speak on "This Generation's Need of Salvation." The choir will render special music. The Progressive Bible class meets at 10 a.m. The Junior Endeavor society will have its program at 4 p. m. The senior society will present an anniversary program at 6:45 p. m.

Hamilton is Feature Film.

"Alexander Hamilton," in the Yale Chronicles of America series, will be the feature at the motion picture hour in Pierce hall, All Souls' church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. The film includes scenes in the closing days of the War for Independence, the inauguration of George Washington as first President and the activities of Hamilton as first Secretary of the Treasury.

Ministers to Meet.

The Presbyterian Ministers association will meet in New York Avenue Presbyterian church at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. Dr. George S. Duvan, who was to speak, is ill. The Rev. William J. Seelye will read a paper on "The Incarnation."

SELF-CONTROL

DOING to others as you would have them do to you, is merely one of the fundamental principles of the law of compensation. Our main fight in life is with ourselves, to keep ourselves under control at all times and under all conditions. To be calm and peaceful when we feel that some one has done us a wrong, is the act of a just person. Such is the result of self-control and self-discipline.

The man who can bring himself to this state of mind under all conditions must first have the governing principles of life well defined and then cultivate the power of self-control. To do this we must know that there is a Supreme governing power over all things who rights the wrongs and rewards the good. No man commits an unjust act without receiving punishment and by the same token a man can not do good without being rewarded. These are two fundamental principles of Christianity.

A test of our spiritual development is to pass an injustice without malace or hatred. Christianity teaches self-control and self-denial by which the law of compensation makes all adjustments.

The church keeps before us the principles of Christianity in all of our actions and helps us to attain self-control by which we pass through the tribulations of life untouched and unharmed.

21st Great Anniversary Sale Starts Monday

Unusual Savings for Everyone—Come and Save

Not so many years ago, twenty-one to be exact, there was a small, unpretentious store located at 824 Seventh Street, and known as Peoples Pharmacy.

From this small beginning has grown one of the largest drug store organizations in the world, serving thousands faithfully and satisfactorily every day and night throughout the year.

Forty-six progressive drug stores comprise this huge chain; backed by three mammoth warehouses to insure all stores having a complete, fresh stock at all times.

The years have changed the physical appearance of our organization—we have grown in size—we have increased our number of stores from one to forty-six—our volume of business has jumped from $20,000 for the first year to approximately eight million dollars annually

The underlying principles to which we attribute much of our success remain unchanged—twenty-one years ago when a customer entered our one small store—courteous, helpful service plus fair prices were the order of the day—today and every day you are assured of the same satisfying service and low prices in each of our forty-six progressive drug stores.

You, the buying public, are responsible for Peoples Drug Stores' twenty-one years of existence. By your appreciation of quality at a fair price and your confidence in us you have helped our stores to maintain their high standard of service.

Your needs and desires are deeply imbedded in the walls of our business. You have the right to expect the utmost in quality and service at "Peoples," for you are responsible for our success.

Our Anniversary Sale Brings Greater Savings to You!

To show you just how much we appreciate your loyal support throughout the twenty-one years of our happy business career, we will conduct a great six-day profit-sharing Anniversary Sale.

Our buyers have been busy for months preparing for this once-a-year event. You can expect unusual money-saving values—you won't be disappointed. Each day of this wonderful sale—special, out-of-the-ordinary low prices will prevail on needed drug store merchandise.

Sunday's Post and Star will tell of many of the Anniversary Sale features—hundreds of others will be on display in our windows and stores.

Read the sale news in Sunday's papers—come Monday and share in the most important sale in our history! We'll expect you—

COMMISSIONERS BAN ELDRIDGE'S PENALTY ON PERMIT RENEWAL

"STAGGERING" ISSUANCE OF NEW CARDS FAVORED

Alternative Plan Would Use Police to Canvass Delinquent Car Owners.

The District commissioners at their semiweekly meeting yesterday rejected Traffic Director M. O. Eldridge's proposed regulation to render motorists criminally liable to arrest for failure to apply for renewal of driving permits within specified periods. They did not take the technical step of voting the rule down, but withheld action on it pending efforts to find some other way of inducing automobile drivers to come in for new cards.

Notwithstanding approval of the regulation by Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens as legal, the commissioners are said to have taken the view that the act of Congress placed on Eldridge the burden of getting the permits reissued and did not contemplate that he shift that burden to the public.

Those who do not get their permits by July 3 will not be permitted to drive after that date until they can show new tickets. This is sufficient penalty, the commissioners were said to have held, without resorting to $300 fines and ten-day jail sentences to penalize automobilists for not having filed their applications prior to that date.

Alternative Plan Discussed.

The principle of "staggering" the call for permits—that is, calling for a specified number to apply for reissue each month—was not disapproved. The commissioners held that the traffic director had not presented a correct plan for carrying out the idea.

An alternative plan was informally discussed. It was suggested that Eldridge use his permit-issuing force to send notices individually to the "staggered" list of permit holders, giving each one a reasonably long period in which he is expected to report, with possible use of the police force to canvass delinquents and ask them personally to come in.

Eldridge was absent from the District building, attending on the House subcommittee investigating the local government, so it was not possible for his views on the alternative plan to be sought by the commissioners yesterday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Friday, Nov. 12—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia: Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday cloudy and warmer, probably showers Sunday afternoon or night; gentle to moderate southerly winds.

Pressure is high from the Mississippi valley and Manitoba eastward to the Atlantic coast, Richmond, Va., 30.54 inches, and it is low west of the Mississippi river and over the Canadian Northwest, except Manitoba, Juneau, Alaska, 29.34, and Pueblo, Colo., 29.54 inches. There have been rains within the last 24 hours over most sections west of the Rocky mountains, while fair weather has prevailed east of the Rockies. The temperature has risen from the plains States eastward to the Atlantic coast, and it has fallen in the Pacific States and the plateau region.

The eastward advance of the Western disturbance will cause southerly winds and rising temperature Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi river, and increasing cloudiness over the eastern half of the country, with showers in the lower lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the east gulf States Saturday night or Sunday and in the Atlantic States Sunday afternoon or night.

VAUGHN CLASS GIVES ITS ANNUAL CONCERT

Many Local Musicians Take Part at Calvary Sunday School House.

A large audience attended the thirty-sixth annual concert of the Vaughn Bible class of Calvary Baptist church in the Sunday school house last night. The entertainment was furnished by many Washington musicians. Those taking part were:

The Hood quartet, composed of Miss Gretchen Hood, soprano; Miss Hazel Arth, contralto; Robert O'Lone, tenor; William Cross, barytone; Carlos P. Furminger, cornetist; Miss Florence Adams, reader; Henry Goldstein, xylophone; Ralon Instrumental trio, Arsenio Ralon, violinist; L. E. Manoly, cellist; M. Gittlemen, pianist. Accompanists were George F. Ross, Mrs. Frances Hubbard and Matt Horne. George H. O'Connor gave popular songs. Chairmen of the committees in charge of the concert were Earl Fuller, talent; Jesse Ward, programs; H. H. Saxton, tickets; Hugh W. Smith, press; O. A. C. Oehmler, decorations; J. A. Patterson, reception.

As many as 32,000 persons have attended these annual concerts since they started thirty-six years ago. The proceeds are used for benevolent purposes.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Druggist proves a friend in need

Kalispell, Mont., March 1:—"Two years ago my face was an awful sight. The skin broke out with pimples and blackheads and itched all the time. I washed it frequently and applied various salves, but they helped little. One day I asked a druggist for a good cure for my ease, and that night I took home a small jar of Resinol Ointment. Every morning and night I washed my face and applied the ointment, rubbing it in good. After a few treatments I noticed the pimples were starting to decrease and in two or three weeks they were practically gone. I was so well pleased with the results that I now keep Resinol on hand and recommend it whenever I can." (Signed) Elkin E. Berry, 1028 Third Ave. West.

SECOND LOVE

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MacLEAN

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

John Parrish, unhappy and despairing, has gone out at night to a desolate place beside the railroad in Philadelphia, apparently bent on suicide. He is followed by his father-in-law, Harry Morton, and by Marcie Allen, who has energetically "vamped" both men. Parrish had left his rich young wife, Audrey, because of her tactless nagging. He becomes interested in Marcie, and follows her from Washington to Philadelphia, but Morton has followed them both, and Marcie drops Parrish in favor of the older, wealthier, more attractive man. As this chapter opens, the man and girl are watching Parrish, in the gloom.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.

PARRISH was standing rigidly, his head thrown back.

Isn't he a scream?" whispered Marcie.

She pulled his hand away. "Is he going to snoot himself, do you think?" she said, excitedly. She put her hands over her ears, but immediately dropped them when Morton leaned toward her.

"I think he intends to," he said, almost inaudibly, "but I'll stop him in time."

Parrish had not heard them. His own voice was raised again, moaning.

"My God, my God!" he said again. They could see his arms rise, and fall limp against his sides. Then he began fumbling in a pocket of his coat, from which he drew something—it was too dark for them to see what it was he held.

Morton stepped forward, quickly. "Let me! Let me!" breathed Marcie.

In a moment she was speeding down the slope, stumbling over cans and bits of sheet iron and the staves of broken barrels.

"John!" she cried.

Parrish started and turned. The thing he had drawn from his pocket fell from his relaxed hand, and broke, with a sharp tinkle of glass, as it struck the ground.

"Marcie!"

She threw herself upon his breast and wrapped her arms around him.

"John, boy!" She tugged at him until he bent over, and she kissed him on the cheek. "I've been hunting for you, everywhere."

"Marcie!" It was all he could say. His own arms went around her, and they stood there, like a single figure in the darkness.

Morton had followed the girl, more deliberately.

"Time to continue our stroll," he said, casually.

Parrish lifted his head, which was resting on Marcie's forehead, and looked in bewilderment at the older man.

"Come," said Morton, taking his son-in-law's arm.

With Morton on one side and Marcie clinging to his other hand, Parrish started toward the tracks, without a word. His bare head was hanging, as if no strength were left in his neck to support it, and his feet dragged.

"What was it you dropped when I came?" Marcie asked.

He did not reply—he acted as if he did not hear.

"Was it a vial of—of somethng?" she persisted.

Still he did not answer. They led him to the nearest street, and back to his hotel. As they reached the door, Morton asked:

"Are you all right, now? Will you go to bed?"

Parrish nodded, dumbly, his eyes upon the girl. He swallowed once or twice, as if to regain his voice. Then he said: "You do care for me!"

She took his face between her hands, and looked up at him. "He's a dear old boy. Of course, Marcie likes him!"

He went into the building, and together, Morton and Marcie walked away.

"Goodness — it's nearly midnight," she said.

"Wasn't that exciting?" she went on, her arm thrust through his, and her hand upon his wrist. "It was better than a play!"

"Yes, much better," he agreed, absently.

"I never hoped to see anything big like that, actually," she prattled. "Will he try it again, do you think?"

"No." Morton's tone was assured. "He's had his emotional explosion. He's used up—all in. He'll probably go to sleep with his clothes on."

She looked up, much interested. "You talk as if you knew all about it! Did you ever get the way John is—did you ever explode?" She gave a light laugh. "I can't imagine it!"

"Yes, I—exploded," he said, soberly.

The girl squeezed his arm. "Tell me all about it," she commanded.

"It was many years ago. There was no emotion in his quiet voice. "I went out into the desert—the real desert in Arizona. And I flung up my arms to Heaven, and cried out as the boy did, tonight. Only it wasn't a vial I had with me—it was a revolver."

"Oh!" she said, breathlessly. "And what stopped you?"

"Audrey," he said.

She halted, as she waited for him to proceed.

"Audrey would have been left, helpless and unprotected. She was a baby then," he explained. "And I remembered her, and came back."

Marcie went to the mirror and looked at herself. "We drive men mad with love, don't we?" she said to her reflection with a happy smile.

The girl walked on with him. "Was it a woman who sent you out there—out into the desert?"

"A woman," he said.

Marcie gave an ecstatic gurgle. "Aren't we women powerful? Isn't it splendid that we can stir men up so?"

"Very," said he, dryly. "Extremely splendid. But remember this, my dear." She halted again and looked at him. "No man ever does that twice."

"Do you mean I can't stir John up again like that?" she inquired, as they proceeded.

"That's the idea, exactly."

"I'll bet I can." She spoke with assurance.

"Do you mean," he inquired, "that you'd actually like to drive a man to desperation, the second time?"

"What woman wouldn't?" She linked her fingers with him. "Women just love emotion, you know. It's the breath of life to them."

She moved her other hand, to place it on Morton's. "I wish I could make you emote, all over the place, the way John did tonight!"

"Thank you," said he. "Sorry I can't oblige you."

"But," she said, "maybe you will some time, when you learn to love me!"

They had reached her hotel. He took her to the elevator, and bade her good night.

"Shall we breakfast together in the morning?" he asked, as the boy held the elevator door open.

"Surely—9 o'clock," she said.

She waved to him as he turned away, and, contentedly, she hummed a tune as she went to her room and unlocked the door. Inside, she went to the mirror and looked at herself closely.

"We drive men mad with love, don't we?" she said to her reflection, with a happy smile. She was singing as she bathed, slipped into her nightgown and went to bed.

Morton was waiting for her the next morning as she descended to the lobby.

"Just came from Parrish's," he said.

"So early?" Her eyebrows expressed surprise as they went to the dining room.

"I was there all night," he told her. "Had a boy bring a bag of linen from my hotel."

"Why did you do that? It's a sticky old place!"

"Wanted to watch over John," he said. "Took the next room. But he's all right. Had a look at him this morning. He rolled over, blinked at me as if he thought I was a dream and then he tucked his head under the pillow. I felt of his forehead. There was no fever—he's okay."

Marcie sighed in gentle contentment. "He's dippy over me," she said. She looked up dreamily. "Was Nona as dippy as that over you?"

"Nona again!" he laughed. "You think a great deal about Nona, don't you?"

"Surely—she's my hated rival. I do hate her." She poised a bit of buttered toast on her fingers. "Did she ever drive any man to desperation?"

"Not that I've heard about," he said.

"Audrey told me that she went to pieces over you, though, the time she proposed to you and you rejected her," she informed him.

"Audrey tells too much," he remarked.

"Oh, no-o-o!" Marcie cried. "She doesn't tell nearly enough. When is Nona coming back from London?"

"Rather soon, I think."

"Will she come to Washington?"

He smiled, slightly. "Audrey is a little lonely, since you went away—she might invite Nona to her house."

The girl's face fell. "I'd go right back now, and stay there—only if I do, all my nice plans would be mixed up." She lifted her cup of coffee and sipped it, studying his face. "I've got to hurry, haven't I?"

Morton laid down his fork, and dipped into the breast pocket of his coat. She looked with deep interest as he drew forth a telegram.

"It's from Audrey," he said. "It came to my hotel this morning—I dropped in to get it." He unfolded the paper, and glanced over it." "Let me see it. What does it say?" Marcie said.

He gently shook his head. "It's my telegram—but it says that Nona arrives in Washington tomorrow."

(To be continued tomorrow.)

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

WHAT CAN YOU DO FOR PEOPLE IN GRIEF?

IT is difficult to know how to help people in times of sorrow, unless you know them so well that they are able to tell you themselves. Of course, you can go to their relations and friends, and naturally when you are intimate with people you are also intimate with their circumstances and habits, and can judge where you may be of use.

With acquaintances, or associates in business, I think notes of sympathy, or cards left at the house, are sufficient, unless you happen to be aware of some particular way in which you, and only you, can smooth over difficulties for them. Sometimes people are in strange places, or left in strange situations, where help from an outsider is very necessary, and should be given as kindly as possible. But in the midst of their own family surroundings, I should consider that, at first, my acquantances would want my sympathy expressed by letter only. If a friend were alone, I should certainly go to her.

No one can be offended by the warm-hearted offer of friendly assistance, but generally, when people have lost any one dear to them, the shock and the dreadful details that follow death are not made easier by the many outside demands on their attention. So, unless certain of being both needed and wanted, I should not insist upon seeing any one in a house of mourning. I should also make sure that they did not wish to prevent the sending of flowers before I sent them. Many people beg that flowers shall not be sent to a funeral, and beg in vain.

In old times women did not go to funerals. I don't know why, but I know they were not supposed to do so. Now, of course, they do, and very proper it is that we should show that sympathy and pay that respect to the families of people we have known and loved. But I should never take a child to a funeral. I should never bring the details of death to its notice. I should never allow that terrible inspection of the dead which is one of the customs of common, as it has to be of celebrated people. I should show as much regard for the feelings of mourners as I could, but I should show it with restraint.

New Turkish Woman Wars on Cosmetics

Constantinople, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Turkish women, famed before and since unveiling for their expert use of cosmetics have opened war against what a Turkish authoress calls "the policy of paint."

This authoress, writing in a Constantinople periodical, attacked her country-women's habit of penciling eyelids, staining their fingers with henna and reddening their lips.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Marriage on Ten a Week.

MY Dear Miss McDonald: I wrote to you once before for advice, but never received an answer. But I'm going to try again.

I have a husband—aged 34—and one child, a girl almost 7. We have been married twelve years.

My family is rather poor—has always had to count the pennies and lives about 15 miles from us.

My husband makes $25 a week. We lived with my parents for the first eight years of our married life, as we eloped and announced it four months later. My husband was working at that time for $10 a week. I worked as telephone operator for one year after marriage and then had to stop. For three years he was out of work more than in, lived with my family and still owe mother $400 for that period and his family almost $300. Through employment agency found present position two years ago. Started in at $25. Still makes it. They pay no more, as they can always get men for his work at that salary.

He is practically the baby of his family—dearly loved, naturally by his family. Whatever he does, is right in their eyes. He has never been taught a trade. Went three years to high school and is only a clerk and typist (two-finger kind). He is a good husband—stays home unless I insist on him going to his lodge—spends money only on cigarettes (about 60 cents a week), helps around the house.

Your answers are always brutally frank, and I'm going to be just as frank. I thoroughly detest housework and really have to force myself to do it. We are all of us very healthy. I get a great many headaches, the doctor says it is my nerves. Sometimes I get sort of hysterical but don't dare let my husband know it as he gets awfully cross when I can't get to sleep at night. Well, the thing is, he has had over a dozen jobs in seven years, will hunt jobs but seems unable to hold them or won't hold them, so in a nutshell, Miss McDonald, I want to know, how I can force him to make more money and provide for me as he should, pay over debts to our relatives and give me a chance to hold up my head. We sold our Liberty bonds to pay for a correspondence course for him and he never studied it; everything is on a level with that. He will not do anything to better our condition. If some one finds him a job he will work at it a few months or more—that is all. Am I to go on this way? Do you consider he is doing as a man should? I have said I expect you to be frank. And will await your verdict. LOVELLA.

Well, to begin with, the sort of man who dares to marry on $10 a week should, in my humble opinion, not be at large at all. Next, the woman who participates in the adventure should be prepared for the worst. You both displayed a total lack of that fine thing known as a sense of responsibility. You now resent the fact that your husband continues to display his lack. Are you logical? Another thing, if your husband, at marriageable age, could command but $10 a week it may be that he is not competent to do any better than he has done to date, I have omitted the long and detailed list you supplied his many employments in the past twelve years. This indicates a condition perhaps his family may understand. In any case, I think your sole logical procedure is to think out your course as an individual. The man can support himself. He can not, apparently, support you, much less the child you have or others that you may have. I see no way that you can force a man to hold jobs, or find jobs. And because of my perhaps unforwarded opinion in your husband's case, I believe you should become self-supporting. To be frank, I believe there is a constitutional explanation of the man's predicament. And I feel it is not human to force, nag, coerce or overburden him. Just forget that you married this man and proceed to earn your living exactly as if you were single. That seems to me to be all that you can do, and just what you should do!

EVE IN PARIS

DEAR Claribel: The diamond earrings sketched at the upper left are three square-cut bits of loveliness, set one above the other. The woman who wore them had on a very simple black velvet evening gown and every place she went she seemed to be the center of admiration.

In the daytime—she is famous for her jewels—she wore the old directoire watch of blue enamel and pearls that I have sketched next to her earring. Of course, it had been reset. The circle below the watch face was transparent crystal, to show the small fly-wheel set in a rim of minute diamonds. The three strands by which the watch hung were of pearls, and the bar pin of diamonds and pearls.

To come down to the practical—notice the new three-quarter length coat in a color contrasting with the frock. The frock fabric lines the coat and a band of the coat fabric finishes the frock—quite a good notion for makeovers, don't you think, as well as being very smart?

As ever,
EVE.

Beauty and You

By VIOLA PARIS.

Perhaps you have been alarmed at some time by the sudden bleeding of the gums immediately after brushing the teeth. You have been confronted by what is known as "pink toothbrush."

This is not an uncommon occurrence. It indicates a condition which is not in itself desperately serious, but which calls for attention lest anything worse follow as a result. The gums have become soft and sensitive. Instead of being gentle with them, just the opposite treatment is the one to follow. Massage the gums with the finger tips (after brushing the teeth and making sure that the hands are scrupulously clean.) Press just as hard as you can without too great discomfort, using a rotary motion. It is an excellent plan to apply a good toothpaste with the finger tips during the massage.

When you brush your teeth, don't edge gingerly around the gums, but include them in your up-and-down brushing. You may have to be a bit gentle at first, but the gums will soon respond and will soon become normal. If they do not, that is a warning signal that a dentist should be immediately consulted.

Are you eating enough hard foods? At practically every meal, try to include foods that will give the teeth and gums exercise—even if it is only a hard crust of bread.

Wide Field Covered By Women Inventors

London, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Among inventions by women for women shown at the international exhibition of inventions was a device by which the outside of a window may be cleaned inside the room.

Versatility was the keynote of the inventions of women who supplied about 20 per cent of the exhibits. One was a table which may be transformed into a wash stand, a work table and a receptacle for cookery. A folding cup, plate and saucer attracted attention.

Mrs. Botha Once More Unites Rival Groups

Longueval, France, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Louis Botha, widow of Gen. Botha, played the principal part in the unveiling of the Delville Wood memorial to the South African soldiers who fell in the world war. He presence meant the temporary burying of the political hatchet between the two opposing parties in South Africa.

It was through Gen. Hertzog, premier of the South African Union, the most prominent political adversary of her late husband, that Mrs. Botha received her invitation. Gifted with a remarkable capacity for politics, Mrs. Botha has always delighted in bringing together conflicting interests and elements, and played a great part in the achievement of the "Union of South Africa."

MODISH MITZI

By Jay V. Jay

"It's just about the shade of the Goofer's roadster, isn't it, Polly?" anxiously asks Mitzi. "It is," agrees Polly. "It will look just as well out of the car as in, for turtle neck and radiating tucks are smart anywhere." Still • • •

This wool crepe dress with tucks going horizontally across the blouse is smart. Just the sort of thing to wear to the country club. The skirt has wide pleats. The neckline is straight from shoulder to shoulder.

"Blue—you know I got it for the Yale game," says Mitzi. "I hope Ted will ask me. If I sit on the Harvard side, of course, I'll have to go right out and buy one of those smart burgundy red jerseys. This jersey is trimmed with bands of crepe de chine."

In order to get their colors right for the sports events for this season they have to work out their dates. What if the Goofer changes his car, or the football dates get mixed up. Well, fortunately there are fashionable enough colors to go round.

EARLY GAINS CUT DOWN BY LATE PROFIT TAKING

General Motors and Steel Continue Duel for Market Leadership.

MANY ISSUES HOLD WELL

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 12.—Stimulated by favorable credit conditions and the dividend action of the General Motors directors yesterday, stocks advanced all along the line in the early trading, many of the industrial favorites scoring new tops, but supplies of stocks increased in response to profit taking and the consequent setback reduced the day's advances materially, numerous issues showing net losses at the close. Trading was active throughout the session.

The most interesting episode of the session was the duel between General Motors and United States Steel common for market leadership. The honors eventually went to the latter, as General Motors ran into an avalanche of offerings in the form of realizing and short selling, following early strength. Steel ran up to 151⅞, closing at 150¼, a net gain on the day of 2 points. General Motors also advanced to 151⅞, but dropped back sharply to close at 148½, a net loss of ⅞ of a point.

Trading in these two issues constituted more than one-fifth of the day's business, which amounted to 1,786,300 shares.

It was commonly reported that considerable switching from General Motors to Steel common was going on. It was the first time in many months that Steel was definitely established above the motor leader for more than a temporary stand. But many reasoned that Steel, with huge accumulated surplus, now offered greater attraction than General Motors, inasmuch as that stock has been enjoying the fruits of its prosperity throughout the year.

Once more the feeling was abroad that United States Steel directors soon would accede to shareholders' demand for more liberal treatment. Today's action of General Motors indicated quite clearly that yesterday's dividend action had been pretty well discounted.

Despite the quite general sagging off that occurred all through the list in the late trading, a number of issues stood up well, holding practically all their advances and scoring net gains for the day ranging from 1 to 6½ points. Prominent in the class were Baldwin Locomotive, American Agricultural Chemical common and preferred, American Brake Shoe, American Express, Woolworth, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Pullman Co., Pittsburgh Terminal Coal, Owens Bottle, American Smelting, American Zinc, preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Bayuk Cigar, Chrysler Motor, Cocoa Cola, Du Pont, Electric Auto Light, Endicott-Johnson, General Railway Signal, Gotham Hosiery, International Harvester, Jewel Tea preferred, Manati Sugar, New York Central, Southern Railway, Houston Oil and United Bag and Paper.

All the motor issues closed near or belw othe bottom prices of the day, but trading was not active in any of them except General Motors. Phillips Petroleum led the early advance among the oil stocks, closing with a net advance of 1⅝ points, while most of the other issues of this group dropped back in the afternoon to close below yesterday's final quotations. The failure of Standard Oil of New Jersey directors to agree on a plan for financing redemption of the $200,000,000 preferred stock of that company appeared to chill speculative sentiment in the oils. Meanwhile the report of a higher dividend was not lost sight of.

The casting of doubt on the Standard Oil bond issue likewise had its effect in the bond section, contributing to a wave of buying excelling anything seen since the market started its present forward move. Indeed, the advance on the day was the most extensive in months.

Call money held at 4¼ per cent.

In the foreign exchange market trading was fairly active and rates on European centers pointed to higher levels. Sterling was in good demand, but the volume of offerings was sufficient to prevent an appreciable rise. French francs were strong, gaining 11 points; lire recorded a substantial recovery, and the rest of the continental list, including exchange on Berlin, was firm. Chinese rates stiffened anew, but Brazilian exchange sagged.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The cotton market was decidedly more active today, prices advancing on covering by recent sellers and increased demand attributed to trade or investment interests. This may have been promoted by talk of a quick settlement of the British coal strike, or reports of continued steadiness in the Southern spot situation. Very little Southern selling was reported on the advance which extended from 12.49 to 12.71 for January contracts. That delivery closed at 12.70, the general market closing firm at net advances of 25 to 33 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 14 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Some overnight selling from the South was readily absorbed, and while business tapered off somewhat after initial offerings had been absorbed, it became decidedly more active in late trading. A good part of the early buying was attributed to trade interests, and belief that contracts were going into strong hands, may have contributed to the firmer tone noted later in the day.

Liverpool buying here at the opening and again during the forenoon was supposed to be partly against sales in the English market, and the later advance here was accompanied by reports that ocean rates on cotton in high density bales had been reduced from $1 to 75 cents per bale for shipment from New York to Liverpool, supposedly in anticipation of a final British coal strike settlement. December sold up to 12.65 and March to 12.95 in late trading, or 29 to 34 points net higher. The close was within a point or two of the best.

There was further December liquidation during the day, but it seemed to be readily absorbed by the buying of spot house brokers who were credited with selling later deliveries. The relative firmness of the near month was considered a reflection of a continued steady spot situation in the South.

Exports today, 25,632, making 3,020,988 so far this season. Port receipts, 70,753. United States port stocks, 2,651,040.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Wheat values underwent a decided tumble here today in concert with lower quotations at Liverpool and because of fresh breaks in the corn market. General selling of wheat took place notwithstanding that Liverpool weakness was associated with reports of the British coal strike having practically been settled. Corn reached all-round new low price records for the season.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2¾ to 3⅛ net lower, corn 1¾ to 2⅛ down, oats ½ to ¾ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25.

Wheat prices here began to give way as soon as the market was open. General selling developed, and the finish was at almost the day's bottom level. Increased estimates of yield reported both from Canada and Australia added to the effect of lower quotations at Liverpool, and so likewise did talk that European buyers were holding off expecting a better ocean freight rate basis to result from settlement of the British coal strike. Some authorities, however, contended that even after the strike was ended it would be a considerable time before many vessels would again get back into service to the southern hemisphere, a circumstance likely to prolong a demand for wheat from Canada and the United States.

Meanwhile, generally favorable wheat crop conditions were reported both from Argentina and Australia, with increased depression of corn prices beginning to tell as a bearish factor in all other grain and in provisions as well. Under such circumstances, late advices that recent frosts in Argentina had caused greater damage than supposed, exerted but little market influence, although one dispatch said that in Pampas province, Argentina, the frost damage amounted to as much as 40 per cent.

Corn trades construed the United States government corn crop report as bearish, the report showing 14,000,000 bushels yield in excess of October figures. It appeared to be overlooked that the percentage of merchantable corn is only 72.6, the lowest with three exceptions in more than 40 years. Oats sympathized with corn.

Despite higher prices on hogs most of the day, provisions were responsive chiefly to corn weakness.

The First Tungsten Lamp

In 1902 two young chemists, Alexander Just and Franz Hanaman, in a high school in Vienna, tried to make a hard lamp filament which would give a brighter light.

After two years of experimenting they succeeded in making a paste out of tungsten powder. By forcing it under high pressure through a hole drilled in a diamond they made a slender wire of extreme hardness.

This was a great forward step. The new tungsten lamp, later improved to make the filament less breakable, gives nearly three times as much light from the same amount of electricity as the former carbon lamp.

Users of electricity everywhere now benefit from this improvement in lighting. One out of every 61 wired homes in the United States and its possessions is served by the Associated System.

NEW BUYING INTEREST LIFTS BONDS FURTHER

U. S. Treasury Issues Score Year's Best Prices; Foreign Loans Strong.

QUIET DEMAND FOR RAILS

New York, Nov. 12 (By the Associated Press). — Another reduction in time money rates stirred up fresh buying interest in the bond market today, and prices were lifted to higher levels in all sections of the list. United States Treasury bonds, after faltering at the start, again jumped into the forefront of the advance and achieved the best prices of the year.

The strong demand for investment obligations was attributed in part to the diversion of funds which had been accumulating for the purchase of new Standard Oil debentures. Failure of the Standard directors to agree on plans for the retirement of the preferred stock today indicated that the issuance of bonds might be delayed, and prospective investors quickly turned their attention to other attractive securities. Four new bond offerings aggregating more than $50,000,000 were largely oversubscribed.

Foreign obligations resumed their advance with considerable vigor. Japanese government issues were especially strong, reaching new high ground in reflection of reports that the country would soon return to the gold standard. French and Belgian bonds were firm, and a 1-point rise carried Rheinelbe Union 7s to within striking distance of the year's peak.

The quiet demand for prominent rails and industrials was maintained, but without bringing about any striking price changes. Franciscan, Cuba cane and other sugar bonds were active and strong, while buying on the rail liens centered on Frisco, New Haven, St. Louis-Southwestern and similar medium-priced issues.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Nov. 12 (By the Associated Press.)—Speculators for the advance assumed control of the price movement in today's curb market, but isolated weak spots continued to crop out in various sections of the list. Trading was on a slightly broader scale, but there were no indications of any appreciable increase in public participation.

Failure of the directors of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey to take action today toward the retirement of the preferred stock had a tendency to detract interest from the oils, but the undertone in the high grade shares continued firm. Reports that Russian refiners were underselling their American competitors in the European markets caused some uneasiness among stockholders of companies operating abroad. Humble, Vacuum and Reiter-Foster recorded substantial gains.

Sugar and tobacco shares received good support, Continental tobacco jumping over 5 points to a new high at 32, while Central Aguere Sugar, Fajardo Sugar, National Sugar Refining and Philip Morris advanced a point or so. Glen Alden moved up 1¾ points despite the prospects for an early settlement of the British coal strike. A point gain in Stutz was the only development of consequence in the motor group. National Food Products B fell back over a point, but the other food shares held steady. Sharp gains were recorded by a number of ordinarily inactive issues such as Celotex, Ohio Brass, Tubize Art Silk, Johns Manville, Phelps-Dodge and Realty Associates of Brooklyn.

A jump of 12¼ points in American Light & Traction overshadowed all other developments in the public utility group although good buying was apparent in Electric Investors, Southeastern Power and U. S. Lighting & Heating.

What's Behind Your Stock

Radio Corporation of America

The Radio Corporation of America, organized in 1919, enjoys a practical monopoly in the field of international radio communication between this country and foreign nations, operates an extensive ship and shore service for the shipping industry and owns a large number of basic patents in the radio industry some of which are leased to manufacturers on a royalty basis. The company engages in broadcasting and only recently formed a subsidiary corporation to be known as the National Broadcasting Co.

Sales of radio apparatus and equipment in 1925 amounted to $46,251,786 as compared with gross earnings of $50,747,202, recorded in 1924. Last year's net income was equal to only $2.33 per share as compared with earnings of $4.98 per share in 1924, this being partially the result of trade price adjustments during 1925. The present year, however, has seen considerable improvement, gross business during the first nine months totaling $38,941,743 as compared with gross income of $27,165,529 in the corresponding period of 1925. Furthermore, since the last quarter of the year is normally the most active in the radio industry, the Radio Corporation's gross income for the full twelve months of 1926 is likely to top the record gross return of 1924 by perhaps $19,000,000.

At the end of last year the company was in good financial condition with current assets which were more than three times as great as current liabilities while there were no bank loans and no funded debts outstanding.

GEORGETOWN AND MARYLAND IN BIG GAMES TODAY CLIMAX OF 1926 FOOTBALL SEASON IS REACHED

9 Big Games On Eastern Gridirons

Army-Notre Dame in the Intersectional Classic of Year.

Princeton Is Favorite in Annual Game With Yale.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The conflict along the Eastern football front reaches its grand climax tomorrow. Nine outstanding games will be witnessed by close to 400,000 spectators.

No group of gridirons in any sector has held forth prospects of more stirring or colorful strife than that which finds Princeton fighting against Yale for the last championship of the "Big Three."

Army's stalwarts meeting the flashy Notre Dame eleven in a battle of unbeaten teams involving national honors; Navy and Brown fighting to keep undefeated records intact against Georgetown and Harvard, and such traditional rivals battling as Cornell and Dartmouth, Colgate and Syracuse, Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson, Columbia and Pennsylvania, Williams and Amherst.

More than 70,000 are expected to pack the Yankee stadium for the Army-Notre Dame battle, intersectional classic of the year, while crowds of from 50,000 to 60,000 each likely will witness the Harvard-Brown, Princeton-Yale, Pennsylvania-Columbia and Pittsburgh-W. and J. contests in widely scattered stadiums.

These combats hold the major share of interest, but there will be no lack of enthusiasm over a host of other games, five of which will

Vice President Dawes Wins Golf Argument

(By Associated Press.)

Vice President Dawes came out victor yesterday in an argument at golf with officials of the Senate. Selecting for his partner a Democrat, Edward A. Halsey, of Virginia, confidential adviser to minority senators, Mr. Dawes won, 3 up and 2 to play in an 18-hole match against James D. Preston, superintendent of the congressional press galleries, and David Barry, the Senate sergeant-at-arms.

Apache-Palace Game Promises Open Play

Two unlimited teams, depending mostly on forward passes and speed, will meet Sunday at Union park, when the Apaches stake their record against that of the Palace A. C. eleven of Southwest. Both teams are in the race for the District title, and a loss to either at this time will be a jolt to its titular hopes. Southwest fans held a "pep" meeting at the Palace clubhouse last night.

Ft. Humphreys Plays Mohawks Tomorrow

The Mohawks, District champions of 1925, tackle the Fort Humphreys eleven at American League park tomorrow at 3 o'clock. The Hawks have been drilling hard for the game, in which they meet one of the strongest service teams of recent years in this section. Fort Humphreys handed the Alexandria Firemen their first defeat of the season last Sunday and boasts a victory over the Tank Corps, of Camp Meade, scored early in the season.

HARVARD, JRS., BEAT YALE.

Stevens Star In Western Victory

By WALTER HAIGHT.

"I'D rather play football at Western." That was Bobby Stevens' answer to many offers of minor league trials last summer when he was setting scholastic and sandlot circles wild with his brilliant batting and fielding. Word had gotten to Bobby that he was being termed "too yellow" for football, a fact that he started out this year to disprove.

Bobby not only has assured the whole wide world of his courage, but yesterday topped a season of brilliant play with an 8-yard crash over the Central goal line for a 6-0 Western victoryfi which gives his eleven the full championship or a tie, depending on how Tech fares with business in the final game of the series on Tuesday.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

| | Won. | Lost. | Tied | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Western | 2 | 0 | 2 | 1.000 |
| Tech | 1 | 0 | 2 | 1.000 |
| Central | 1 | 2 | 1 | .333 |
| Eastern | 1 | 2 | 1 | .333 |
| Business | 1 | 2 | 0 | .333 |

TUESDAY'S GAME.
Tech vs. Business.

Stevens was not alone in the conquering of Central. Western's line played brilliantly, its defense stopped Gene Stevens, star of the Business game, while Eddie Brownfield, a substitute for half the season, made several thrilling runs. Bobby was just the boy with the punch.

The touchdown came in the last quarter. Central was held on its 25-yard line and Blackistone's hurried punt went straight up and fell among the players. "Leggs" Combs and Fletcher were hugging the ball on Central's 18-yard line a moment later.

Stevens carried the ball to a first down on the first play, 8 yards from Central's goal line.

The ball was again passed to Bobby. He hesitated, crouching like a lion ready to spring, and then went crashing through the right side of Central line carrying his opponents with him across the goal.

First one team and then the other appeared on the way to a score in the first half. Brownfield's spectacular runs carried Western to Central's 18-yard line in the first quarter, where Schneider's attempted drop-kick was blocked by Sweet.

Central worked the ball into Western territory near the close of the period, and at the start of the second quarter Baum tried a 30-yard placement kick, which fell short. Brownfield's fumbles stopped two Western drives before the intermission.

Western was backed to its 12-yard line shortly after the third period got under way, but wiggled out of that hole on runs by Stevens and Brownfield and Wilson's punt. After Western had scored,

Teams in Receptive Mood For Eastern Conference

Proposed Body Outgrowth of Princeton-Harvard Break—Penn and Brown Give O. K., With Army, Navy "Interested."

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Expressions of approval from two leading universities and a receptive attitude prevailing at three others today gave added impetus to agitation for the launching of an Eastern football conference as an outgrowth of the Princeton-Harvard break.

Taking the lead in the movement, Pennsylvania and Brown lined up in favor of organization. The position of the Philadelphia university was described to the Associated Press in a canvass of sentiment as approving the conference idea "provided all members have the same scholastic and athletic standards."

While no official statement was forthcoming from Brown athletic officials, the Brown Herald saw "no objections to an Eastern conference composed of such colleges as Pennsylvania, Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Army, Princeton, Navy, Columbia and Brown."

Taking the stand that the Harvard-Princeton break "clears the way for conference proposals," the Herald considered it "very possible to arrange some sort of 'round robin' affair."

Undergraduate feeling at Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth was described as favorable to the conference plan. This trio, together with Pennsylvania, already are committed to the organization idea in virtually all the other college sports.

Army and Navy athletic authorities, while indicating their readiness to discuss the projected league, were unwilling to express opinions, although word from the Naval Academy athletic office conveyed the information that Coach Bill Ingram "may consider the matter with other officials in New York" this week-end.

West Point officials announced that "if such a proposal were made, Army would, of course, take up the matter for discussion." The Army attitude, however, was that opinion would be reserved until the question had been officially presented.

Columbia Jr. High Near Soccer Banner

Pitt and Lafayette Break Grid Relations

Easton, Pa., Nov. 12 (By A. P.) Football relations between the University of Pittsburgh and Lafayette have been discontinued, for a year at least, after seven successive meetings on the gridiron. Authorities at Lafayette announced that Pitt had refused to come to Easton for a game next year, and that Lafayette was unwilling to go ot Pittsburgh again, as six of the seven games since 1919 had been played there. No ill felling exists between the institutions, it is stated.

LATZO VS. SIMONICH.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The National Sportsmen's club today announced that Pete Latzo, of Scranton, Pa., world's welterweight champion, and Joe Simonich, of Butte, Mont., have been signed for a ten-round bout here on December 8. The match will be part of a hospital benefit boxing show.

Harvard Students Move For Peace With Tigers

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—Carrying out a suggestion made yesterday in New York by Howard Elliot, chairman of the board of overseers of Harvard university, the Harvard student council tonight invited the Princeton senior council to "a complete and frank discussion of the grievances of each university."

The invitation was made in a letter from Leo Daley, president of the Harvard body, to Joseph Prendergast, president of the Princeton senior council. Daley is a veteran guard on the Harvard footbal team who has been forced out of the game through illness, while Prendergast is a Princeton backfield star.

Washington Pro Five In Light Drill Today

Capt. Ray Kennedy gives his Washington basketers a day of rest today, and has arranged for a trip to Annapolis to see the Georgetown-Navy football game. Before setting out from the Lee house, however, the squad will be given a brief limbering up exercise in the form of a walk through the country.

The players seem to be rounding into perfect physical shape, and recent practices have not been followed by complaints about stiff muscles. "Jazz" Chazmadia has led the pace for the candidates in the amount of exercise taken to date. He claims to be at the top of his condition right now, and certainly gives that appearance. This boy stands about 6 feet, and is a solid mass of sinew. On the floor scrimmaging he appears tirless A Hungarian by descent, Chazmadia has turned out to be one of the most popular men on the squad.

Harvard Beats Tigers; Running Not Rushing

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—No evidence of friction between Princeton and Harvard harriers was apparent as Harvard, for the second successive season, today defeated Yale and Princeton in the annual triangular cross-country run. The Crimson hill and dalers had a total of 25 points. Yale was second with 31 points and Princeton third with 64.

The first two men in were Capt. Smith and Briggs, of Yale. Smith's time was 27:53 3-5 and Briggs trailed by 200 yards in 28:18 2-5. Then came five Crimson runners, two Blue, and another Crimson. Wells, first Princeton man in, was twelfth.

Game Is Attracting Interest Throughout Grid World.

By JACK ESPEY.

AFTER a lapse of seven years, the scene of Georgetown university battling the Navy on Farragut field, Annapolis, is at hand once more, and at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the Hilltoppers and the Midshipmen will renew their hostilities in a game which for thrills, color, spirit, and fine playing should equal any other in the history of the two schools' athletic relationship.

Different from other football meetings of these teams, this game has much national interest attracted to it because of the bearing its result may have on the championship question. Locally the game is considered the season's feature, and more than 7,000 Washingtonians and Georgetown students and alumni will be in the stands to support that opinion. Thousands more would be there if seating accommodations would permit, but the capacity of Farragut field is not quite 20,000 and the other 13,000 seats have been taken by Midshipmen and Navy adherents.

To Georgetown, whose team Coach Lou Little has primed for the occasion, the contest means an opportunity to reach the top rung of the college football ladder, for with a victory over a team that has defeated Michigan, Purdue, Princeton and Colgate, the Blue and Gray can not be

Battle Important in Northern Division of Dixie List.

MARYLAND and Virginia football teams are all set for their Southern conference battle to be staged this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Byrd stadium at College Park. It should be one of the best games of the year in this section and a record crowd for College Park is assured.

Both teams took a tuning-up session yesterday, the Old Liners cavorting at College Park, while the Cavaliers had a light workout at Charlottesville before entraining for Washington. The Cavaliers arrived here about 9 o'clock and it was not long until they had "hit the hay" in order to get a good night's rest for today's struggle.

Despite Maryland's defeat of Yale last Saturday, the football experts are inclined to give Virginia the edge, but no one is brazen enough to indicate that there was any marked difference between the elevens.

Virginia holds the edge in experience, one of the biggest factors in any game, and that is why those closely identified with athletics were inclined to favor the Cavaliers. On the other hand, the Old Liners will have an advantage in weight, although this is not considerable.

One thing that everyone agrees upon is that the game probably would provide more open play than

MARS WINS WEIGHT FOR AGE SERIAL AT PIMLICO

Only 2 Horses Start In Stake

Saratoga Maje Beats Drumbeat by Nose in Sixth Race.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 12.—Mars, winner of the second Pimlico serial weight for age race over the mile route for Walter M. Jeffords, came back this afternoon with an easy score in the mile and furlong serial. He was only opposed by that good mare Princess Doreen, from the Audley Farm stable, and the result was never in doubt. By reason of winning two of the three serials, Mars earned an additional $1,000, making today's race worth $4,625.

It was an interesting day of racing that was served up, although the fact that only two went to the post in the feature was a bit disappointing. Some good fillies met over the six furlong distance and the Rancocas stable's Black Curl won her second race at the meeting.

Then there was the consolation steeplechase, which was remarkable, principally because of the fact that, of five starters, only two finished, with Autumn Bells the winner over Rip.

Getting back to the weight for age serial, when the start came there was general consternation when Mars bolted sharply to the outside, while Princess Doreen went away nicely in her stride. Coltiletti straightened the Jefford's colt, but he had to whip him away to make up for the swerve. He soon went to Princess Doreen when McTague had her under a stiff restraint. Through the back stretch they raced lapped and both under a pull.

On the far turn Mars moved away slightly, but McTague still waited with the mare, evidently depending on one burst of speed to save the day. Nearing the stretch turn he asked Princess Doreen to run, but Mars was clear and Coltiletti was looking back in the run home, to win with plenty to spare.

The sixth event, at three-quarters, brought out a big band of nonwinners since October 1 to try for honors, and the winner turned up in Saartoga Maje, from the stable of Senator P. F. Joyce, when this good son of Old Koenig and Beautiful Lady, well ridden by Jockey Abel, followed the pace of Volt for the first quarter, raced into the lead rounding the turn, and, holding on in game fashion, just lasted to get a head verdict over Drumbeat, with Grand Bey easily accounting for the small end of the purse.

The Consolation steeplechase, the last contest over the jumping course to be decided for the present term and run over the 2-mile course, was replete with thrills.

Despite the fact that only five leapers faced the issue, that was contested over a field that was deep in mud, only two managed to negotiate the entire journey, and Autumn Bells, racing for the Kershaw stable, was the one to annex the major end of the purse.

A rare contest threatened to ensue in the early stages of the race, with the five starters closely bunched at the first turn of the field. At the ninth fence, Oriental Hope was the first to go down and then Pete the Scribe. At the last fence, Kangaroo, racing at the heels of the winner, went down and this left Autumn Bells with only Rip to take care of and he did this without any trouble, scoring by twelve lengths.

Juveniles paraded for the second time during the afternoon and again a small but select field made up the issue, with Black Curl from the Rancocas establishment, being installed a prohibitive choice. She was safely home winner by a length and one half, while Beaming beat out Tigress two lengths.

Thirteen platers of the cheapest grade faced the starter for the third event on the program, a six furlong dash, and starter Milton experienced much difficulty in sending the field away. Contract and New Beauty quickly scampered away from their opposition. They raced closely lapped for the first quarter, while five lengths back came Danger Signal, who succeeded in wearing them down to take command the last furlong and just managed to stave off the rush of North Breeze, with New Beauty holding on long enough to get third.

Juvenile maiden colts and geldings answered the call for the six furlongs of the second event, which found Grange coming in for strong support, but at no stage of the journey did the Rancocas 2-year-old warrant the play given him. At the end, he finished sixth, while Miracle, much the best of his opposition, was returned the winner in a stubborn drive that lasted throughout the stretch-run.

RESULTS AT PIMLICO, MARYLAND, NOV. 12, 1926

WEATHER CLEAR; TRACK FAST.

FIRST RACE—Two miles. Purse, $2,000. For 3-year-olds and upward. The Consolation steeplechase. Start good. Won easily. Went to post at 1:13. Off at 1:14. Winner, br. g. (6), by Ballot—Autumn II. Trained by M. Hirsch. Owner, Kershaw Stable. Value to winner, $1,400. second, $484. Time, 4:01 2-5 (13 jumps).

| Starters | Wgt. | Post | St. | ¼ | ½ | ¾ | Str. | Finish | Jockeys | Straight |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Autumn Bells | 144 | 5 | 5 | $3^1$ | $3^1$ | $1^{nk}$ | $1^8$ | $1^2$ | Preece | $8.15 |
| Rip | 150 | 2 | 2 | 5 | 5 | 3 | 2 | 2 | Haynes | 3.30 |
| Kangaroo | 132 | 3 | 1 | $2^h$ | $1^h$ | $2^4$ | Lost | rider. | Mergler | 2.40 |
| Pete the Scribe | 138 | 4 | 3 | $4^h$ | $4^4$ | Lost | rider. | | Duncan | 3.05 |
| Oriental Hope | 132 | 1 | 4 | $1^1$ | $2^{nk}$ | Lost | rider. | | Watkins | 22.20 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Autumn Bells, $8.30, $5.50, $5.30; Rip, $4.90, $7.70; only two starters finished.

Autumn Bells was kept close to the pace from the start, gained fast when called on for the final issue, assumed a brief lead at the twelfth fence and had Kangaroo beaten when the latter fell at the final fence. Rip trailed his field the entire trip and Haynes lost one of his stirrup irons, which he regained, but could not menace the winner. Kangaroo raced well all the way, but fell at the last fence.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 1:49. Off at 1:51. Winner, b. c. by Polymelian—Joan of Arc. Trained by T. Rodrock. Owner, K. E. Hitt. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:14.

| Don Byrne | 115 | 7 | 7 | 9 | 9 | 9 | 9 | Collins | 103.75 |

†R. W. Carter entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Miracle, $7.60, $4.10, $3.20; Doto, $7.20, $5.50; Giant, $6.40.

Miracle, badly outpaced the early part of the trip, was forced very wide at the stretch turn, continued with good energy, and, wearing the leaders gradually down, was going away in the concluding strides. Doto, a keen factor in the early racing, disposed of All Blue, but weakened after gaining command and just lasted for the place. Giant raced well from the start and held on gamely in the final issue.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 2:25. Off at 2:32. Winner, ch. f. (3) by Danger Rock—North Light. Trained by C. H. Douglas Owner, C. Vanbergen. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:14.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Danger Signal, $7.60, $4.10, $350; North Breeze, $35.20, $22.50; New Beauty, $18.70.

Danger Signal, outrun for the first 3 furlongs, gained fast rounding the far turn, moved up on even terms with New Beauty, and closing stoutly, outstayed North Breeze in a hard drive. Latter came to the outside of the leaders in stretch run and finished fastest of all. New Beauty raced Contract into defeat, saved ground, but weakened from her early efforts. Midinette raced evenly throughout.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won handily. Place driving. Went to post at 3:04. Off at 3:07. Winner, ch. f., by Friar Rock—Frizeur. Trained by S. C. Hildreth. Owner, Rancocas Stable. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5.

†H. P. Whitney entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Black Curl, $2.90, $2,50, out; Beaming entry, $2.50; no show mutuels sold.

Black Curl, quick to get into her stride, raced Festive into submission the first half mile and had speed in reserve the remainder of the journey. Beaming moved up with a rush rounding the far turn, came to the outside in stretch run, but was held perfectly safe. Tigress finished resolutely and outstayed Overture. Latter raced on the outside of her opposition, came through between two horses at stretch turn, but could not keep up.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $4,000; added. For all ages. Pimlico Serial, No. 3. Start good and fast. Won handily. Went to post at 3:34. Off at 3:35. Winner, ch. c. (3), by Man o' War—Christmas Star. Trained by S. P. Harlan. Owner, W. M. Jeffords. Value to winner, $4,625; second, $600. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:54.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Mars, $2.60; no place or show mutuels sold.

Mars bolted to the outside when the barrier was released, but quickly straightened up and raced in close attendance of Princess Doreen, took a brief lead while under restraint at the half-mile mark and held her safe thereafter. McTague took his mount back and came to the outside of the winner in stretch run, but she was not good enough.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start poor. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:10. Winner, ch. c. (4), by Old Koenig—Beautiful Lady. Trained by J. Boden. Owner, P. F. Joyce. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Saratoga Maje (field), $11.60, $9.70, $4.90; Grand Bey, $4.10.

Saratoga Maje raced Volt into defeat early, saved ground entering home stretch, but had to be vigorously urged to outfinish Drumbeat. Latter gained fast last half mile and closed stoutly. Grand Bey, in contention early, could not make up any ground the last part of the trip. The horses having outside positions were caught in the barrier at the start.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:41. Off at 4:46. Winner, br. m. (6), by Golden Maxim—Billows. Trained by R. Curran. Owner, C. Bild. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41, 1:55.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Golden Billows | 114 | 6 | 5 | $2^{nk}$ | $2^1$ | $2^1$ | $3^h$ | $1^{ns}$ | Peternell | $2.95 |
| Carom | 109 | 7 | 7 | $5^h$ | $4^h$ | $4^1$ | $2^h$ | $2^{ns}$ | Fields | 7.65 |
| Captain Martin | 110 | 2 | 1 | $6^{nk}$ | $7^4$ | $6^h$ | $4^h$ | $3^2$ | Allen | 13.80 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Golden Billows, $7.90 $4.50, $3.60; Carom, $7.10, $5.20; Captain Martin, $8.20.

Golden Billows followed in close attendance of the pace, responded gamely to urging, and finishing stoutly, was up in the last strides. Carom gained fast the last half mile and finished full of run after being forced wide at the stretch turn. Captain Martin worked his way up gradually and closed with a rush on the inside of the former two.

DR. LAMBETH IN PRAISE OF MD.

Va. Faculty Member Lauds Byrd at Pregame Dinner.

INTERCOLLEGIATE athletics finds expression in its finest phases in the annual University of Virginia-University of Maryland football game which will be played this afternoon at College Park, declared Dr. Alfred Lefevre, of the Virginia faculty at a dinner tendered last night to faculty members and alumni of the two institutions and newspaper men by Maryland university at the Willard hotel.

Hope for the continuation of amicable relations between the two universities and the perpetuation of the annual Virginia-Maryland football games was expressed by Dr. Lambeth and Dr. Albert Lefevre, of the Virginia faculty, and Senator-elect Willard Tydings, of Maryland, a University of Maryland alumnus.

In pointing out the gradual solidification of friendship between the two institutions, Dr. Lambeth paid tribute to Coach H. C. ("Curly") Byrd of Maryland, whose efforts, he declared, set an example in the conduct of college athletics that has drawn the attention of every institution below the Mason-Dixon line.

In appreciation of their constructive work in cementing the relations between Virginia and Maryland, Coach Byrd, on behalf of Maryland university, presented Dr. Lambeth and Dr. Lefevre with gold watches.

VIRGINIA, MARYLAND AWAIT ANNUAL CLASH

any contest to be staged in Washington or vicinity this season. The Cavaliers have one of the best forward passing attacks in the country, while Maryland also is able to do a few tricks in the way with the heaves.

Then, too, both teams depend almost entirely upon deception to make their running attacks effective; using double, triple and fake passes that call for alertness on the part of the fans if they are to follow the ball. There should be plenty of the spectacular at College park this afternoon.

Both teams will be led by Washington boys and incidentally both of them attended Western High school. Mike Stevens, 151-pound halfback, who will lead the Old Liners in the battle, is one of the brainiest and elusive ball-toters in the game.

Charlie Mackall, who will trot on the field ahead of the Virginia team, ranks with the best guards in the South. Like Stevens, he is versatile, as he does Virginia's kicking and often hurls forward passes.

Three Washington men will handle the game. Paul (Maggy) Magoffin will referee; William (Bili) Quigley will umpire, while Richard (Dick) Daniels will be head linesman.

The line-up of the teams has been announced as follows:

| Virginia. | Position. | Maryland. |
|---|---|---|
| Abner | L. E. | Dent |
| Luke | L. T. | Zulick |
| Mackall (Capt.) | L. G. | Wondrack |
| Phillips | Center | Bafford |
| Finck | R. G. | Crothers |
| Cardwell | R. T. | Adams or Keenan |
| Friedburg | R. E. | Leatherman |
| Hushion | Q. B. | Kessler |
| Cuddy | L. H. | Linkous |
| Pendleton | R. H. | (Capt.) Stevens or Snyder |
| Glauber | F. B. | Thomas |

NOTE, SEAT PLEASANT.

All Seat Pleasant gridmen are requested to report on the Monument field tomorrow at 11 o'clock for a light drill before meeting the Michigan A. C.

REFUSE $1,500 OFFER.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 12.—The Clarksburg team, of the Middle Atlantic Baseball league, today refused an offer of $1,500 from the Southern league for Andrew Maxwell, catcher.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

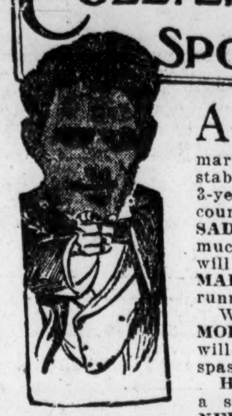
By Bert E. Collyer



AU REVOIR Pimlico. Racing will come to a close at Pimlico today, with the running of the Pimlico cup, at 2¼ miles. It will also mark the final appearance of the Glen Riddle stable's great colt, CRUSADER, probably the best 3-year-old over a distance of ground seen in this country since his daddy, Man o' War. While CRUSADER has been given top weight and is conceding much poundage to the rest of his field, I believe he will come through with another gallant victory. MARS, with 115 pounds up, will probably be the runner-up.

Word comes direct from the fodder trough that MODO, who has been in hiding for several months, will bring home the coon skins in the opening spasm.

HANDCLASP looks like it has been dropped in a soft shot in the second. That last race of NEDANA'S don't go. Hop to it in the third.

REJUVENATION in the fifth looks like a kick in the slats and any old price will be a good one.

Over at Lexington, the piece de resistance is the Lexington handicap over the futurity course, which brings out a number of the prominent candidates for the Breeders Futurity, to be run here next Saturday. CANDY QUEEN, probably, will be the favorite in the mutuels, but I am stringing with GENERAL HALDERMAN. His victory in the Queen City handicap was well earned and also he likes this track.

Look for CERTAIN to upset the dope in the opening stanza. Commissions have been planted on BRIGHT TOMORROW. I am giving you the information for what it is worth.

HANDY MANDY and BROWN SILK, coupled as the Audley Farm entry, two corking good maidens, should run one-two in the second.

Last and by no means least, don't forget to have a couple megs riding on SANDY HATCH in the sixth.

LEXINGTON.

First race—Certain, Bright Tomorrow, Rundark.
Second race—Audley Farm entry, Kanawha Live Let Live.
Third race—Chittagong, Lady Carolyn, Norseman.
Fourth race—Idle Hour Farm entry, Old Slip, Little Visitor.
Fifth race—General Haldeman, Candy Queen, Keeneland Stud entry.
Sixth race—Sandy Hatch, Muldoon, Mickey Free.

EASTERN GRIDIRONS SEE 9 BIG CONTESTS

see unbeaten teams in action. Of these, Boston college, facing the invasion of the Haskell Indins, figures to encounter the strongest opposition. The others find Maine favored to whip New Hampshire, Lafayette, facing secondary opposition in Susquehanna, New York university expected to trim Davis-Elkins and Holy Cross rated superior to Catholic university.

Army has the same veterans who overwhelmed the Hoosiers last year, 27 to 0, reinforced by two new backfield stars, Cagler and Murrell, but Rockne has brought East a much more experienced resourceful outfit than he directed in 1925. Army's seasoned brawn, well handled and versatile, is conceded an edge, but Notre Dame's speed and passing attack may offset the driving power in the Cadet machine.

The well-knit Princeton forward wall, supported by the all-around work of Jake Slagle, appears too strong a combination for the Elis, who have been handicapped by injuries from the start of the season and lost their last three games without scoring a point.

The Navy, like the Army, is anxious to keep its slate clean preparatory to the annual service battle at Chicago, but it probably will take the full strength of the Midshipmen to overcome Georgetown.

Brown's rugged cast, having conquered Yale and Dartmouth in a march that has placed the unbeaten Providence team around the top of the Eastern heap, expects to take Harvard's measure. If the Crimson employs its full forces, with the Yale game only a week off, it figures to give the Bruins their stiffest test.

| | 1925. |
|---|---|
| Army-Notre Dame at New York | 27-0. |
| Yale at Princeton | 12-25 |
| Dartmouth at Cornell | 62-13 |
| Brown at Harvard | 0-3 |
| Colgate at Syracuse | 19-6 |
| Georgetown at Navy | No game |
| Williams at Amherst | 7-13 |
| Haskell Indian at Boston college | 6-7 |
| Maine at New Hampshire | 0-0 |
| Bowdoin at Wesleyan | 14-3 |
| Catholic University at Holy Cross | No game |
| Columbia at Pennsylvania | No game |
| Susquehanna at Lafayette | 0-47 |
| Dickinson-Muhlenberk at Wilkes-Barre, Pa. | 0-0 |
| Rutgers at Lehigh | 0-7 |
| Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh | 0-6 |
| Bucknell at Penn State | No game |
| Centre at West Virginia | No game |
| Davis-Elkins at New York Univ. | No game |

*Mutuel field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Brier Hill, $5.80, $3.40, $3.60; Mib McGee, $3.20, $3.40; Angel Plane, $16.40.

Brier Hill under alert handling was under restraint first half mile, came away after reaching stretch, and held on gamely under vigorous handling the last 50 yards. Mib McGee, probably best, raced in tight quarters to the last three-sixteenth, where, after coming to outside, he went to winner with a rush and was rapidly wearing him down. Angel Plane moved up fast at last turn, but began tiring last sixteenth.

SECOND RACE—Futurity course. Purse, $800. For maiden 2-year-o-lds; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 2:03. Off at 2:04. Winner, W. W. Wallace's ch. f. (2), by Ballot—Legotal. Trained by J. Gaines. Time, 1:11 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Red Leather, $13.00, $5.60, $3.40; Audley Belle, $3.20, $2.40; Aurous, $4.00.

Red Leather, away well and accorded an energetic ride, saved all possible ground while making pace and responded to hard driving; was slowly drawing away at the end. Audley Belle forced pace under pressure and with loss of ground moved up menacingly in last furlong. Aurous was prominent throughout and going well at the end.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easy. Place driving. Went to post at 2:30. Off at 2:31. Winner, E. H. Von Doenn's b. c. (3), by Theo Cook—Clarice Ruth. Trained by H. T. Fleming. Time, 1.47 3-5

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Scampaway, $7.20, $5.20, $4.00; Frightful, $12.00, $5.00; Six Sixty, $4.00.

Scampaway, forward from start, was raced wide following leaders, moved up with rush leaving back stretch and after getting safe command was taken in hand. Frightful saved much ground and was going steadily at finish. Six Sixty was hard hustled to take lead where he was poorly rated and timidly handled in last 3 furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to the post at 2:58. Off at 3:00. Winner, J. R. Lowe's br. g. (8), by Von Trompe—Dally. Trained by owner. Time, 1:8 3-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Plus Ultra, $8.00, $4.20, $3.00; Valence, $8.40,$5.80; Equity, $4.40.

Plus Ultra bore out badly while taking command first quarter, raced restrained until stretch, where he came away under pressure, and although finished gamely, barely outstayed Valence. Latter, probably best, moved up fast after three-quarters, run into winner in stretch and came again fast on outside when straightened out. Equity steadily improved position, racing wide, and was going well at finish.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. The Nicholasville handicap. For 3--year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easy. Place driving. Went to post at 3:25 Off at 3:26. Winner, J. McPherson's ch. g. (4), bu Underfire—Fleuron II. Trained by owner. Time, 1:12 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Fire On, $5.60, $2.60, $2.20; In Bounds, $3.80, $2.20; Marconi, $2.20

Fire On, easily best, was shuffled back soon after start, but began moving up fast while racing wide leaving back stretch, and after getting to the front drew away rapidly. In Bounds, hustled into command, bore out slightly last turn, and while best of others, could not cope with winner. Marconi gave an even effort, but was tiring.

SIXTH RACE—Futurity course. Purse, $800. The Crab Orchard. For 2--year-olds. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:51. Off at 3:54. Winner, Coldstream Stud's ch. f. (2), by Friar Rock—Heliosis. Trained by T. M. Taylor. Time, 1:10 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Hot Spot, $51.20, $20.60, $7.00; Coohogan, $15.80, $6.20; Mary Jane, $2.40.

Hot Spot, racing in good form under a hustling ride, saved much ground while alternating in lead first half mile and finished out courageously; held opposition safe the last furlong. Coohogan, raced into contention with a rush on inside on turns and getting through on inside in stretch, outgamed Mary Jane. Latter was away well, was forced slightly wide by winner and after being pinched back by Indian Love Call, never completely recovered.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:19. Off at 4:20. Winner, J. McPherson's ch. f. (3), by Omar Khayyam—Galli Curci. Trained by owner. Time, 1:44 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Lady Lynn, $28.00, $7.80; Col. Board, $3.20; no show mutuels sold.

Lady Lynn, going in good form, raced restrained while following the pace, went wide while going to front, drew away after reaching stretch, but had to be hard driven to stall off Col. Board. Latter, probably best, saved ground in early stages, was kept behind leaders waiting for inside opening last turn and just missed getting up when taken to outside in stretch. Drone gained slowly the last quarter and held on with courage.

TAD JONES DEFENDS HIMSELF AND YALE ELEVEN

Harsh Words Used by Coach

"Won't Be Crucified" as Others Have Been, He Says.

Resents Criticism by "Shysters and $18-a-Week Clerks."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—In the face of newspaper and other criticism of Yale's showing since Brown started the Blue on the scoreless path three weeks ago, Coach Tad Jones came spiritly to the defense of the team and himself today.

"Those yellowbellies who crucified my brother and Frank Hinkey and Tom Shevlin are not going to crucify me," he said. "I was forced into this job, but as long as Yale wants me as a football coach I'll stay, and when Yale says she doesn't want me, I'll go.

"I am willing to be judged by other coaches. This criticism is coming from shyster lawyers, poor doctors and dentists, and $18-a-week clerks who think they know more football than Roper, Dobie, myself and all the other coaches in the country."

Injuries have crippled the team so that at times this season "I have been lucky to have four backs who knew the signals to put in there," Jones said, in explanation of charges that backfield men have been sent against the line so continuously in a game that they were rendered unfit for other games.

Reports that personal feeling between Capt. Bunnell, quarterback, and "Bill" Kline, star halfback, had prevented Bunnell's giving the ball to Kline and had figured largely in Yale's defeats, were branded by Jones as "yellow, malicious lies."

"I suppose I should have put cripples in there the way I did in the Army game, when I didn't have anyone else," he remarked of the Maryland game, in connection with which there has been much criticism because second-string men were used against the Old Liners Saturday. "Where would I be if men Yale needed for Princeton and Harvard were crippled playing Mary'and.

"This criticism is being directed at Yale because it is Yale," he added. "Look at Dartmouth. You don't hear them being discussed the way Yale is. They have lost some games, though."

Some former stars have criticized the fact that no longer are they being brought back to aid in preparation for the big games, as under the old system.

"We could teach some of those boys football," was Jones' comment. "They didn't get into uniforms in the old days, and I know about that, for I played here. They aren't coming back, either."

Jones has one more season under a three-year contract.

Bryan Morse Winner In Newspaper Tourney

First honors in the Washington Newspaper Men's Golf association tournament, held over the Indian Spring course yesterday, were annexed by Bryan Morse, of the Herald, who did the eighteen holes in 89, which, with a ten-stroke handicap, gave him a net score of 79 and a victory in the first flight.

Carl H. Butman won the second flight with a net score of 81, while Dick Westwood's 106, with a 24-stroke handicap, gave him the honors in the third flight.

First flight—Bryan Morse, 89, 10, 79; William Ullman, 98, 14, 84; Bingy Bryan, 92, 8, 84; C. I. Putnam, 92, 6, 86; George Holmes, 93, 8, 87; Shirley Povich, 120, 15, 105.

Second flight—Carl H. Butman, 101, 20, 81; Henry West, 102, 16, 86; Russell Edwards, 102, 16, 86; Edward Gableman, 105, 16, 89; J. Gould Lincoln, 107, 16, 91; Walter Haight, 123, 18, 105.

Third flight—Dick Westwood, 106, 24, 82; Avery Marks, 104, 20, 84; Emmett Dougherty, 110, 22, 88; Roddy Thomas, 111, 22, 89.

Baltimore Gridmen Would Play Here

The Varin A. C., of Baltimore, Md., is anxious to arrange two Sunday games to be played in Washington with 130-pound teams. The Varin club went through last season without a setback and is undefeated this season. For arrangements, write Manager S. H. Yoffee, 1825 North Payson street, Baltimore, Md.

COURT GAME WANTED.

The Woodside basketball team wants a game tonight to be played in its gymnasium with some unlimited or senior team. Telephone Manager Stewart at Main 9160, branch 5, if interested.

HERE'S WHAT NAVY WILL BATTLE AGAINST TODAY

Harris & Ewing.

Georgetown, with one of the best elevens it has had in years, has been improving with every game and has a fine chance of marring the Midshipmen's clean record. The Hilltoppers figure that their success or failure for the season depends upon the outcome of this afternoon's contest and are ready for the question. In the photograph above, who are expected to start for Coach Little, the players are: On the line (left to right), Waite, end; Mosko, tackle; Saur, guard; Grigsby, center; Carroll, guard; Connaughton, tackle, and McGrath, captain and end. Backfield (left to right), Thompson, Nork, O'Neill and Gormley.

TWO COLLEGE CONTESTS HERE

G. W. and American U. Hosts to Teams From South.

GEORGE Washington and American University elevens are entertaining at home today for those fans who do not care to make the trip to College Park or Annapolis, where Maryland and Georgetown, respectively, are doing battle. George Washington will engage Randolph-Macon at Central High stadium, while American will clash with Bridgewater College of Virginia on the St. Alban field, both games starting at 2:30 p. m.

"Dad's day" is being celebrated by George Washington, the male parents of all the colonial students having received special invitations to attend the game. The dads have heard so much about the G street eleven since it defeated Ursinus last Saturday that it is expected they will turn out in large numbers to see proof of what has been told to them.

American University will be playing its final game of the season. Bridgewater does not appear strong enough to spoil the locals' farewell performance by winning.

Neither does Randolph-Macon look as if it can make the afternoon a disappointment for the George Washington Dads. Coach Crum's eleven should win in a walk. If the decision is sewed up in the early minutes the George Washington regulars will be withdrawn in favor of substitutes, and thus be saved for the annual combat with Catholic University, which is set for Thanksgiving day.

Hanson to Tackle Leppanen at Arcadia

Charles Hanson, who is to meet Charles Leppanen in one of the three bouts of the heavyweight wrestling card to be offered next Tuesday night at the Arcadia auditorium, is a Minnesota Swede who has come back to the mat game in fine style after it was thought he had been counted out by illness.

Hanson was a wonder in the padded ring until he met Stanislaus Zbyszko in a scrap at Nashville, Tenn., at the time Zbyszko was champion of the world. Hanson stuck to Zbyszko for three hours and the champ had to accept a draw decision, but the bout took a deal out of Hanson. He was forced to retire, and many wiseacres figured he was through with wrestling forever. But Hanson was game, and after a long lay off came back and has been dropping 'em regularly since.

Mt. Rainier Quint Faces Dupont Five

The Mt. Rainier basketball team will open up its court season tonight in a practice game with the Dupont A. C., in the latter's gymnasium. The following Rainier players are requested to report at the gym at 7 o'clock: Elvin Higgon, Dan Geary, Don Plant O'Brien, Rose, Pugh, Clayton, Medley and Bellman.

Southern Grid Warriors Ready for Battles Today

Alabama and Tennessee Must Win to Keep in Title Hunt—V. P. I. Meets Kentucky, While Generals Tackle Poly Eleven.

(By the Associated Press.)

CAMPFIRES burned brightly last night on the battlefields of Southern football. Decks had been cleared at Nashville and the Vanderbilt commodores had guns ranged for an effort to repulse Tennessee's undefeated volunteers.

The moated walls of Tuscaloosa found a band of crimson-skinned braves in full war paint as they prepared for an invasion from Florida at Montgomery. Led by their chief, the doughty captain, Emile Barnes, they finished a week of preparation and relied on their arrow-like passes for victory.

Matching the conference battles in fervor, the S. I. I. A., had a massacre all of its own on schedule. Doubt, however, existed as to who would be scalp losers when Chattanooga university's undefeated Moccasins and Georgetown college, association leaders, emerged from their hour of gridiron tomahawking. The game will be fought in historic Chattanooga.

For Southwide attention these three scraps showed the way. A defeat for either Alabama or Tennessee may prove disastrous to championship ambitions. It meant all to the Kentuckians and Chattanooga.

The Volunteers went to the State capital with all flags flying. Dodson, their ace, was in perfect form, and Dan McGugin trained his big gun, Spears, to offset him.

At Athens, the Georgia Bulldog supporters had raked ashes over the home fires and entrained for Atlanta, where the Red and Black attack is to be unleashed on Georgia Tech's battered wall. The Jackets hoped for a break to turn back their opponents.

Two conference members carried on against intersectional foes. The Mississippi Aggies, going strong, bore down on Indianapolis for a clash with Indiana. Rickwood field, Birmingham, will be the scene of the other engagement. Marquette University, of Milwaukee, meets Auburn there.

Virginia Military Institute hoped to halt its string of losses in the game with Kentucky at Charleston, W. Va., while Washington and Lee and Virginia Poly, both upset last week, meet in a game of redemption. Which will redeem itself, however, is conceded a toss-up.

The surprise teams of last week hook-up at College Park, Md., when the Old Liners face Virginia's Cavaliers. Abner and his mates hope to stop Stevens, who was the leader against Yale.

Homer Hazel's Ole Miss team was at Baton Rouge, and the Sewanee Tigers at New Orleans to play Tulane in two interesting conference clashes in Louisiana.

Feature games between conference and nonconference teams are the South Carolina-Furman, North Carolina - Davidson and Citadel-Clemson combats.

St. Alban Defeated By St. Christopher

Richmond, Va., Nov. 12.—Overcoming a precedent established in years gone by to the effect that St. Alban was the master jinx of St. Christopher in all branches of sports, the fighting Saints of West Hampton rode the jinx all over Fitzgerald field this afternoon and walloped the Washington football Saints by the score of 21 to 0.

The charges of Coach Brenaman displayed all points of the gridiron game in running up their three touchdowns and had St. Alban at their mercy throughout the entire game.

| St. Christopher. | Position. | St. Alban's. |
|---|---|---|
| Davenport | L. E. | Ashworth |
| Betts | L. T. | Kerkan |

Joint Meeting Set For Major Leagues

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 12 By A. P.. The club owners of the National and American leagues will meet in joint session here on December 16 to decide the question of re-electing Kenesaw Mountain Landis as commissioner for another term. Commissioner Landis issued a call for a meeting today.

The National league will hold its meeting here December 14 and 15. The American league also undoubtedly will convene here prior to the joint session, although President Johnson has not "issued a call."

The American league executive is away on a vacation and will arrange for the meeting on his return.

The National league is reported to be unanimous in favor of Landis' retention for another term, and, with the support of Charles A. Comisky, owner of the Chicago White Sox, Landis' reelection is regarded as certain, baseball leaders say.

GUN CLUB FIRE.

The regular weekly shoot of the Washington Gun club will be held over the club's traps today with many events carded.

CARDS VS. KENNEDYS.

The Cardinal and the Kennedy elevens will clash tomorrow on Tidal Basin gridiron No. 3 at 1 o'clock. Cardinal players are asked to report at the Park View playgrounds at 12 o'clock.

WEST TO SEE IMPORTANT GAMES

Ohio State, Michigan Conflict May Attract 80,000.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). A crowd which may turn out to be the largest in American football history will watch Ohio State battle Michigan tomorrow in the most important game of the Western conference session and Northwestern's biggest crowd will watch the Wildcat-Chicago tilt which is the featured contest.

More than 80,000 spectators have been provided for at the Wolverine-Buckeye spectacle, and there is a possibility that the figures will show an attendance greater than the 85,000 which saw Red Grange play his farewell college game in the Ohio State stadium a year ago. That game holds the present Western conference attendance and, perhaps, the national record.

Forty-seven thousand persons will crowd into Northwestern's unfinished stadium for Chicago's annual civil war between the Maroons and the Purple.

The Michigan-Ohio battle will eliminate one of three surviving contenders for conference honors, unless it ends a tie, while Northwestern must conquer Chicago to keep its record clean.

Another big crowd will see Iowa meet Wisconsin at Madison, but the title race will not be affected by the outcome, for both teams are trailing the pack.

Other games, though well attended, will lack the drawing power of close rivalry. Illinois meets Wabash, Minnesota plays Butler and Purdue takes on Franklin. Indiana meets Mississippi A. and M., a new intersectional foe, and hopes to win, despite its poor showing in the conference.

"IRISH" EDWARDS OUT.

"Irish" Edwards, of the Michigan Blues, will be lost to his team the remainder of the season, owing to an injury to his right eye.

INSECT TEAMS PLAY.

C. U. TACKLES HOLY CROSS ELEVEN

Gallaudet, Marines Also Play on Foreign Fields.

COACH JACK M'AULIFFE and his Catholic University eleven are hunting big game today in the Cardinals' game with the unbeaten Holy Cross eleven at Worcester, Mass., McAuliffe's home town. It is the hope of the Catholic mentor and his charges that the Worcester team's spotless record will bear one big stain tonight.

A triumph over Holy Cross would indeed be a red feather in McAuliffe's cap. He has pointed the Cardinals for the clash, and if they lose it will not be due to lack of preparation. The task of beating Holy Cross is one that should draw from the Catholics almost superhuman efforts, as they are outweighed by many pounds and possess far less experience than their opponents.

A vast improvement has been noted in Catholic since the Marine game, and during the past two weeks Loyola, the powerful New Orleans outfit, was held to a 6 to 0 score and Blue Ridge was swamped by 52 to 0.

McAuliffe hopes for victory through the use of a carefully perfected forward pass attack. With Ray Foley, quarterback, hurling the leather, McAuliffe sees a good chance for his men to cause the Worcester collegians plenty of trouble.

While Catholic is carrying the District banner in the North, Gallaudet College and the Marines will be fighting battles on other foreign gridirons. The former will meet Delaware College at Newark, Del., and the Leathernecks will engage University of Detroit in the big tin town.

Gallaudet has been coming strong lately and should afford Delaware a strenuous argument, while the Marines, if they do not show the wear and tear of their recent hard schedule ought to give Detroit a hard tussle.

GEORGETOWN ALL SET FOR FIGHT WITH NAVY

overlooked in the selection of the country's best elevens.

The battle to the Navy is equally as important. The Navy already boasts of an undefeated record for the season and wants to keep it clean, while only two weeks hence the annual service struggle with the Army will arrive and there are possibilities of that game being played for the national championship.

The Army, playing Notre Dame at New York today, also is looking forward to the Chicago classic with the hope that two unbeaten teams will clash, so both service elevens will be striving for victories today in an effort to lend their meeting the glitter of a titular struggle.

Georgetown and the Navy appear to be as evenly matched as football machines can be. The line of the Hilltoppers probably has an edge on that of the Middies, but the advantage there is offset by the Navy with a slightly better backfield. In the departments of running, passing and punting, and in experience, weight and speed, the opposing clubs compare almost alike.

Close followers of the teams look for a brilliant display of football, a dog-eat-dog contest, in which the "breaks" will figure largely in the result. Many expect to see two giant lines wage a terrific fight in the middle of the field, while others anticipate a battle in the air with forward passes mainly contributing to the result.

Yet there are some who figure that Georgetown will rely on the speed of its backfield, composed of Gormley, Thompson, O'Neil and Nork, to sink the Navy by running attacks through and around the line, meanwhile looking for the Navy ball carriers to attempt the same methods and consequently making the decision depend on superiority of running attack.

In the matter of condition, the opponents again are on even terms. The Georgetown varsity escaped injuries in last week's Syracuse game while the Navy regulars did not play long enough against West Virginia Wesleyan to endanger themselves.

Stars of the first rank will be seen on both sides. All-American prospects will be presented in the persons of "Babe" Connaughton, Capt. Frank McGrath, Otto Saur, "Moose" Mosko and Carl Waite, of Georgetown, and in Hamilton, Wickhorst, Eddy and Lloyd, of Navy. The actions of these men will be watched intently by critics who seek material for all-star selections.

Coach Little, of Georgetown, is confident that his team will give the Middies their hardest game of the season, win or lose, and he is not at all pessimistic as to his chances for victory. Little believes that the sturdy Georgetown line will play the deciding part and that the backfield will afford staunch support.

Georgetown won the last gridiron engagement with the Navy in 1919 by a score of 6 to 0, two field goals from the toe of Jackie Maloney bringing about the result.

Navy and Hilltop Hikers Race at Annapolis Today

Georgetown and Navy have another matter besides football to argue over today at Annapolis. The cross-country teams of the schools will meet in a race over a 3 1/2-mile course, the finish being made between the halves of the gridiron clash on Farragut field. The harriers will start on the Academy parade grounds.

The Sportswoman

By DOROTHY E. GREENE

ANNOUNCEMENT was made last night that four members of the Washington Field Hockey club will enter the tryouts for the All-Baltimore team which will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Baltimore Country club.

The local players who will try for position on the team which will represent Washington and Baltimore in the intercity tournament at Philadelphia, November 24 to 27, are Virginia Hopkins, who will try for goal; Katherine Whitfield, for left forward; Alice Nichol, for left inner, and Miriam Faries, for center forward.

Following the tryouts the selection committee will meet to name the team for tomorrow's match with the Philadelphia Emeralds on the Baltimore Polo field at 2:30 p. m. Doubtful candidates will be put in for one half tomorrow and the final tryout will be held next Saturday, November 20, at the Mount Washington club, in Baltimore.

All members of the Washington club have been invited to attend tomorrow's game and a tea which will follow it at the Baltimore Country club.

PARK VIEW WINS.

Miss Margaret Ewers, captain of the Park View School dodge ball team, led her squad to a 40-34 victory over the Barnard School players yesterday afternoon on the Park View playground.

ST. MARTINS SCORE AGAIN.

Continuing its perfect record St. Martin's team scored another victory yesterday when it defeated the St. Joseph's squad, 53 to 8, in the Catholic Review Basketball league. The match was played on Plaza playground and was refereed by Miss Caroline Alexander, director of the ground.

CUP TO AMIDON.

Amidon school won the cup in the Garfield division of the Elementary School Dodgeball league yesterday, defeating the Dent players, 66 to 46, in the final game of the series.

The Amidon girls did not lose a game in the schedule and were led to the championship by Lois Catolph, captain, and Anna Sesso, their manager. Smallwood school took second place, with one game lost, and Dent won third, with but two defeats chalked up against them.

The trophy will be presented to the team during a special assembly next week by Miss Maude N. Parker, director of girls' activities of the municipal playground department.

MAY BOOK POLO GAME.

Word has been received from the Chestertown Polo club asking for a match to be played in Washington during the next week, but Miss Elizabeth Jackson, the local captain, is of the opinion that the outdoor polo season has been ended by the frost which has hardened the turf. Miss Jackson states, however, that the match may be arranged if the polo field is not officially closed by the department of buildings and grounds.

22 PASS TANK TEST.

Swimmers have been busy in the Jewish Community Center pool during the past month and 22 girls have passed the Red Cross beginners, and swimmers, tests, as follows:

Beginners—Ann Aein, Frances Nachman, Sylvia Werksman, Lil Tolkins, Hilda Coopersmith, Rosie Rose, Sarah Acker, Dora Bassin, Tess Silverman, Beatrice Miller, Toba Schloss, Pauline Leetvin, Rose May and Lorraine Wolfman.

RECREATIONAL EVENING.

An open invitation has been extended to young people for the "Recreatioal Evening," which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Marjorie Webster gymnasium. Preceding the program, a meeting of the executive committee will be held at the home of Miss Marion Meigs, the secretary, at 1733 Connecticut avenue, at 7 p. m.

B. Y. P. U. FORMS LEAGUE.

A basketball league has been organized by the Baptist Young People's Union, composed of the following teams: First Baptist, Second Baptist, Bethany, West Washington and Metropolitan.

The union is also organizing an all-star team to compete with local sextets as well as B. Y. P. U. teams of other cities. A meeting has been called of the league managers for Tuesday night at Wilson Normal school, at 8 o'clock.

NAVY READY FOR G. U. GAME

Coaches Undecided as to Middies' Starting Line-up.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12.—The eve of the gridiron struggle, with Georgetown found the coaches somewhat undecided as to the line-up for the start of the battle, despite announcements of the last few days that the full varsity strength that faced Michigan two weeks ago would be thrown into the breach.

It was reported tonight that there is probability of sending a combination composed largely of the chief understudies, similar to that which faced West Virginia-Wesleyan at the opening last Saturday, and let the first stringers take up the burden later on, probably in the second period. The belief prevails, however, that members of the big Blue team will be seen taking their positions when the referee sounds his whistle for the opening hositilities for, with Georgetown's strength well recognized, some fear is felt that the visitors might get the jump on the Middies.

The coaches, of course, are mindful of the nearness of the battle with the rival West Point Cadets and want to guard against injuries to the regulars, while on the other hand, they are equally as anxious to put the skids under the Hilltoppers, so that the journey to Chicago on the 27th will be with the knowledge of an unbroken string of victories.

The final tapering off practice this afternoon consisted entirely of signal and formation drill and further perfecting special plays, and the several punters, placement, and dropkickers also had an extensive session. Coaches and players alike appear none too certain of the outcome of the game. Navy supporters, however, who realize that the academy has the strongest team in years, foresee nothing but a victory for the Blue, but little or no betting has been heard of.

Three of the quartet of officials announced for the game are University of Pennsylvania men. They are Referee Bill Hollenback, Umpire E. M. Bennis and Field Judge T. K. Crooks. The head-linesman will be H. J. Obryan, of Swarthmore.

Army Eleven Offers South Carolina Date

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—The University of South Carolina has been offered a football game with the Army next year, provided the Gamecocks will play at West Point on October 8, it was announced here late today. University authorities have the proposal under consideration.

The corresponding date of this year was devoted to the University of North Carolina game and negotiations have been under way for a renewal of the engagement with the Tarheels, but they have not been concluded.

Mountaineers Ready For Center Today

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 12.—The West Virginia football squad arrived here at noon today after a trip via automobiles, trolley and train. The Mountaineers went immediately to the Chancellor hotel, West Virginia headquarters, on their arrival. After a brief sightseeing trip, the squad was taken to the local high school field, where Coach Rodgers sent his men through a brisk signal drill and punting practice in preparation for the battle with the "Praying Colonels" from Danville, Ky.

The Center-West Virginia game tomorrow is the fourth, covering a period of nineteen years. The Colonels hold the edge with two victories and one defeat.

CAPITAL TRACTION LEADS IN VOLUME OF TURNOVER

CHAIN STORES SHOW GAIN

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange was marked by the most active trading of the week, many issues recording gains while other stocks maintained their previous levels.

Capital Traction was the market leader in volume of turnover and opening ¼ up at 104 sold through to the end at the new level on the present movement. Closing quotation on this stock was 103¾ bid and 104½ asked. Washington Railway & Electric preferred picked up a ¼ with 10 shares changing hands at 90¾ while Washington Gas Light was firm at 72.

In the bank stocks bid was strong throughout the list, but sales were limited to Federal-American National which sold at 312 for 35 shares moving in four lots, and Second National Bank which gained 1½ points to 261⅛ on a five share sale. Firemen's Fire Insurance advanced to 23¾ on a turnover of 27 shares, a gain of ½ point over last preceding sale.

Dealing in the miscellaneous list was narrow in scope, trading being confined to Federal-American Co. common, which sold unchanged at 30, and Lanston Monotype, which was firm at 92⅛, two lots of 25 shares each changing hands at this level. Chapin Sacks 7 per cent preferred sold on the unlisted department to the extent of five shares priced at 75.

In the bond division D. C. Paper 6s gained to 89, Washington Gas Light 6s in the smaller denomination sold at 101½, Georgetown Gas Light 5s changed hands at 98, while Capital Traction 5s were recorded at 101.

Chain Store Sales Increase.

Sales of ten of the nation's leading chain store companies showed substantial increases in sales during October, reflecting the more favorable conditions which prevailed last month as compared with September.

October sales of the ten leading chain-store companies aggregated $60,081,701, an increase of $5,205,851, or 9.48 per cent, compared with the total of $54,875,850 reported for the corresponding month last year.

A new high record for chain-store sales for any ten-month period in the history of the business was established when sales of these ten store companies aggregated $454,638,240 for the ten months ended October 31 of the current year. This total, compared with $402,401,634 reported in the corresponding period in 1925, shows an increase of $52,236,606, or 12.9 per cent.

With an increase of $17,756,687 in sales in 1926 over the first ten months of last year, the J. C. Penney Co., led all other stores from the standpoint of dollar gain, while Neisner Bros., Inc., one of the smaller organizations, with an increase of 61.3 per cent, reported the largest percentage of gain for the period. F. W. Woolworth Stores showed the largest dollar gain for October over the corresponding month in 1925, an increase of $1,825,097. Neisner Bros., Inc., led in the percentage gain for the month with an increase of 68.5 per cent.

Following is a comparison of sales by the ten leading companies for the ten-month period ended October 31, 1926, and gain in that period:

LEADERS IN CONGRESS COLD TO TAX REFUND

ed, the strength of measured opposition is growing.

The corporations, designated by the President's spokesman as most worthy of relief from the proposed tax cut, have given indications already of disagreement with the White House viewpoint. Considerable pressure already is being brought to bear on Congress for a permanent reduction in the corporation income tax to 10 per cent, which is 3½ per cent lower than in the existing measure.

Organized opposition against the form of temporary relief suggested is coming also from the automobile and amusement industries, which say, and have considerable Senate and House support, that if any burden is to be lifted it should be the remaining war taxes.

Another line of attack, advanced by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, which has gained considerable ground, is that it is not fair to distribute a surplus which was created from every form of taxation among the limited number of income-tax payers, overlooking those who through automobile or amusement taxes did their share to make distribution possible.

Democrats Look to Tariff.

There is also the Democratic viewpoint that a general reduction should be replaced by one giving the greater relief to the small taxpayers, and the feeling in certain minority circles that any tax changes, to be efficacious, must be linked with certain tariff adjustments.

Consideration of all these factors has led to the belief in congressional circles that neither time nor the temper of the two bodies will permit of any tax bill being passed.

The rivers and harbors bill, still classified as "pork barrel" legislation; the railroad interest bill, which would reduce the rate on the $301,000,000 still owed the government from 6 to 4 per cent and apply the difference to amortization of the money owed, and the appropriation bills are sure of passage, senators of administration leanings say. The radio bill, now in conference, is privileged and may be put to a vote, but aside from this the hope for any other accomplishment is regarded as very slight.

The statement of Representative Green on the tax question yesterday was a reflection of the way in which many of the congressional leaders have taken the proposal. Mr. Green has not been won from the theory which the administration, speaking through the Treasury, advanced for so long, that any surplus accruing should be used to pay off the public debt. He supports the contention that this is no time to make permanent reductions, but he evidently has his doubts as to the manner in which the cut can be enacted.

Green Questions Fairness.

"A reduction in the tax payments of this calendar year by means of a refund could not, in my judgment, be made to work with any degree of either fairness or probability," said Representative Green, "and is not likely to be pressed. The plan of making a reduction in the payments of next year either on the personal income tax or that of corporations is workable, but if adopted there will be much conflict as to how such a reduction is to be applied. I have myself thought that the small corporations, the stockholders of which are now in effect paying more taxes than they would if doing business as copartnerships, ought to be the first to receive the benefit of any reduction that may be made. It has been persistently claimed during the hearings of the ways and means committee that the corporation tax was "passed on" or shifted to the ultimate consumer or user. If this be correct, the reduction of the tax would not benefit the corporations. However this may be as to the large corporations, it is not true as to the small ones, who have been suffering from the corporation tax while the larger corporations have been enjoying unusual prosperity.

"I do not believe that a reduction of personal income taxes by a uniform percentage for all taxpayers can be made satisfactory. While it has been done before and the original proposal was my own, the circumstances now are very different both as to the small taxpayer and those having the largest incomes."

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). The steel trade was surprised to learn today that ingot production of the U. S. Steel Corporation was now around 82 per cent of capacity, almost 2 per cent higher than the two preceding weeks, when it had been generally expected the output would be reduced this week. The high rate of operations of the corporation's plants in the Pittsburgh district, varying from 85 to 90 per cent., was said to have caused the better showing, although its mills in the Chicago district are only at 75 per cent.

The extra dividend of $34,800,000 distributed to common shareholders of General Motors Corporation with the regular quarterly payment of $15,225,000, a total of $50,025,000, brought distributions to holders of common stock from this year's earnings to $103,947,436 in contrast to $61,935,221 in 1925.

October was a notable month for the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, freight movement and operating performance exceeding that of any previous month on record. Earnings are expected to be the best for any October. The road hauled 548,305 cars in the month, of which 373,607 were loaded.

Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. and subsidiaries, including Ray Consolidated Copper, had profit of $2,018,853 for the third quarter, before depletion and Federal taxes, against $1,720,121 in the preceding quarter. Profit for the first nine months this year was $5,601,422 before depletion and Federal taxes.

Baldwin Locomotive Works has orders for 41 heavy freight engines from the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, 25 switching locomotives from the Seaboard Air Line and 13 additional locomotives from the Centrail Railroad of Brazil.

Simms Petroleum Co. earned 95 cents a share in the first nine months this year in contrast to $3.38 a share in the same period of 1925. Net profit fell to $653,765 from $2,307,760.

October sales of National Cloak & Suit declined to $5,510,480 in comparison with $6,999,422 in October last year, and for the ten months of 1926 to $32,953,098 from $36,836,180 in the same period of 1925.

Howard B. Smith, trust officer of the Bank of America, has been designated by Gov. Smith to represent New York State at the annual conference on taxation in Philadelphia, beginning next Monday.

Orders for 11,000 tons of cast iron pipe have been distributed by New York city, about 3,700 tons going to U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry, 2,500 to Warren Foundry & Pipe, and the balance to various domestic producers.

The Southern Pacific has placed additional orders for 15,000 tons of rails, 8,000 with Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad and 7,000 with Bethlehem Steel.

CAPITAL SADDENED BY DEATH OF LOVED CZAR OF THE HOUSE

NORRIS, POLITICAL FOE, FIRST TO PAY TRIBUTE

Leaders of All Parties United in Sorrow by Passing of Veteran.

(By the Associated Press.)

Intimate memories that span a full half-century made the passing of Uncle Joe Cannon an occasion of universal sorrow in Washington.

No other public man of his time was at once so strongly hated politically and so strongly loved personally. The heads of the leaders of all parties were bowed when they heard of his death.

The Capital had not seen him for many months, but he was one whose image lingered clear-cut in the memories of the great and the lowly. For a generation his slight figure was a familiar part of the unfolding panorama of national politics and government, and in that period he became just as truly a landmark of the Capital City itself.

He is best remembered, perhaps, as the unbending Speaker, ruling the House as if it had been a schoolroom, and then accepting unbendingly the political thrashing that meant the end of his political mastery, but left him still a patriarch and an honored friend in the eyes of his associates.

Overthrow Is Classic Story.

The story of the struggle that saw his overthrow is one of the classics of reminiscent Washington. It has become a part of history how for weeks he warded off the inevitable, refusing with iron will to give his enemies the opportunity of recognition on the House floor, and thus bottling up the resolution which was to overturn House rules and place the conduct of business in the hands of the members themselves.

One of the first to pay tribute at his bier was George W. Norris, of Nebraska, now an insurgent Senator and in those days the insurgent House member who led the fight on "Cannonism." It was Norris who carried in his pocket for many days the fateful resolution changing the manner of committee appointments and the general method of House procedure before he finally found an opportunity to break through the steel-clad armor of the Speaker's watchfulness. Once he got the floor, the Nebraskan precipitated a day-and-night battle that did not end until the days of "Czar Cannon" had been terminated.

"I do not believe he ever did anything that he did not believe was right," said Senator Norris yesterday. "There never was anything personal in our fight. We represented different ideas, that was all. He had a wonderful record of public service."

Scattered among the tributes of his old colleagues were many other words of praise from those who were farthest from his school of thought politically. Senator Borah, of Idaho, described him as a "picturesque figure, belonging to another era, but a great American and a patriot of the Lincoln type." Senator Wadsworth called him "one of the greatest figures American politics has ever known." Senator Glass, of Virginia, declared him one of the most diligent members who ever sat in Congress, and the protector of the Federal Treasury against "raids of all descriptions."

The Capital memories of Uncle Joe in the latter, less active years of his service are likewise vivid, and tinctured with strong affection. Toward the end he was a broken man physically. He took little part in House proceedings, and his favorite place of leisure was the quarters of the National Press club, just below the roof of a high office building. Forsaking the more tense pastimes of his younger days, he spent many evenings at one of the club domino tables, matching "fives" and "twos" and "blanks" with other members of Congress or his friends among the correspondents.

The game showed beyond question the slowing up of his mental faculties and the slow decline of his once positive and resplendent will. He often made mistakes. But they were looked upon through the eyes of affection and indulgence; and somehow, no matter how bad his luck on the draw or how poorly he played, he always went away the conceded victor.

Dawes to Attend Funeral.

Vice President Dawes, who plans to attend the funeral, declared the country lost one of its most outstanding figures in the death of Mr. Cannon.

"He was a picturesque character, who always excited general interest and will always be given a prominent place among American statesmen," he added. "In his long service as chairman of the House appropriations committee, he was a fearless exponent of economy and common sense. He was a tireless student of economic truth and financial fact."

Senator Deneen, Republican, Illinois, said Mr. Cannon was not only a national character but had become a political institution in himself.

Unknown to his most intimate friends, Senator Norris carried the resolution that stripped the Speaker of his most powerful weapon in his pocket for 30 days and almost wore out the paper before he had an opportunity to present it, he declared yesterday in reminiscing over his famous fight against "Cannonism."

When the resolution finally was offered and later adopted, it was accomplished through a ruling of the Speaker himself that served as a boomerang. The Speaker had been warned of the Nebraskan's plan and was on his guard, but when he held that a census resolution was in order under the Constitution regardless of the House rules, he opened the way for the Norris resolution.

As soon as the census resolution was disposed of, Mr. Norris offered his proposal, contending it was privileged under the Constitution, which provides that the House shall have authority to determine its own rules. A point of order was made against it and Speaker Cannon, foreseeing that his ruling on the question would be appealed to the membership, postponed action so that absent regular Republicans could be mustered to sustain him. As a result the House remained in session continuously for two days and one night, but when the Speaker did announce his decision upholding the point or order, he was overruled on an appeal, and the resolution was adopted.

Nation Has Lost Beloved Figure, President Wires

President Coolidge's Special Train, Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 12 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge was informed of the death of "Uncle Joe" Cannon this afternoon while en route from Kansas City to Washington and immediately sent a message of sympathy to Miss Helen Cannon, daughter of the former Speaker.

"In the passing of your distinguished father, Joseph G. Cannon, the nation has lost one of its most able, interesting and beloved public men of the last generation," said the telegram. "He will always rank as a great American. His long service in the House of Representatives, his devotion to his country, his faithfulness, his great courage and force of character made him a man that roused the pride of his party associates and commanded the respect of his opponents. His great influence gave his country a better government. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in expressing to you and his other loved ones our deep sympathy."

UNCLE JOE CANNON DIES IN 91ST YEAR

for experimenting with a flying machine," he said.

Cannon jumped half way out of his chair. He glared at Langley, imagining he had lost his mind.

"Great heavens," he shouted. "A flying machine to ride up in the air?"

Langley told him it was exactly that. The committee roared. Being willing, however, to take a gambler's chance, and impressed by Langley's sincerity, the chairman, without a word to other members, approved the expenditure, fought for it in the House and got it.

And then, when the Langley flying ship fell into the Potomac river, the newspapers attacked "Uncle Joe" from Maine to the Pacific. He was cartooned as Mother Shipton riding through the air on a broom.

J.O.U.A.M. Members To Visit President

Members of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics from various parts of the country will convene here today and tomorrow for their annual memorial services in observance of Armistice day. President Coolidge will receive a delegation of the visitors at the White House at 11 o'clock this morning.

Following the reception a conference will be held in the Congress Hall hotel, and a banquet will be held in the evening. The principal ceremonies of the convention will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock, when ceremonies will be held at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National cemetery.

Woman Hit by Auto; Four Others Injured

Five persons were injured in traffic accidents yesterday. Mrs. Harriet Pepperman, 25 years old, 1760 Kilbourne place northwest, was injured when she attempted to pass between an automobile at the curb and one being parked, on Mount Pleasant street near Kenyon street northwest. She was treated in Emergency hospital.

Mrs. G. W. Duvall, 40 years old, 3662 Q street northwest, suffered fractures to the right arm when she was knocked down by an automobile while crossing the street in front of the White House. Others injured were Robert Keiser, 14 years old, 4807 Arkansas avenue northwest; Claude Smith, 14, 712 Quincy street northwest, and Timothy Regan, 1241 B street southeast.

BIG TRUCK RUNS WILD, SCATTERING CROWDS

Downtown Pedestrians Scurry Before Vehicle That Wrecks Auto in Plunge.

Pedestrians in the vicinity of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue were sent scurrying to safety yesterday when a 5-ton truck, owned by George B. Mullin & Co., plunged backward down Fourteenth street for nearly a block, crashing to a stop against the automobile of Traffic Policeman J. R. Jenkins, parked across from the Willard hotel.

Alexander Otey, colored, 39 years old, 422 N street northwest, driver of the truck, told police he lost control of the vehicle when the brakes failed to hold after his crankshaft broke at the top of the hill. A lamppost was torn from its base and Jenkins' automobile virtually demolished before the huge truck was brought to a halt upon the sidewalk, a few feet from the show window of a shop.

Otey remained at the wheel until just before the crash, when he jumped to safety, bystanders said. His helper, Earl Ward, also colored, left the truck when it first started back down the hill. Otey is being held at the First precinct.

Bids on Boiler Work.

DELEGATION TO ASK PRESIDENT TO JOIN CITIZEN ASSOCIATION

Formal Invitation to Be Extended as Drive for Members Opens Today.

RUDOLPH STATEMENT URGES APPLICATIONS

General Campaign Will Be Under Direction of Jesse C. Suter as Chairman.

Citizens' associations are the only medium through which residents of Washington may express their organized will on the government of the city, Cuno H. Rudolph, president of the board of commissioners, declared in a statement made public yesterday.

"I urge every citizen of Washington to join a citizens' association," he said.

Mr. Rudolph's statement was the opening fanfare in the membership drive of the associations, which will be formally begun today to continue a week.

President Coolidge will be given opportunity to become the first convert to the organized citizenship of the associations when a formal invitation will be extended him at the White House this afternoon by a committee of citizens composed of Jesse C. Suter, general chairman of the drive; James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and Maj. Gen. Eli A. Helmick.

Wilson Was Member.

President Wilson joined the West End Citizens association in 1919 when the federation conducted its first citywide membership campaign which added something like 20,000 members to the rolls of the associations. "Let's make it unanimous," is the slogan of the present campaign, and in adddition to President Coolidge, cabinet members and other prominent government officals will be invited to join the associations in whose territories they live.

General headquarters of the drive will be in the building formerly occupied by the Citizens Bank at 1336 New York avenue northwest. Gen. Helmick will have charge of the downtown drive,which will be under direction of the general committee, of whch Mr. Suter is chairman. Harry N. Stull, president of the Stanton Park Citizens association, and recorder of the citizens' advisory council, will be in charge of the general headquarters. Police and firemen yesterday were instructed to accept applications for membership in the associations.

Midcity Association Appoints Drive Committee

The executive committee of the Midcity Citizens association met in Thomson school last night to determine methods of procedure to be followed during the membership campaign. A prize for the member obtaining the most recruits and a booby prize for the one obtaining the least will be awarded.

G. Howard Dunnington was appointed chairman of the drive committee. The canvass for new members, Mr. Dunnington stated, will be as thorough as possible, each committeeman being assigned a particular duty. George T. Bowerman was made secretary of the committee, which expects to enroll between 500 and 600 new members.

Suburban Association Votes Part in Campaign

Members of the Northwest Suburban Citizens association, meeting last night in the Janney school, passed a last-minute motion to cooperate with the Federation of Citizens Associations in its drive for organized citizenship opening today. A drive committee of eight persons, under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. B. Keeler, was appointed.

An executive committee was named, consisting of J. B. Kincer, L. R. Burgess, Mrs. J. Jerome Lightfoot and R. B. Bender. The association passed a resolution recognizing the Top Notch bulletin as its official organ, indorsing the work of its editor, A. P. Seiler. The regular meeting night was changed to the first Monday in the month.

Groups Refleect Capital Citizenry, Yaden Asserts

"The Federation of Citizens associations and like organizations are more representative of the people of Washington than any other organizations. That is the reason congress refers matters of importance to them," James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens associations, declared before the Brightwood Citizens association last night.

Jesse Suter, chairman of the Citizens' association membership drive, asserted that civic organizations need revivals the same as churches. He urged the Brightwood members to sign up all prospects in the present drive regardless of the district in which the prospect lived.

A resolution was adopted requesting the President of the United States to name Col. J. Franklin Bell for a further detail of three years as engineer commissioner upon the expiration of his present term.

President Charles Ray presided.

Woman Flimflammed Out of $60.

Using the age-old pocketbook trick, a middle-aged colored woman yesterday flimflammed Emma Bailey, colored, 2913 Dumbarton avenue northwest, out of $60, Emma told police. The other woman was to go for change, but never came back.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES CIRCLES OVER CAPITAL

HALTED ON WAY TO RACES

The navy dirigible, Los Angeles, visited Washington for the first time since June, 1925, yesterday afternoon, when it passed over the city and Annapolis on its way from Lakehurst, N. J., to Plantation Flats, 9 miles north of Hampton Roads, Va., which trip was canceled later.

The flight was for training purposes, the ship leaving the hangar at 7:10 o'clock yesterday morning, and the mooring mast at 10:54.

The ship appeared here about 2:30 o'clock and circled over the city until after 3 o'clock, accompanied by two naval airplanes from Anacostia. The sight of the silver, cigar-shaped balloon gliding steadily over the city thrilled thousands.

It had first been planned that the ship would sail on to Plantation Flats, where it would be moored to its tender, the U. S. S. Patoka, and be on hand for the Schneider cup races today.

At 3:30 o'clock, however, a message received from Lieut-Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl, of the dirigible, stated that it would not go to Plantation Flats, but would return to Lakehurst on account of necessary modification of its water recovery units. These units are used for condensation of exhaust gases into water ballast, which can be used to lighten the airship while maneuvering.

Due to freezing temperature at the altitude of flight, no water ballast would have been available, and the expensive helium would have to have been valved to lighten the ship. The commander of the ship deemed it unnecessary to waste helium for training flight purposes. The ship reached its home station at Lakehurst, N. J., and was berthed in its hangar at 7 o'clock last night.

Harvest Festival Pageant of Nations

The third annual harvest festival, given under the auspices of the community center department, will be given in Central High school auditorium tonight as one of the closing features of American education week.

The festival will be presented under the direction of Marie Moore Forrest, assisted by Bess Davis Schreiner. Characteristic events from all parts of the world have been chosen for the festival, including Greece, Palestine, China, the Balkans and America, concluding with a symbolic spectacle of the universal harvest of all nations. The dances are being directed by Caroline McKinley.

U. S. PLANE WRECKED IN CUP RACE TEST

Lieut. Tomlinson, Schneider Trophy Contestant, Has Narrow Escape.

Norfolk, Va, Nov. 12 (By A. P.). Fate that two weeks ago sent one of the navy's most daring race pilots, Lieut. Frank H. Conant 2d, plunging to death with his plane in the waters of Chesapeake bay, again stepped in today to lengthen the odds against the United States in the international seaplane race for the Jacques Schneider trophy here tomorrow afternoon. One of the three planes that were picked to match their speed and the skill of the pilots against the pick of the Italian flying forces, the only other competitor in the event this year, a Packard-motored Curtis biplane that was said to have made a speed of 258 miles an hour, was wrecked in a test flight and is definitely out of the race. Its pilot, Lieut. William G. Tomlinson, barely escaped with his life.

While the question of the speed of the various entrants has been a carefully guarded secret, reports have persisted that the Italians, under the personal urging of Premier Mussolini, had developed a new type of craft that was just a little bit faster than the American racers. This supposed initial handicap the Americans were hoping to overcome with superior flying skill.

also militate against pyramiding values, it has been pointed out.

The information, under the plan, would not be made public, but would be solely for the assessor's use.

In Delaware, Mr. Houston said, a copy of every realty deed is filed in the assessor's office.

The committee has made known that it is dissatisfied with the system embracing the offices of the assessor, collector and recorder of deeds, and in testimony relating to the latter yesterday, it thought it had put its finger on the trouble.

It was learned that the bureau of efficiency, at the request of Chairman Madden, of the House appropriation committee, has made and concluded a study of the recorder's office. The report was submitted yesterday but was not made public.

District Auditor Donovan told the committee that the recorder's office was fifteen months behind in the file of deeds. This, it was explained, makes it difficult to get up-to-date information on the amounts involved in property transfers.

Mr. Gibson said he had been informed by a prominent government official that he had asked the recorder's office if there was a lien outstanding on a certain piece of property and had been told that the office could not furnish the information, that it would have to be obtained through a title company.

There have been frequent indications in the past that the recorder and what might be called the District building contingent having to do with finance, did not work in harmony. The recorder fought vigorously the measure at the last session placing him under the jurisdiction of the budget bureau and District commissioners.

Other Cities Cited.

The personnel of the offices of assessor and collector are not under criticism, it was made plain. As Mr. Gibson put it informally, he is of the opinion that the tax burden is not being spread equitably over the taxpayers, though he has reached no conlusions.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Gibson indicated that he believed the assessor should have more field assistants, though Mr. Richards seemed to think that the information on property transfers was of more importance. Mr. Gibson submitted a list of sixteen cities which showed that the assessor here works with a smaller number of field assistants by far than any of them. He has five, he said, which means that each one must assess 35,000 pieces of property.

In New York the ratio is an assistant for every 9,100 pieces, and in Boston 1 for every 2,100 pieces. Washington would need 22 field assistants to bring it up to the average pieces of property examined in the list, it was said.

Defends His Assessments.

Defending his assessments even under the biennial assessment plan, Mr. Richards presented figures to show that in one year the realty values as represented by actual prices paid was $58,000,000 and his assessment was $55,000,000, while in another year his appraisal was $3,000,000 more than the value as represented by sales.

To show how property values jump, he cited a piece on Vermont avenue near L street which rose from $103,000 to $200,000 in two years, and this involved the land only. On K street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth, a plot jumped from $20,000 in June, 1919, to $67,000 in April, 1922. It was at this juncture that Mr. Gibson asked if the Washington real estate men had migrated to Florida.

Incidentally, Mr. Richards said that a line drawn a mile and a half from Fourteenth and G streets and then describing a circle would represent the area paying 37½ per cent of the city's realty taxes.

Proposes Annual Payment.

Collector Towers advocated one payment of taxes a year, preferably in November, instead of semiannually as is now the case.

Delinquent taxes on June 30 together with outstanding claims against certain public utilities totaled $6,300,000, it was testified, but of this the great bulk comprised current taxes just straggling in. What might be called as really back taxes totaled about $1,300,000. Most of this is made up of claims against certain utilities involving taxes, the legality of which is being contested.

Mr. Towers testified that his office collected $200,000 in penalties last year, so he considered the District was about as well off in the matter of collections as any other city.

A report that the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. owed the District approximately $250,000 in taxes, brought five officials of the company to the meeting yesterday. They got into the record the statement that they not only do not owe the District a penny, but of all the city's utilities they are the best and promptest taxpayers.

Phone Company Pays Tax.

The telephone company, as a matter of fact, Mr. Donovan testified, is the only utility paying the so-called structure-in-space tax which the other utilities are contesting and which accounts for a lot of the back taxes. Every year the telephone company pays this tax promptly and with its remittance forwards a written protest, so if the levy is held to be unfair it will get its refund.

Getting back to the per capita tax, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Houston, discussing it with Mr. Richards, developed that there are about 85,000 taxpayers out of a population of 500,000. Of this 500,000 it was estimated 200,000 were family heads or of the class who should pay a tax, therefore nearly a third are not doing their part, as Gibson and Houston see it.

The committee will meet again Monday at 10 o'clock.

Lectures on Drama At Corcoran Hall

Prof. Albert Gilmer, of Tufts college, authority on the drama, will give three semipublic lectures in Corcoran hall under the auspices of George Washington university Monday and Tuesday. Prof. Gilmer is widely known as a teacher at Chicago university and Harvard college.

The lectures to be given in Corcoran hall begin Monday morning at 11 o'clock. "Stage Settings in the Modern Manner Abroad and Prominent Personalities in the World of the Theater," will be the first. The Monday evening lecture is "The Drama Today in England, France and Germany." Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Dr. Gilmer will lecture on "The Drama and the Stage Being Made Over in Moscow and Riga."

Mrs. Irma Lindheim To Address Forum

Mrs. Irma Lindheim, newly elected president of the national Hadassah organization, will be the principal speaker at the second meeting of the Jewish forum, which will be held Monday evening at the Jewish Community center, Sixteenth and Q streets.

The Hadassah is the women's Zionist organization of America, and maintains hospitals and clinics in the Holy Land. Mrs. Lindheim is the only woman ever admitted to the Jewish Institute of Religion, with the right to qualify as a rabbi.

Auto Crash Basis of Suit.

Bennett H. Fowler, 1506 Monroe street northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the Klean Rite Auto Co. to recover $50,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell the plaintiff says that on March 29 while at Fourteenth and Church streets northwest he was struck by the automobile of the defendant concern.

Sullivan Divorce Bill Dismissed.

The limited divorce bill filed by Mrs. Anna M. Sullivan against Harry A. Sullivan, July 22, 1924, was dismissed yesterday by Justice Bailey in equity court for want of prosecution.

"MICHAEL STROGOFF" OPENS NEW RIALTO

Premiere Showing Is Held of Verne Picture Amid Many Changes.

Members of the diplomatic corps, representatives of the press, official and social Washington were guests last evening of the Rialto theater management at a pre-premiere showing of "Michael Strogoff," a continental picturization of a novel by that name from the pen of Jules Verne. The play has the honor of ushering in "The Greater Rialto," embracing many changes in this film house.

Patrons of "Greater Rialto," according to announcement in the foreword of last evening's program, "will find a deeper and wider stage, equipped with the latest and most ingenious lighting and scenic devices, which permits elaborate picture presentations and prologues; a greatly augmented orchestra who will present under the baton of a distinguished conductor music programs of the choicest classical and popular selections; in short, every factor of comfort, convenience and enjoyment."

The play last evening was preceded by an orchestral number of elaborate proportions, a classical dance by the Max Pemberton dancers and a Russian barytone solo by Ivan Kozekavitck.

Upshaw and Andrews Confer at Treasury

Representative Upshaw, of Georgia, lame-duck dry champion of the House, conferred with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, chief of prohibition enforcement, at the Treasury yesterday. Both he and Gen. Andrews refused to discuss their talk.

"That reminds me of the old maid who declared, when she was asked if she was going to be married, that 'there is no truth in it, but thank God for the rumor,'" Representative Upshaw told newspaper men in reply to a statement that it was rumored he was seeking appointment as a dry administrator.

Members Enrolled By Master Barbers

Thirty-five new members were enrolled yesterday in the newly organized Master Barbers Association of America, an organization for the protection, welfare and betterment of the tonsorial profession. The association will meet the first and third Thursdays of each month in Typographical temple, 423 G street northwest.

At the meeting of the association in the temple Monday night, President A. Tanner appointed various committees for welfare, protective and membership work.

Plea of Not Guilty Entered by Proctor

John Proctor, one of the four men indicted on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the killing of Policeman Leo W. K. Busch, was arraigned before Justice Hitz in criminal court yesterday and entered a plea of not guilty.

Attorneys Archer, Bennett & Sanford, counsel for Proctor, were allowed ten days in which to withdarw this plea and attack the indictment. No date was set for the trial. Proctor was returned from a Baltimore hospital last Thursday.

Two Overcome by Gas Poisoning.

Overcome by gas after blowing out a lighted gas jet at 2320 Chamberlain street northwest early yesterday, Alice Vaughn, colored, 36 years old, and her 5-year-old daughter, Viola, both of Widewater, Va., were treated at Freedmen's hospital for gas poisoning.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS OWNERS AGAIN NAME DISMER PRESIDENT

117 TAKEN IN AS NEW MEMBERS AT ARCADIA
